JUDGE HALEY, THREE OTHERS SLAIN

FINAL MOMENTS—Judge Harold J. Haley and other hostages are forced from the Hall of Justice toward a waiting getaway van by San Quentin inmates James D. McClain (left) and Ruchell Magee. Moments later Judge Haley, McClain and another inmate and an accomplice were killed and a deputy district attorney, two women jurors and Magee wounded in a burst of gunfire as officers attempted to block their escape. 4 Hurt In Civic Center Shootings

Judge Harold J. Haley of Marin Superior Court and three others were slain today when gunfire erupted during a daring break for freedom from the Hall of Justice by three San Quentin inmates.

Haley, 65, one of four hostages taken by the inmates and an accomplice, was shot in the face when law officers blocked the escape path of a captured van.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Gary W. Thomas, also a hostage, suffered three bullet wounds, but was expected to survive. A juror, Maria Graham, 48, of 587 Tamarack Drive, San Rafael, was shot in the right arm.

A second juror taken hostage, Joyce Rodoni, 25, of Point Reyes Station, was not injured but taken to Marin General Hospital in near shock.

Also killed were two of the inmates, one of them identified as William Arthur Christmas, 38, and a third man, tentatively identified as the accomplice who made the break possible.

"They were carting bodies away like nothing I've ever seen," said Independent-Journal reporter Paul Peterzell, on the scene.

Authorities said one of the prisoners, James David McClain, 37, was being retried before Haley on a charge of stabbing a guard at San Quentin in March. A hung jury ended the first trial in June.

Christmas and Magee were witnesses in McLain's trial.

One man in the court as a spectator — later identified only as Burrows — launched the morning of terror when he flashed a weapon after entering Haley's courtroom.

Haley and the hostages were bound with wire. All were marched outside — Haley with a gun at his throat — and ushered into a yellow Hertz rental van.

RACED TO SCENE

Dozens of sheriff's officers and San Rafael police raced to the scene. Employees and visitors in the Hall of Justice cowered under desks and chairs.

The van began pulling away and a witness, Craig Steen of Novato, said police blocked its path. Steen said muffled gunfire then seemed to come from inside the van.

Steen said the exchange of fire between the van and police continued for about two minutes.

Two weapons, an M-1 semiautomatic carbine with a folding metal stock and a .12 gauge shotgun, were recovered. They were drenched with blood.

First reports said the killers carried dynamite but six sticks found in the van turned out to be railroad flares.

Thomas was shot three times. He and the two others wounded were taken to Marin General Hospital. Magee was said to be in surgery. Maria Graham was reportedly wounded with one shot in the right arm.

The terrifying incident which began at 10:45 a.m. lasted 45 minutes.

WANTED TO BE FREE

Five ambulances rushed to the scene of the shooting near the south archway of the Hall of Justice. Police cars swarmed to the area. County employees leaned out windows to watch the macabre events.

This was the scene as the escape try unfolded:

James Layne, a bailiff in Haley's courtroom, said he had seen Burrows in the courtroom yesterday. The man had asked whether the trial under way was the McClain case. Layne said it was.

This morning, Layne said, he noticed the spectator again, saw a leather case and just as he was walking over to Burrows to check the bag, the man whipped it open and pulled out a weapon and handed it to one of the prisoners.

Layne said the accomplice then whirled and from underneath a trench coat he was wearing brandished an automatic carbine and said, "Freeze".

Layne sat down. McClain yelled, "For the love of God, take these handcuffs off."

W.E. Twells, a San Quentin guard, said he was standing outside the courtroom when Magee came out with a gun and ordered him into the court to undo handcuffs.

Guard John J. Higgins, was in court and he said later he had also seen the spectator before.

McClain, according to reports, walked behind the judge and put his weapon to Haley's head. Twells and another guard, John J. Higgins, were told to lie on their faces. Layne was thrust on the floor.

FIVE AMBULANCES

"I want to be a free man," one of the inmates said.

McClain gave the shocked jury a speech on the injustice of accusations. He had been acting as his own attorney in the trial.

Two other bailiffs were grabbed from the hallway outside and pulled into the courtroom.

There was indecision on what to do; on how many hostages were to be taken.

"I buried my face in a crack and just heard what was going on after that," Layne said.

Next door, in an adjoining courtroom, Deputy Dist. Atty. J. Michael Anthony, said he heard the rattling of chains. He thought nothing of it at first, he said, but later went next door to investigate.

"All I saw was Haley and a guy with a gun at Haley's head and he was marching him down the hallway," Anthony said.

Anthony said he closed the main courtroom door and locked it.

Word of the weapon-bristling escape try quickly spread around the Hall of Justice. Workers dived under furniture as warnings were sounded. Doors were locked. In the sheriff's office on the floor above, matron Helen Laffsa said a Cal-

LUCKY TO BE ALIVE

Bailiff Credits A 'Distraction'

Court bailiff John V. Higgins came about as close as one can to becoming another of today's casualties at the Hall of Justice.

Higgins said he's alive because of "a distraction" which enabled him to run from the business end of an automatic rifle thrust in his stomach by the "spectator" who aided three San Quentin inmates in making a fatal escape attempt from a Superior Court courtroom.

Higgins said he was in the bailiff's waiting room when the prisoners made their break for freedom.

Learning of the escape attempt from a courtroom reporter, Higgins said he tried unsuccessfully to find a weapon. Unable to do so, he then called into the sheriff's office informing them of the break.

The 45-year-old bailiff said he then rushed to the north entrance of the Hall of Justice where he flagged down a sheriff's patrol car returning from its beat.

Grabbing a shotgun from the vehicle, Higgins said he rushed back to the north entrance where he hid behind a concrete wall awaiting the prisoners' exit.

"A few minutes later a procession of about six or seven including Judge (Harold J.) Haley came out," he explained.

"I didn't say anthing. One of the prisoners had a gun at Judge Haley's head," he continued.

Then according to Higgins, a fourth armed man, possibly the courtroom spectator came out and Higgins was spotted kneeling behind the wall.

"One of the men yelled 'Kill that mutha, kill him, kill him,' " Higgins said.

"I'm going to kill you," Higgins quoted the plainclothed man as telling him.

"He told me to get up and lay my shotgun at his feet," Higgins said, adding that he complied with the demand.

"Now I going to kill you, mutha," Higgins again quoted the man as saying.

"Just then there was a distraction in the parking lot which drew their (the prisoners and spectator's) attention and I started backing up, with my hands raised above my head. I

Judge Haley's Marin Career Long, Noted

Judge Harold J. Haley, 65, shot to death today after being abducted from his courtroom by gunmen, was named to the superior court bench by Governor Edmund G. Brown in 1964 after serving as judge of Marin Municipal Court since 1956.

He lived at 156 Peacock Drive, San Rafael.

A native of San Rafael, he attended public elementary and high schools in San Rafael and received his law degree from the University of San Francisco in 1928.

He was admitted to the bar in 1928 and conducted a private law practice in San Rafael until his appointment as assistant district attorney of Marin County in 1933.

He served as district attorney from 1943 to 1947, when he returned to private practice, and then served as San Rafael City Attorney from 1949 to 1956.

He was appointed to the municipal court bench in 1956 and won re-election in 1958 and 1964.

Haley was a former chairman of the Republican Central Committee of Marin County; past president of the Marin County Bar Association, Community Chest and Mount Tamalpais Parlor of the Native Sons of the Golden West; and past chairman of the Marin County Catholic Social Service board.

He was a member of San Rafael Elks lodge, Serra Club and the Marin Rod and Gun Club.

Survivors include his wife, Gertrude; three daughters, Patricia Davis, Carol Atkinson and Joan Fennone, and several grandchildren.

I-J Photographer Sees Friend Sprawled Dead

Independent-Journal photographer Jim Kean was told by armed San Quentin prisoners to "be sure to get a picture of the judge" only to see the judge sprawled dead moments later.

Kean broke only once in telling his story of the events at the Marin County Civic Center today which ended in the death of Superior Court Judge Harold J. Haley — Kean's lifelong friend.

The frightening hour began for Kean as he was returning to the I-J building from an assignment. He heard on a police radio in his car that an armed man was in a courtroom at the Civic Center.

Unable to reach the I-J newsroom by radio, Kean headed for the Civic Center and took an elevator to the courtroom floor.

A ceiling-high walled planter is in the center of the corridor outside the elevator. To one side of the planter wall stood Marin County Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos and several court bailiffs.

The planter wall blocked Kean's view of the front of the courtroom but he heard Mountanos say to the men with him, "OK, let's take it easy. Everything's going to be all right."

Kean walked around to the other side of the planter wall where he found himself face-

PAPER LATE TO REPORT THE TRAGEDY

If your Independent-Journal was delivered late this evening it was because the press run was delayed to permit fullest possible coverage of the melee at the Marin County Hall of Justice.

Covering the story at the hall of justice were I-J photographers Jim Kean and Roger Bockrath and reporters Jeff Greer, Erik M. Ingram, Paul E. Peterzell and Wat Takeshita. Reporter Larry Mowell was at Marin General Hospital.

On rewrite in the I-J San Rafael office were reporters David Dietz and C. P. McCarthy.

UAR, Israel Agree To Cease-Fire

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United Arab Republic and Israel have agreed to enter into a cease-fire beginning at 6 p.m. EDT, Friday, Secretary of State William P. Rogers announced.

"We welcome this statesmanlike action taken by the leaders of the governments concerned. We hope this important decision will advance the prospects for a just and lasting peace in the Middle East."

After official spokesman Robert J. McCloskey read Rogers' statement, responsible officials indicated that a cease-fire would also formally be in effect between Israel and Jordan.

The officials said that neither Israel nor Jordan had ever formally disavowed the pertinent U.N. cease-fire resolutions between the two countries.

The officials were referring to the original cease-fire which ended the 1967 Mideast War and the subsequent Nov. 22, 1967, security council resolution which laid the basis for a future political settlement in the Middle East.

"We have just been informed by the governments of the United Arab Republic and Israel of their acceptance of the U.S. proposal for a standstill cease-fire to come into effect at 2200 Greenwich Mean Time today, Friday, August 7," Rogers said in a statement.

U.S. officials were extremely pleased by the agreement to stop the fighting on the UAR-Israeli front which is considered to be the most serious area of Middle Eastern hostilities.

The main problem along the Israeli-Jordanian front are the Palestinian Commando units which are not controlled by the Jordanian government but which operate from Jordanian territory. Some of these Commando groups have indicated they will honor the cease-fire while others have stated they will not be bound by it.

Secretary Rogers' announcement was a first step in his Mideast peace initiative of June 29 which had been addressed to United Arab Republic, Jordan, and Israel.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

South Koreans Gripe

SEOUL (UPI) — South Korean political leaders rejected today U.S. Ambassador William J. Porter's contention that their country should spend more money for defense.

Rep. Kim Chang-kun, spokesman for the ruling Democratic Republican party, said South Korea already had the largest defense budget in Southeast Asia, except for South Vietnam, and could not afford to pay more.

"Mr. Porter's remarks could even create an impression of interfering in South Korea's internal affairs," Kim said.

Rep. Kim Young-sam, a ranking opposition politician, said Porter had misjudged South Korea's economic growth.

The dispute added to the friction created by the recent U.S. decision to withdraw 20,000 of its 62,000 men from South Korea.

France Ends A-Tests

PAPEETE, Tahiti (UPI) — France set off the last hydrogen bomb of its 1970 testing program Thursday on the 25th-anniversary of the atomic blast that destroyed Hiroshima. Military sources said it was a success.

The explosion in the atmosphere above Mururoa Lagoon, 800 miles scutheast of Tahiti, was part of a program to reduce France's hydrogen device enough to fit into missiles.

Military sources said the 1970 nuclear tests in the Pacific were the most ambitious France has conducted. It was France's 39th nuclear explosion since the first was detonated in the Sahara Feb. 13, 1960.

Film Stars Wed

LONDON (UPI) — Actor Albert Finney today married French actress Anouk Aimee in a small civil ceremony.

It was the second marriage for Finney, 34, who became a star in the British film "Tom Jones." Miss Aimee, 33, was divorced from her third husband last year. She starred in "A Man and a Woman."

A spokesman at the Kensington Register Office said after the ceremony the couple did not use a wedding ring.

Cholera Hits Soviet

MOSCOW (UPI) — Soviet authorities today fought to contain an outbreak of cholera by quarantining the Volga River port of Astrachan and warning Russia's 240 million citizens to take special precautions to sterilize food.

Newspapers urged all citizens to boil water and milk, scrub vegetables and toast bread to prevent spread of the scourge.

The Health Ministry announced Thursday the disease appeared in Astrachan, a city of 361,000 on the delta where the Volga Flows into the Caspian Sea, and cases had been verified on the Black Sea riviera west of the Caspian.

Col. Sanders Resigns

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — Col. Harland Sanders, whose white goatee and black string tie became synonymous with the "finger-lickin good" Kentucky fried chicken he promoted, has stepped down as director of the corporation.

Sanders, 80, sold the franchising business he built from nothing for $2 million in 1964, but had remained on as a director of the corporation and goodwill ambassador for the firm.

The new owners, Kentucky Fried Chicken Corp., cited Sanders age and his outside business interests as the reason for his resignation.

Londonderry Clash

LONDONDERRY, Northern Ireland (UPI) — A group of 150 Roman Catholic youths stoned a British army patrol today in Northern Ireland's eighth consecutive day of violence.

The soldiers charged the crowd with batons and fired nausea gas but the youths refused to disperse, an army spokesman said.

At least two persons were arrested.

Rail Crash Kills 7

BELGRADE (UPI) — An eastbound express carrying more than 300 passengers collided head-on today with a westbound freight train near Ljubljana, northwest Yugoslavia, the news agency Tanjug said.

First reports said seven crewmen were killed and 25 express passengers injured, five seriously. All were rushed to hospitals in Ljubljana.

SALT Interests Russ

VIENNA (UPI) — The Soviet Union has shown "a positive interest" in an American plan for curbing the two nations' missile arsenals, diplomatic sources said today.

Russian and American diplomats met today at the U.S. Embassy for the 30th formal session of the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT). The session lasted 40 minutes with an hour of informal conversation afterwards.

The American plan - possibly the most important single event since SALT began here April 16 - was presented July 24 by the chief U.S. delegate, Gerard C. Smith.

Almost half the married women in this country between ages 45-54 are gainfully employed.

A LONG WALK TO COURT

Photographers and newsmen fight for position as Sen. Edward M. Kennedy accompanies Ethel Kennedy, with her head bowed, and her son Robert Kennedy Jr. into Barnstable District Court in Massachusetts. The boy and Robert Sargent Shriver III, son of former ambassador to France Sargent Shriver, went to court yesterday to answer a summons for being picked up in a drug raid last month. The two boys received a good "talking-to" and admonitions not to get into trouble for a year or drug charges against them could be brought up. No guilt or innocence findings were made in the private juvenile hearing. (UPI Telephoto)

Pediatricians Ponder Whether Measles Vaccine Is Misdirected

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Suspicion is growing among some child doctors and virologists that the current massive vaccination campaign to eliminate German measles may be misdirected.

The question being raised is to let children get measles and develop a natural life-time immunity instead of immunizing them in childhood and leaving them susceptible to the disease as adults.

It is among the adult population that rubella poses its greatest threat. It is a major carrier of infection to susceptible pregnant women whose offspring may suffer crippling birth defects or die. During a 1964-65 epidemic an estimated 20,000 to 30,000 children were born with such rubella-caused defects as mental retardation, heart disease, blindness and deafness.

The National Center for Disease Control in Atlanta stresses that the vaccine has been given safely to more than 13 million Americans, mostly children. And no one is seeking to halt the federally financed drive to immunize school-aged children.

But a Nobel-prize winning virus authority thinks it is time to raise some serious questions about who gets the vaccine, and a Seattle, Wash., pediatrician told UPI he was not prescribing the vaccine because he is uncertain of its effectiveness.

Writing in the current New England Journal of Medicine, Dr. John F. Enders of Harvard University expressed a concern that young girls vaccinated today may be more likely to get the disease when they grow up and start having children than if they had gotten it naturally in their childhood.

Findings indicate that vaccinations may establish only partial resistance that is not as long lasting nor as protective as a natural infection, Enders wrote.

He won the Nobel Prize in 1954 for work on polio virus.

"If childhood vaccinations were to diminish substantially the opportunity for such contact (with a natural infection), the proportion of susceptible adult women of child-bearing age might eventually become considerably larger than it is today," he stated.

Enders estimated some 600,000 rubella-suscepitble women become pregnant each year.

Sniper Fire, Firebombs In Lima, Ohio

LIMA, Ohio, (UPI) — Sniper fire and firebombing hit this northwest Ohio City of 55,000 again Thursday for the second night in a row. Nobody was reported injured.

A Molotov cocktail destroyed a linoleum and furniture store and 20 arrests for curfew violations were made.

Police said the gunfire, from rifles and small arms, was aimed at store windows.

National Guardsmen called into Lima after a Negro woman's killing touched off racial disorders Wednesday will stay for the weekend to patrol the Southside.

The 500 Guardsmen, all 80 city policemen and sheriff's deputies from 12 other counties kept all persons off the streets as an 8 p.m. to 6 a.m. curfew was extended indefinitely.

Col. J. E. P. McCann, administrative assistant to Ohio National Guard Adjutant General S. T. Del Corso, said the troops would stay to ensure against a flareup of trouble.

"We expect to be here at least until Sunday night," McCann said.

Police said the sniper fire, which they first encountered Wednesday night after dispersing a gun-carrying mob that started downtown, came mostly from darkened windows or rooftops.

The violence followed the killing of Mrs. Christine Ricks, 40, who tried to stop two white patrolmen from arresting a black youth blocking a street with his bicycle.

Police said the woman grabbed Patrolman Glen Pierce's revolver and began firing at him. She was shot dead by his partner, Ted Boop.

Allen County Coroner Dr. William Noble said an inquest on the death of Mrs. Ricks would not be held.

"I believe the circumstances of the shooting are clear," Noble said in rejecting the request by black leaders.

Historic Bonn, Soviet Agreement

MOSCOW (UPI)—Foreign Ministers Andrei A. Gromyko of the Soviet Union and Walter Scheel of West Germany initialed today a nonaggression treaty praised as a foundation for relaxing tensions and building a lasting peace in Europe.

It was the climax to the most significant diplomacy between the old World War II foes in 15 years. Diplomatic sources said the Soviets agreed to accept a West German disclaimer that the document constituted a surrender of the right to eventual German reunification.

Scheel and Gromyko initialed the four-page document beneath the crystal chandeliers of a marble hall in Spiridonov Palace, a room built by Czars and used by World War II Allies in planning strategy against Adolf Hitler.

"The goal we set before ourselves has a great political importance," Scheel said. "The treaty will help relax tensions and provide the prerequisites for building a lasting peace in Europe."

Gromyko praised the treaty and said bargaining over a 10-day period had been tough. He said the Soviets were as glad as the Germans it was over.

In a statement released as he prepared to board a plane for Bonn at Moscow Airport, Scheel added "with this treaty a new page will be turned in relations between the Soviet Union and the Federal Republic of (West) Germany."

He said he was convinced the two states were now moving toward changing "mistrust into trust, confrontation into cooperation."

It was the first major fruit of West German Chancellor Willy Brandt's policy of reconciliation with the Soviet bloc and the most important Bonn-Moscow diplomacy since a series of letters between former Soviet Premier Nikolai A. Bulganin and former Chancellor Konrad Adenauer in 1955 led to establishment of diplomatic relations.

"This treaty will form the basis for the future development of relations between the two countries," said Bonn spokesman Ruediger von Wechmar.

The treaty will not take effect until the West German parliament and the Soviet Supreme Soviet ratify it. That could bring a serious partisan battle in the West German Bundestag.

The Bonn government's political opposition already has branded the treaty a surrender of the right to eventual German reunification.

Von Wechmar announced the agreement late Thursday. He did not disclose the text of the treaty but said it would make "peace in Europe more secure."

Before meeting with Gromyko, Scheel met Thursday afternoon with diplomats of the United States, Britain and France and briefed them on the negotiations.

Von Wechmar said Brandt would return to Bonn from his Norwegian vacation to attend a special cabinet meeting on the treaty Saturday and if approved, the treaty would be signed this month.

Diplomats said the ramifications of the document go far beyond healing wounds between the Soviets and West Germans dating back to World War II.

Oakes Receiving Physical Therapy

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Richard Oakes, militant Indian leader who suffered a head injury in a June 11 tavern fight, is receiving speech and physical therapy.

A medical spokesman said Thursday that Oakes, 28, had been moved from San Francisco General Hospital to the University of California's Moffitt Hospital.

He has only partial use of his left arm and leg and his speech is slurred, the spokesman said.

Tommy Pritchard, 26, a Samoan, has been charged with assault with intent to commit murder.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Semorile, 11 Constance Drive.

Spain Pact Widens Rift In Capital

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The rift between the State Department and the Senate Foreign Relations Committee has been deepened by the newly signed military and economic agreement between the United States and Spain.

The executive agreement, finalized Thursday despite strenuous objections from Foreign Relations Chairman J. William Fulbright, grants Spain economic and military assistance worth about $200 million over five years. It includes a loan to Spain of 16 U.S. warships and gives America continued use of four military installations in Spain.

The Foreign Relations Committee, piqued by the State Department's refusal to agree to public discussions of the agreement before it was signed, voted to go ahead and hold public hearings anyway in the coming weeks.

Fulbright had no immediate comment on he signing but an aide said the senator continued to stand by his lengthy statement of Wednesday.

In that statement Fulbright contended the agreenent actually was a disguised commitment for the defense of Spain: that it had been worked out without due respect for the right of the legislative branch to examine the alleged commitment; and that the State Department had been deceitful in informing him when the agreement would be finalized.

Paper currency notes issued during the French Revolution were called assignats.

Board Backs Reduction Of Diesel Crews

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A presidential emergency board has recommended that the jobs of firemen and brakemen be merged on diesel freight locomotives, eliminating one man from freight crews.

If the railroads and the United Transportation Union (UTU) both agaree to the board's finding, it would bring to an end 11 years of discord and intermittent strikes over the emotional issue.

The railroad industry immediately said it was "grateful" for the commission's findings and was ready to return to the bargaining table. But Charles Luna, president of the UTU, refused to comment on the report.

OLDEST DISPUTE

The board said the two sides were "on the very threshold of settlement" of the nation's oldest labor dispute. It said they had agreed to most of the issues in principle.

J.P. Hiltz, chairman of the National Railway Labor Conference which represents rail management, said he was "very grateful to see that the Commission found, like all other neutral bodies that have examined the problem, that firemen are not needed on other than steam engines."

Diesels took over most freight anad passenger service on the nation's raialrords in the early 1950s. Only a handful of steam locomotives remain today, most of them on tourist lines or for excursions and historical displays.

CREW OF FOUR

If the board's recommendaations are carried out, the average freight train crew will be reduced from five to four — an engineer and a fireman brakeman in the engine, and a conductor and a flagman riding the caboose. Passenger trains would not be affected because firemen are needed to tend the boilers which provide steam for heat and air conditioning.

The jobs of the 20,000 remaining firemen would be eliminated through attrition — retirement, dismissal or promotion. Another 18,000 firemen jobs already have been eliminated under a 1963 arbitration award that permitted the railroads to begin eliminating 90 per cent of the jobs.

EARLY NEGOTIATIONS

The board proposed that the two sides begin negotiations again, but that binding arbitration be imposed if they cannot reach a settlement by Aug. 21. President Nixon endorsed this section of the report.

The unions are prohibited from striking and the railroads from staging a lockout before Sept. 6, when a 60-day cooling-off period expires. The cooling-off period was imposed by Nixon when the UTU struck three railroads July 7, and the carriers responded with the threat of a nationwide lockout.

The board concluded there is no need for firemen on diesel freight locomotives along with an engineer and a brakeman. It recommended that the savings from the elimination of the firemen be used to increase salaries for the remaining railroad men.

Retail Sales Rise

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Commerce Department says the nation's retail sales for the week ended Aug. 1 were estimated at $7 billion —a 1 per cent increase over the previous week.

Black Panther Testifies He Had Orders To Kill Hampton

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (UPI)— Black Panther George Sams Jr., who has pleaded guilty to murder charges in the death of one party member, said Thursday he had been ordered to shoot Chicago Panther Fred Hampton.

Sams, a key prosecution witness in the murder conspiracy and kidnaping trial of Lonnie McLucas, was to be cross-examined today in Superior Court.

McLucas is accused in connection with the May 21, 1969 death of Alex Rackley, an alleged police informer whose tortured body was found in a Middlefield swamp. Sams and another Panther, Warren Kimbro, have both pleaded guilty to second-degree murder in the slaying.

Sams said he was present when Rackley was tortured with boiling water, taken for a ride and shot twice with a .45-caliber pistol.

He testified that Landon Williams, another Panther, told him to shoot Rackley and to "watch Warren Kimbro and Lonnie McLucas for any cowardly tendencies." He said he was to "pop Lonnie and Warren with the ammunition left over from Rackley."

He told the court he had met party chairman Bobby G. Seale, another of the eight accused in the death, before Rackley's torture. Sams said Seale told him, "do away with him. Off the pig."

After Rackley's death, Sams said he went to Chicago on Williams' orders. "Landon called national headquarters and said Brother Fred Hampton was going crazy in dealing with pigs . . . then he informed me later on Fred Hampton was going to be popped off and I was to carry out Xthe order myself."

Sams testified the party wanted Hampton killed because he was working with police in a community project and that showed "counter-revolutionary tendencies."

Tam Valley Youth, 18, Denies Pot Charge

Daniel Martin Klopf, 18, of Tamalpais Valley, has entered an innocent plea to a marijuana possession charge arising from his arrest by Mill Valley police at Cascade Reservoir July 22.

Klopf is to appear in Marin Municipal Court Aug. 13 for preliminary hearing.

Renoir Stolen; Value Placed Up To $100,000

PHOENIX (UPI)—A Renoir painting, valued at $50,000 to $100,000, was stolen by burglars Thursday night from the Grunewald and Adams Jewelry Store.

"We won't know the actual value of the painting until the insurance company examines its records," said detective Bill Nolan.

The painting was that of a young woman and was one of several hanging just inside the front door, Nolan said. The other paintings were not touched.

Nolan said the burglars dismantled a lock on the door, sounding an alarm. Within four minutes police arrived, but the burglars had already fled. "It looked like someone knew what in the heck he was doing," said Nolan.

The painting was owned by Arthur Grunewald, one of the store owners.

Judge Haley, Three Others Are Slain

ifornia Highway Patrol officer burst in and locked the door.

"What's up?" she said.

The officer replied a man had a machine gun downstairs. The matron fell to the floor.

The exit route of the killers and their hostages from the building is unclear, but reporters in the press room said one of the men banged on the office door.

Meanwhile, Layne and one of the San Quentin guards went for weapons.

Sheriff's Lt. Tom Lightfoot, alerted of the escape try, went to the north archway and saw the gunmen herding hostages out of the building lobby.

One of the gunmen, armed with the M-1 semiautomatic, forced several deputies and bailiffs posted around the archway to drop their weapons. The gunmen fired three shots and hurried the hostages around a corner of the building.

Lightfoot radioed for help and ran after the convicts. He said he heard "lots of shooting." He ran to the panel truck, into which the gunmen had herded the hostages.

Two of the convicts were dead. Haley was in the rear of the truck, part of his face blown away.

It was reported that both Haley and several of the armed men talked with Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos before leaving the courtroom. Haley reportedly warned the sheriff that "lives are at stake." The sheriff was said to have been told by one of the prisoners to call off his "pigs" or the hostages would be killed.

Haley was said to have been cautioned against allowing removal of the chains of the three inmates in the courtroom. He decided to keep Christmas's and Magee's chains on, but had McClain's removed, holding that chains might prejudice the jury.

Reports also circulated that the accomplice, Burrows, was a brother of one of the Soledad inmates accused of killing a guard.

Last Clinics Set For Rabies Shots

The final two in a series of rabies vaccination clinics sponsored by the Marin County Department of Public Health and the county Veterinary Medical Association have been announced by Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, county health officer.

One clinic will be on Tuesday in Novato at Marion School, 1705 Marion Avenue, and the other on Thursday in San Rafael at the city school administration building, Third and E streets.

Hours of both clinics will be 6 to 8 p.m.

State law requires all dogs four months and older to be vaccinated for rabies.

Man Bound Over To Higher Court

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A San Francisco man charged with assaulting a waitress from Mill Valley with a tire iron has been bound over to San Francisco Superior Court for trial.

The assault charge against Lloyd J. Hartman, 36, arose from an incident July 20 outside Roland's Cocktail Lounge in the Marina District during which he allegedly attacked Patty Noland, 12, of 31 Millay Place, police said.

Hartman had been ejected from the bar, but apparently waited outside until Miss Noland left shortly after 2 a.m., police reported. She was rescued by several customers.

Hartman was held in city prison in lieu of $1,250 bail.

Canvass Of Residents At Enchanted Knolls

Plans to canvass the Enchanted Knolls area of Mill Valley in an effort to learn neighborhood concerns and locate new members have been formulated by directors of the Enchanted Knolls Homeowners Association.

President Robert B. Rankin said the directors met Wednesday and were assigned areas to cover in the door-to-door canvass. They will begin work within one week and proceed at their own pace, he said.

Woman Is Treated For Accident Injuries

Diann Lynn Rigby, 20, of 65 Hermit Lane, Kentfield, was treated today at Marin General Hospital for cuts on her nose and chest suffered in a single-car accident in Corte Madera.

Police said Miss Rigby was driving her car north on Corte Madera Avenue at 12:19 a.m. when she struck a speed limit sign near Chapman Drive. Officers said the driver told them she had fallen asleep.

Planes Used To Bypass Strike At Convention

FRANKLIN, Pa. (UPI) — A leading mining machinery firm here didn't let a trucker strike in Cleveland prevent it from exhibiting its equipment to the American Mining Congress' convention. It airlifted the trade show here instead.

After setting up its equipment display in a plant storage area, Joy Manufacturing Co. chartered a DC-3 to go with its own small executive aircraft and instituted an 80-mile shuttle service. Plant secretaries, dressed up in miners hats for identification, served as hostesses to guide arriving groups from the local airport to the plant by car and bus.

Four False Fire Alarms Reported

Four false fire alarms were turned in last night from boxes in the area of Terra Linda High School, the first one at 10:20 p.m. at the school.

The three subsequent alarms were from Nova Albion Way at 10:31, 825 Las Gallinas Avenue at 11:10 and Freitas Parkway and Las Gallinas Avenue at 11:23.

Stamp Honoring Ike Presented To Mamie

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower was given one of the new six-cent stamps honoring her late husband in White House ceremonies Thursday.

The picture on the stamp was taken of Eisenhower in 1953 moments before he went on television to announce the end of military hostilities in Korea. Mrs. Eisenhower selected the picture for the stamp.

Picture Sends Linda Into Emotional Shout

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Linda Kasabian gasped "Oh, God" and shouted that she couldn't believe her friends could do such an "animalistic thing" when shown a picture today of one of the victims in the Tate murder case.

Defense attorney Irving Kankarek thrust before her a color photograph of the mutilated body of Voytyck Frykowski, a guest of the actress Sharon Tate who was stabbed dozens of times and shot in the killings last Aug. 8.

Mrs. Kasabian began crying steadily and Kanarek said to her:

"Why are you crying now?"

"I just can't believe it."

"You can't believe what?"

"I can't believe they could do such a thing."

"Are you sure you don't mean that you couldn't do such a thing?"

"I know I didn't do it. I didn't have in me to do such an animalistic thing."

Kanarek suggested again that she also ran into the house with two young women codefendants of Charles Manson in the case and Charles "Tex" Watson and that she might be unable to remember because she was in a state of shock at the time.

Her voice rising to a shout, Mrs. Kasabian replied, "I just know I didn't do it, Mr. Kanarek."

Kanarek had begun the day's questioning by showing Mrs. Kasabian a color picture of another victim, coffee heiress Abigail Folger, sprawled on the grounds of the Tate estate.

Mrs. Kasabian had become almost hysterical Thursday afternoon when defense attorney Irving Kanarek produced a photograph of the bloody, almost nude body of Miss Tate inside the residence.

When the trial session resumed again today, Kanarek approached the 21-year-old blonde with a sheaf of pictures and thrust one toward her. Mrs. Kasabian took one look and then averted her head.

Kanarek attempted to have the witness take the picture in her hand but Judge Charles H. Older instructed him that would not be necessary and told him to go ahead with the cross examination.

finally got to that car over there and ran for it," he added.

Higgins explained that he then flagged down a California Highway Patrol car, and acquired another weapon. A few minutes later, he said, he heard a burst of gunfire.

"I didn't fire at the man, because he was directly in line with the other (Judge Haley and the two jurors)," He added later when asked why he didn't gun down the prisoners' accomplice.

"You can't come much closer to getting it than I did," he concluded.

Topless Rules Will Take Effect Monday

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— New Alcoholic Beverage Control Board rules on the nudity and deportment of waitresses and entertainers in taverns will go into effect Monday as planned, the State Supreme Court ruled Thursday.

Supreme Court justices refused a postponement asked by owners and entertainers in 20 Southern California bars who seek to test the constitutionality of the rules.

U.S. Planes Aid Fighting In Cambodia

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (UPI)—U. S. jet fighter-bombers came to the support today of Cambodia forces meeting heavy Communist resistance in a weeklong campaign to recapture the town of Skoun, field reports said.

Meanwhile, military sources said today, the U.S. Command is providing close air support for Cambodian troops but calling it interdiction to conform with President Nixon's directives.

The United States insists the intent of the missions is to protect U.S. and allied troops in South Vietnam by destroying Communist capabilities, and any benefit to the Cambodians is merely coincidental.

The fight for Skoun raged on as Cambodian units reported hurling back North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops attacking government positions at points four and eight miles from Phnom Penh—closest thrust to date by Communist infantry.

Military officials said Cambodian troops have been trying to encircle Skoun, 35 miles northeast of Phnom Penh, but failed to break through because of a powerful Communist defensive ring.

Cambodian troops ran into heavy resistance today on the southern end of Skoun, officers said, and requested American air support, which was provided.

Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird, in a statement in Washington Friday, said American planes had bombed in the Skoun area in a move aimed at preventing Communist forces from reopening Cambodian sea supply routes, thus protecting American forces in South Vietnam. He said U. S. planes were not giving close air support to Cambodian units.

Vigorous Senate Dove Wins Party Primary

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI)— Sen. Albert Gore, a vigorous opponent of the Nixon Administration's Vietnam policy, won renomination for a fourth term Thursday in the Democratic Senatorial primary.

His victory set up a confrontation in November with a strong backer of the President, Rep. William Brock, who ran away in the three-man Republican primary.

Gore, 62, defeated Hudley Crockett, a former administrative aide to Gov. Buford Ellington, and two political unknowns—Herman Frey and Stafford Andress.

Brock, 39, a millionaire candymaker, who gave up an almost certain fifth term in Congress to seek Gore's seat, easily turned back former cowboy movie star Tex Ritter and J.D. Boles.

In the governor's contest, attorney John J. Hooker of Nashville won the Democratic nomination in a six-man race, and Dr. Winfield Dunn, a Memphis dentist, narrowly beat Nashville industrialist Maxey Jarman in the GOP battle.

Ellington, the incumbent governor, is prohibited by law from succeeding himself.

With 2308 of the state's 2495 precincts reporting, Gore had 245,646 votes to 216,359 for Crockett. Brock led Ritter 161,009 to 48,635 with Boles a distant third at 4515.

Hooker had 238,545 votes to 178,616 for Snodgrass, his nearest opponent, and Dunn held a 75,367 to 65,193 edge over Jarman.

Gore, whose liberal viewpoint on many issues has made him a controversial figure in Tennessee—and the south—is a critic of U.S. policy in Vietnam.

He also raised the ire of many of his constitutents by voting against President Nixnn's two southern appointees to the U.S. Supreme Court—Clement Haynesworth and G. Harrold Carswell.

During the primary campaign, Gore did not explain his stand on such issues, saying only—"sometimes things appear unpopular at first, but later prove to be the right thing."

Brock, an executive of the Brock Candy Co., concentrated his attacks on Gore's controversial stands and largely ignored Ritter and Boles, his immediate opponents.

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew has announced plans to speak in Memphis next month and there is speculation that President Nixnn also might visit the state to boost Brock's candidacy.

Assault Case Booking Made

A 24-year-old San Anselmo man was booked into Marin County Jail yesterday for investigation of forcible rape after he was arrested at his home by San Anselmo police on a warrant issued by the Sausalito Police Department.

Police said Michael Joseph Kemp, of 9 Southview Terrace, was arrested in connection with the alleged rape of a 22-year-old Hayward woman in a car in the parking lot of Rico's restaurant in Sausalito on July 7.

Kemp was released on $1,000 bail and to appear Tuesday in Marin Municipal Court.

75 Haystack Fires

EPHRATA, Wash. (UPI) — More than 75 arson-caused haystack fires were reported over a 70 mile stretch of Grant County early today, and preliminary estimates place loss between $250,000 and $500,000.

OBITUARIES

Andrew Schoenitzer Dies At 74

Andrew Schoenitzer, a resident of Fairfax for 15 years, died unexpectedly at his home yesterday.

Death was apparently due to a heart attack, the Marin County coroner's office reported.

Schoenitzer, 74, shared the home of 98 Hillside Drive with his sister, Ida May Welfield.

A native of Crescent City, Del Norte County, he grew up and lived in San Francisco until 1955. Schoenitzer was a retired painter, member oof Painters Union No. 4, and a veteran of World War I.

In addition of Mrs. Welfield, he is survived by another sister, Mildred Bickel, of San Francisco.

Funeral arrangements are pending at Halsted and Co. in San Francisco. Burial will be at Cypress Lawn Memorioal Park in Colma.

WILLIAM HOOVER

Burial for William H. Hoover, of 331 San Anselmo Avenue, San Anselmo, will be Sunday at Mount Tamalpais Cemetery, San Rafael.

Hoover, 61, died Monday at a local hospital after a short illness.

A native of Bandon, Ore., he had lived in Marin County one year. His last job was as a security guard in San Francisco. He also had worked as a machinist.

Hoover left no next-of-kin. Friends may call Sunday from 12 to 3 p.m. at Russell and Gooch Mortuary, Mill Valley.

JAMES S. SHEAFE

Funeral for James S. Sheafe, father of Helen Dufficy of San Rafael, will be at 1:30 p.m. tomorrow at Harrry M. Williams Mortuary, San Rafael.

Sheafe, 93, of La Jolla, died Wednesday at a local hospital following a short illness.

A native of Holden, Mo., he had lived in Southern California about 15 years. He was a retired mechanical engineer and owner of a railroad engineering supplies company in Chicago.

He was past master and a member for 57 years of the South Park Masonic Lodge in Chicago, and was affiliated with Sigma Chi Fraternity at the University of Washington and Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

In addition to Mrs. Dufficy, Sheafe is survived by his wife, Helen Sheafe, of La Jolla; another daughter, Jean Willard Lockhart, of La Grange, Ill.; a sister, Ruth Sheafe, of Atlanta, Ga.; seven grandchildrern and seven great-grandchildren.

Burial will be private.

SIDNEY LINDSEY

Sidney Lindsey, a 57-year resident of Fairfax, died yesterday at a local hospital following a short illness.

Lindsey, 78, of 125 Bothin Road, was a native of England. He came to the United States and Marin County in 1913.

He was a San Quentin Prison correctional officer for 32 years before retiring.

Surviving are his wife, Jessie Lindsey of the family home; three daughters, Sarah Daveler of Larkspur, Barbara Thompson of San Bruno and Marjorie Lindsey of Washington, D.C.; a son, John Lindsey of Alamo; seven grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements are pending at Chapel of the Hills, San Anselmo.

WALTER THURSTON

Funeral for Walter Francis Thurston Jr., a bartender for five years at a San Francisco tavern, will be Monday in Boston, his birthplace.

Thurston, 33, died Wednesday at a local hospital after a short illness. He had lived at 8 Eldridge Avenue, Mill Valley, for seven years.

He is survived by his father, Walter F. Thurston Sr., of Dorchester, Mass. Burial will be in Boston.

NATHAN KATZ

Funeral for Nathan Katz, 72, of San Francisco, formerly of Petaluma, was held today in San Francisco.

Katz died yesterday in San Francisco after a long illness. A native of Chotlin, Bessarabi now part of the Soviet Union, Katz came to the United State in 1920 and to California in 1952.

He lived in Petaluma from 1958 to 1960 when he operated Kay's Variety Store. Katz also operated variety stores in San Francisco.

He is survived by his wife, Esther; a daughter, Mrs. Marvin Dolowitz of Petaluma, and four grandchildren.

Contributions may be made to the Mount Zion Cancer Fund or to any charity.

DEATHS

Bolinas Lagoon Quarantine

All Use Of Waters To Be Banned

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

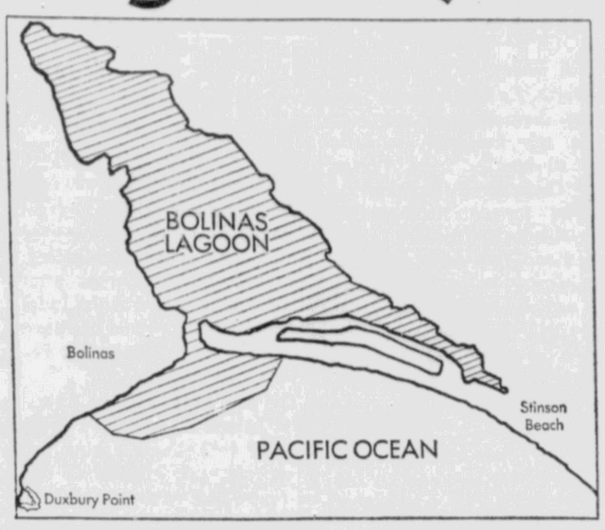
A quarantine on all public use of polluted Bolinas Lagoon and adjacent beaches along Bolinas Bay will be ordered for up to two years next week by county and state health officials, the Independent-Journal learned today.

Shellfish long have been quarantined in the area, but the new order will ban all use of the waters, including wading, swimming, surfing, rafting, surf-fishing, and diving. The quarantined area will not include Stinson Beach State Park.

Total quarantines on use are rare in California. The last comparable one was in 1959, when Monterey Bay beaches in the Watsonville Area were posted because of sewage pollution. That ban was in effect only for a few weeks, however, and was lifted when operation of sewage treatment plants was upgraded.

The pollution in Bolinas comes from the community sewage system, which dumps raw sewage into the mouth of the lagoon.

The Bolinas Community Public Utility District is about to build a treatment plant, but it is not scheduled to be completed until April 1, 1972. It is supposed to be in emergency operation by Feb. 28 of that year.



OFF LIMITS — Health officials, citing sewage pollution and evidence of hepatitis, are about to ban all water-contact sports in the marked area in this map of Bolinas Lagoon and Bay. The ban, being readied by the state attorney general's office, will be for up to two years, pending construction of a sewage treatment plant. (Independent-Journal sketch by Jack Lucy)

The district, according to deadlines set by the San Franday, and globs of fecal material usually can be found floating in the area.

Either county or state health officials can order a quarantine, but, as in the case of Bolinas, usually prefer to issue a joint order. The quarantine is sched-cisco Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board, must demonstrate compliance with all water quality requirements by July 1, 1972.

Anyone violating the quarantine will be subject to arrest by law enforcement officers.

A spokesman for the State Department of Public Health conceded that enforcement will be difficult. He said the main point of the quarantine will be to publicize the dangerous condition of the area, and to warn citizens against using the waters.

The quarantine was asked on June 25 by the regional water quality control board. The Bolinas district discharges about 37,000 gallons of waste a uled to be announced officially on Wednesday morning.

Several cases of hepatitis have been traced to use of the lagoon and adjacent beaches.

The decision to order the quarantine came promptly in the wake of sampling of the area by the state department's Bureau of Sanitary Engineering.

The bur'au, in a report completed this week, concluded that "water-contact sports take place in the areas found to be adversely affected by the Bolinas raw sewage discharge."

The result, it declared, was "a serious health hazard to people using the affected areas."

The area found unsafe for water-contact sports included bay beaches from one-half mile to about eight-tenths of a mile to the west of the mouth.

Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, Marin County health officer, told the I-J today that four cases of hepatitis had been reported in Marin in the last few days. The only thing the four patients had in common, she said, was that they had been swimming in the polluted water around Bolinas.

Two of the patients live in Bolinas, one in Point Reyes Station and one in Mill Valley.

Swimming is popular from beaches on both sides of the mouth of the lagoon.

The Bureau of Sanitary Engineering data showed the count of bacteria up to more than 24 times the maximum allowed by the state in water used for water-contact sports.

Monterey's Policemen On Strike

MONTEREY (UPI)—This resort city's 60-man police department went on strike Thursday night in a wage dispute.

Despite the lack of patrolmen, Monterey remained tranquil, at least through early today, remaining officers said.

The situation was similar to Antioch where a strike started and ended without a serious outbreak of crime.

At 11 p.m. when the walkout started, three men were left to patrol this city of 25,000—Chief Harold Benadom, deputy chief Edward Sutton and Capt. Charles Houseman.

Monterey County sheriff's deputies would be available if needed, Sutton said.

The Police Relief Association wants a 15 per cent pay boost, said association president Sgt. Don Lansing, while the city has offered 6 per cent.

Starting pay for Monterey policemen is $685 monthly while the top wage for a patrolman is $832.

During the course of negotiations, policemen shaved off the beards they had grown for this resort city's bicentennial celebration and doffed special brown uniforms in favor of the regular blues.

After a week, they returned to the brown uniforms and attempted to fake the beards. None of that helped.

Police in San Jose also are threatening to walk out in wage disagreements.

ABIDE BY COURT EDICT

Petaluma Police Cancel Strike Plans

By BONNIE BARD

A strike by Petaluma police was averted late last night when the officers agreed to abide by temporary restraining orders issued in Sonoma County Superior Court.

The orders were served individually on each officer minutes after a meeting with the city council ended on a tense note and no show of compromise in the wage dispute.

The city council held firmly to the offer of an 8.75 per cent increase made by City Mgr. Robert H. Meyer while the officers agreed to drop their request for an immediate 15 per cent raise and would accept 10 per cent retroactive to Aug. 1 and another 5 per cent on Jan. 1 to average 12.5 per cent over the year.

With neither side wavering, Mayor Helen Putnam adjourned the staff gathering and Asst. City Mgr. John Nolan began serving the restraining orders at the police station.

James F. Kemp, attorney for the Petaluma Police Officers Association, said the group voted late last night to abide by the restraining orders which prohibit the officers from leaving their jobs in the next 15 days.

A hearing before Superior Court Judge Kenneth M. Eymann has been se for Aug. 17. Kemp said it was too early to decide if the officers would be represented at the hearing to fight a permanent injunction.

At the close of the council session, Meyer stated directly at Dolph Camilli, association president, and warned that if the court orders were ignored, the law officers would be breaking the law they have been sworn to uphold.

"Police who are professional people, like you keep talking about, will find another way of doing this," he admonished in the hushed council chambers.

It was felt for a time that the officers may begin sick calls at 8 p.m. today and not officially call the action a strike.

In opening statements at the meeting attended largely by off-duty police officers and their wives, Kemp told the council that a 15 per cent pay increase would be necessary to keep the department competitive with salaries paid in San Rafael, Novato and Santa Rosa.

He noted that 10 officers have resigned since October, 1968, and that the department could turn into a training station for better paying departments in nearby cities.

Meyer told the council that no higher increase than 8.75 per cent could be justified in relation to the city finances.

Backing up the city manager completely, the council voted unanimously for the final offer Meyer had made.

During a 40-minute recess, Kemp and the officers agreed to stick by their demand for a 10 per cent increase on Aug. 1 and 5 per cent on Jan. 1.

Kemp said the officers might be willing to accept the council offer and agree to mediation if the ultimate increase was made retroactive to Aug. 1. City Atty. Edouardo Robert said the city charter prohibited retroactive pay increases.

Five members of the audience rose to support the police wage request while only one person supported the council stand.

Mayor Putnam said that since the majority of residents favored higher pay for police and seemed willing to pay increased taxes for it, that a tax rate increase election should be considered for later this year.

The council said it was in favor of the concept of higher pay for police, but could only offer what the city budget could afford.

Kemp and Meyer differed in their views of the city financial picture and on the use of more than $300,000 in unappropriated reserves.

Meyer said that projects other than salary increases must also be financed out of the reserves and that care must be taken not to overspend because there is no guarantee that surpluses will continue to accumulate.

Meyer urged Kemp to consult further with an accountant so that he could better understand the city's finances.

20 Fire Officials Plan Marin Tour

A touring group of 20 to 30 state fire officials will make inspection stops in Marin Tuesday at Hick's Valley substation, Point Reyes National Seashore, the Bolinas area and then the Russian River.

Scheduled to be in the touring contingent are Lewis Moran, acting state forester, Charles Fairbank, deputy state forester of region one, headquartered in Santa Rosa and a representative of the state director of conservation, said Marin County Fire Chief Louis J. Bloom.

At the Hick's Valley stop at 9:15, Bloom will give an hour talk to the group, explaining the operation and problems of his department.

Suspect Nabbed On Auto Theft

A 24-year-old Novato woman was arrested yesterday in Santa Venetia by San Rafael police on suspicion of vehicle theft, grand theft and receiving stolen property.

Police said they received a report of a 1966 Thunderbird like one taken July 29 from Front Line Used Car Lot, 535 Francisco Boulevard, parked on North San Pedro Road.

After a brief stakeout, Paul Waldemar Brust of 740 Olive Avenue was arrested entering the car at 9 p.m., police said.

He was held in Marin County Jail in lieu of $2,500 bail to appear in Marin Municipal Court today.

Cyclist Is Treated For Accident Cuts

Robert L. Maeder Jr., 15, of 208 Jeffrey Drive, Petaluma, was treated at Petaluma General Hospital for cuts of the right arm suffered when his motorcycle struck a trailer at 2 p.m. yesterday.

Police said Maeder's motorcycle struck the rear of a trailer being towed by George D. Gortney, 48, of 312 Ely Boulevard South, Petaluma, as he attempted to pull into his driveway.

Sausalito School Board Session Off

The regular meeting of the Sausalito School District board, scheduled for Monday, has been canceled because of staff and board vacations, according to interim Supt. Robert E. Spain.

The board will next meet Aug. 24 at 7:30 p.m. in Bayside School, Spain said.

Fairfax Moves To Hire Administrator

Fairfax City Council in a surprise move last night voted 3-2 to hire a full-time city administrator, a longtime controversial issue.

City employees and residents in the audience were stunned by the unexpected turn of events which brought an abrupt end to a budget session on pay raises.

The full-time administrator issue has split the town for years, before, during and after the term of the city's first and last city administrator, David J. Sumbardo, who resigned in June, 1968.

The long-simmering controversy erupted without warning leaving the question of pay raises for full-time employees unresolved and the audience shocked.

It capped an unusual evening which started on a low note with the resignation of a parks and recreation commissioner and reached a high note with the singing of "Happy Birthday" to a resident. (See Fairfax budget story page 13.)

The crucial vote came when the council, after plodding through part-time salaries, arrived at its first major decision, a pay raise for City Clerk-Administrator Frances R. Lestanguet.

Suddenly, it was transformed into a debate over whether there should be a full-time administrator. When all the parliamentary maneuvers were over Mayor Frank J. Egger, Lee Nelder and Robert R. Souza voted for hiring a full-time administrator, while Councilmen Francis J. O'Connell and Cornelis Van Vliet dissented.

Then, by the same voting lineup, the council voted to wait at least two weeks before starting actual hiring.

Councilman O'Connell, obviously angry and on his feet ready to leave, moved for adjournment and it was passed 3-2 with Nelder and Souza dissenting.

Mrs. Lestanguet, who has held the dual post since February, 1969, sat quietly and said nothing after the decision.

She had come to the meeting with the budget she had prepared and was ready to defend her recommendations, but obviously didn't expect to have to defend her job.

After councilmen left the chambers, Mrs. Lestanguet sat at her place at the end of the council table for a minute or so, staring but silent. Then she gathered up her budget papers and walked out alone.

Full-time city employees gathered in small groups and walked outside, somewhat confused; their pay raises still unresolved and the date of the next budget session left unset.

The city administrator volcano erupted after there was a motion to grant Mrs. Lestanguet a five per cent pay hike to $12,600 a year.

Then Roberta Laidley of 34 Meadow Way reminded Egger, an advocate of a full-time administrator, that hiring such an administrator had been a campaign issue.

"We're up to $12,600 which I think is very high and people are divided on this issue and a lot thought we should have a city administrator," Mrs. Laidley said. "Are you ever going to decide it?" she asked. "At $12,600, I don't know what kind of money we're saving."

Egger then made a substitute motion that the city hire a full-time administrator.

O'Connell said having a full-time administrator would be more costly, contending other city administrators in Marin are paid at least $500 a month more than Mrs. Lestanguet. "To talk of a full-time administrator is a lot of bunk," he declared.

Souza moved for a closed session to discuss the issue but was told by an Independent-Journal reporter it wouldn't be legal unless there were charges to be heard.

Van Vliet said the motion was "in poor taste" and "any arguments against this lady" (Mrs. Lestanguet) shouldn't be discussed at an open meeting.

Egger said he didn't have any charges to make, but believed a full-time administrator would be better for the city. "The duties of both jobs (city clerk and administrator) is too much for one person," he asserted.

A man, who identified himself as a new resident, said he was appalled by the lack of efficiency "in the actions of the city council and city government in general" and felt a full-time administrator was needed.

Councilman Lee Nelder said if charges were to be aired against Mrs. Lestanguet they should be at a closed session, not in public and she "had a rightt o her day in court."

Egger said there was a misunderstanding and repeated that there were no charges involved.

Mrs. Lestanguet's only comment during the discussion was to say that some city managers in Marin also have the job of city clerk.

Nelder questioned how the city could hire an administrator "without firing the present administrator," and Egger said the ordinance establishing the post of administrator is still effective, even though no one holds the post.

"We're not ready to hire a city administrator," O'Connell contended. "Where do you get the money from?"

Composer Slated At Sunday Event

The first in a series of musical concerts under the direction of Rita Abrams will be given Sunday at 8:30 p.m. at the Marin Jewish Community Center.

Miss Abrams, composer of the popular song "Mill Valley," will play electric piano and other instruments and Lynn Elder will perform on various Renaissance instruments in a varied program.

The next two concerts will be Aug. 16 at 8:30 p.m. featuring cellist Andor Toth Jr. and Aug. 23, also at 8:30 p.m., with the appearance of opera singer Dan Parkerson.

San Rafael Man Arrested As Assault Suspect

A San Rafael man, who said four youths were harassing an 80-year-old friend of his on the courthouse lawn in San Rafael, was arrested yesterday on suspicion of assaulting one of the youths with a deadly weapon.

San Rafael police said Robert Walter Wilcox, 34, of 31 Valencia Avenue, apartment 1, grabbed Kenneth Lindley, 14, of 412 Hickory Lane by the neck and threatened him with a knife.

Wilcox said he only intended to scare the boy away. Instead, the boy chased him, according to witnesses.

After squirming loose, Lindley reportedly threw a garbage can at Wilcox and pursued him brandishing a wine bottle, police said.

Wilcox was booked in Marin County Jail in lieu of $500 bail to appear in Marin Municipal Court today.

Sausalito Reports Two Auto Thefts

Two autos were stolen in Sausalito in the last week, Sausalito police said today.

A 1964 yellow Volvo, Calif. license no. CYM0222 was taken Friday night, according to Mary Kay Plumb of San Francisco, while it was parked in front of 16 Central Avenue.

And police said Robert L. Hall of 178 Glen Drive, reported his white 1968 Porsche, Nevada licens no. W50662, was stolen from the driveway of his home Monday night.

MEDIEVAL MUSICAL CHAIRS

Jasmine Borschberg, 11, of Mill Valley provides guitar music for a game of musical chairs in Mill Valley's Old Mill Park. The children, dressed in medieval costumes, were participating in a Children's Pleasure Faire, sponsored by the Mill Valley Parks and Recreation Department yesterday. About 250 youngsters took part in the activities, which included minstrels, jugglers, magicians, renaissance plays, cow milking, sheep shearing, and stilt walking. (Independent-Journal photo)

Novato Planners' Monday Agenda

The Novato Planning Commission will consider Sono-Marin Builders master plan for 52 townhouse units on about 16 acres south of Pleasant Valley Unit No. 4 at 8 p.m. Monday at the community hall.

Joseph Russo's application for a use permit for a variety store at 1062 Machin Avenue, an amendment to the San Marin master plan to change part of the property from service station use to administrative-professional or multi-family residential uses and a variance request from Richard D. Fountain of 39 Lambert Way for construction of a carport will also be considered.

Also on the agenda are hearings on rezoning of several recently annexed properties, one on the south side of South Novato Boulevard at the southerly end of Cambridge Street, and twon on Wilson Avenue.

House Advances Drug Proposal

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Nixon administration has won House committee approval to give controversial "no knock" authority to police in illegal drug cases.

The proposal is part of a comprehensive drug abuse bill already approved by the Senate and expected to come up for final House committee action next week.

Under the "no knock" provision, police with warrants could enter private premises unannounced if they felt there was danger to themselves or a risk of evidence being destroyed.

Annexation Remarks Anger Boessenecker

Mill Valley City Councilman Edward J. Boessenecker last night demanded a retraction from the Independent-Journal and an apology from Tiburon City Councilman Branwell D. Fanning for an "irresponsible and slanderous remark" Fanning made Wednesday night.

Boessenecker heatedly took issue with Fanning's accusation that Mill Valley's decision to attempt to annex 110 acres in Strawberry was made at a secret meeting.

"This is an accusation of a crime," Boessenecker said. "Unless I hear a retraction and an apology I'm considering suing."

Fanning made the remark during a meeting of the Marin County Local Agency Formation Commission Wednesday as the agency considered Tiburon's request to annex 1,035 acres of Strawberry, including the area for which Mill Valley had made a formal bid.

The commission turned down Mill Valley on June 10, partly because the Strawberry Recreation District and the Alto Fire District complained that their tax bases would be depleted.

Boessenecker said an April 13 meeting, at which the decision to seek annexation was made, was "legal and open to the public. I've never attended an illegal meeting in my life."

"I don't intend to be accused of something I didn't do, and I don't intend to take this from any newspaper, especially one that preaches so much about the (Ralph M.) Brown Act.

Boessenecker said he did not intended to accuse I-J reporter Wat Takeshita of any misdoing. "He accurately reported what Mr. Fanning said, but the Independent-Journal should not have repeated his (Fanning's) remarks," he said.

The council directed City Atty. Leland H. Jordan to write a letter to Fanning asking for an apology and another to the I-J requesting a retraction.

U.S. residents bought 9.5 million automobiles in 1969, says the National Automobile Club.

Attendance Rises At State's Parks

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Attendance at state parks during the 1969-70 fiscal year ending June 30 jumped 20.5 per cent above the previous year, according to William Penn Mott Jr. director of the state Department of Parks and Recreation.

Mott said 44 million visitor days of use were recorded during the year, compared to 36.5 million the previous year.

He estimated revenue from park visitors at $5,972,726 during 1969-70, compared to $5,170,909 during the prior year.

Visitor days at the five state parks in Marin were: Stinson Beach, 665,665; Mount Tamalpais, 658,889; Samuel P. Taylor, 241,387; Angel Island, 98,828 and Tomales Bay, 92,985.

Mill Valley Mayor Is Selected To Iron Out Impasse Over Salaries

Amid reports of a negotiation impasse, Mill valley Mayor George E. Wickham was appointed as a committee of one last night to work with City Mgr. William H. Cunningham on wage increases asked by city employees.

The two men will attempt to resolve an issue that has been plaguing the city council since it began deliberations on a $2 002,703 budget six weeks ago.

In appointing the committee, the council rejected a request by the Mill Valley Employees Association that the salary dispute be referred to arbitration.

Association secretary Molly MacGowan read a statement prepared by president Henry E. Anderson, which said, "We must reluctantly conclude that an agreement will never be reached with the city manager, who either does not understand the instructions of the council or has created his own salary schedule detrimental to a large segment of the employees."

The letter said that "an impasse has been reached and the city employees respectfully request that the matter be referred to arbitration so that the city employees can deal with a disinterested party with whom they can communicate."

The basis of the dispute is a list of median salaries, or the average of salaries paid to workers with similar jobs in 17 California cities. Cunningham wants new salaries to be computed from 10 benchmark positions und then adjusted according to different jobs, but the association wants medians established for each job.

The council last night reaffirmed its policy of basing salations and then adjusted accordry increases on benchmark positions, and instructed Cunningham and Wickham to obtain from the employees their computation of median salaries for these positions.

The two men also will prepare a chart showing what each method of computing the salaries would cost the city. The council last month set aside $60,000 for salary increases.

The council earlier heard pleas from Police Chief Dan Terzich and Fire Chief Joseph E. Regalia for more personnel. It agreed to include $12,000 in the budget for a full-time juvenile officer and an additional patrolman to compensate for an officer's shift to that post, but took a wait-and-see attitude on Regalia's request for another fireman.

Some $20,000 was approved last month as ha[illegible]ayment for a new fire truck to replace a 1937 vehicle, and the council told Regalia that he could have either the truck or the new man.

But, after the chief said that the city might be able to buy a fire truck chassis for $12,000, the council agreed to explore the possibility and allocate any funds left over from the $20,000 to hire another fireman.

Councilmen examined the revenues the city can expect in 1970-71, but were unable to discover any additional sources of income. Cunningham was instructed to investigate several possible sources, including increased bicycle and animal registration fees, higher parking fines and fees for encroachment permits.

Abolish ICC, Senate Demo Leader Urges

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield advocated Friday abolishing of the Interstate Commerce Commission and trasferring its functions to the Transportation Department.

In a Senate speech, Mansfield charged that the ICC was ignoring the consumer, allowing the railroads to neglect passengers, and putting farmers out of business with blanket freight rate increases.

Photographer Sees Judge Dead

TENSE MOMENT — Ruchell Magee, carrying a carbine rifle, disarms an unidentified deputy sheriff. The coat over his arm was one he wore into court to hide his shackles. He was a witness in a case involving James D. McClain, charged with stabbing a prison guard. (Independent-Journal photo by Jim Kean).

to-face with a man aiming a gun in each hand at him.

"Bring that stuff over here," the man told Kean, referring to his camera equipment.

Kean was led at gunpoint down the corridor and told to stand near another armed man who had his arm around the neck of Joyce Rodoni, a member of the jury.

"You take all the pictures you want," the man told Kean, "We are the revolutionaries."

"I proceeded to take pictures," Kean said.

He saw Judge Haley led down the corridor and out of his sight by another armed man, and then led back shortly after.

It was at this point that Kean was told by one of the men, "Be sure to get pictures of the judge."

The prizewinning photographer assured the men he had good pictures of Judge Haley.

The armed men then took their hostages to the elevator and one of the men told Kean to come along, but another said, "We don't want motherfxxxxx. We've got enough."

As the group proceeded into the elevator, leaving Kean in the corridor, one of the men shouted: "We want the Soledad brothers freed by 12:30 today," and the doors closed.

Kean ran down the corridor to the press room, only to find the door locked. Hearing voices inside, he banged and kicked violently at the door, but it wasn't opened.

He found an open office door further down the corridor, and went through it and out onto a balcony which runs the length of the building.

Out on the balcony, he found members of the press, one of whom told Kean that one of the armed men had tried earlier to get into the press room.

Kean theorized that it was to the press room that the armed man had taken Judge Haley before, attempting to increase press coverage of the action.

"They wanted the story out," Kean said.

Still inside the building, he heard two shots fired — apparently the ones fired at another I-J photographer, Roger Bockrath.

Running down stairs, Kean heard more shots, ending as he stepped outside the building to see armed police — some uniformed, some not — moving in on a yellow van which was stopped near one of the arches which take a roadway under the building.

The back window of the van was shattered as if it had been with shotgun fire, Kean said.

An officer opened the backdoor of the van, and Joyce Rodoni fell out and into another officer's arms — apparently unhurt.

Another woman, sobbing hysterically, got out of the van, and then Kean saw Judge Haley — still in his judicial robes — lying on the floor of the van with three other apparently dead bodies.

"I've known that man all my life," Kean sobbed as he told that Haley's chin had been shot away.

Kean and Haley were both born in San Rafael and lived their whole lives in the city.

Their mothers were lifelong friends, and Kean had been the photographer the day Haley was sworn in as a judge.

Driver Is Treated For Back Injury

A 29-year-old San Rafael woman was treated yesterday at Marin General Hospital for back strain suffered in an accident near her home.

Police said Joyce Inez Martin of 1452-A Lincoln Avenue was hurt when her car pulled from a Lincoln Avenue parking place and collided with one driven by Paula Rae Lipp, 19, of 5 La Vista Way, San Rafael, at 7:03 a.m.

Miss Lipp was turning left onto Prospect Drive.

Terrorists Kidnap Another U.S. Advisor

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (UPI) — Tupamaros terrorists kidnaped an American agriculture expert from his laboratory today only hours before the ransom deadline for another American adviser and a Brazilian diplomat abducted a week ago.

The U.S. Embassy reported that Claude L. Fly, 65, of Fort Collins, Colo. was taken from the lab shortly before 9 a.m. EDT, as he talked with a group of Uruguayan agriculture specialists.

An anonymous telephone call to a local radio station said Fly was taken by the Tupamaros and spirited to the same hiding place where American adviser Dan Mitrione, 50, Richmond, Ind., and Brazilian Consul Aloysio Dkias Gomide, 41, were being held.

The telephone caller said that "justice" would be dealt to all three men if the government did not agree by midnight tonight to release an estimated 150 political prisoners in Uruguayan jails.

Uruguayan President Jorge Pacheco Areco has stood firm in his refusal to deal with the Tupamaros, a left-wing band named for a Peruvian Inca, Tupac Amaru, who led an unsuccessful revolt against the Spanish in the 18th century.

Fly moved to Uruguay last January under a private contract with the Uruguayan government after leaving the teaching staff of Colorado State University. The embassy said he is a native of Fulbright, Tex., and is employed by International Development Services, Inc.

Fly's abduction was the 11th kidnaping by terrorists in Latin America this year and the fifth kidnaping of an American in two years. All of the Americans have been released, with the exception of Mitrione, in return for the release of political prisoners.

The embassy spokesman said Fly was not attached to the U.S. Embassy staff and was not employed by the U.S. Agency for International Development (AID). Mitrione is an AID employe and served as an adviser to the Uruguayan police.

Meanwhile, three influential Catholic priests proposed a compromise in an 11th hour effort to save the lives of Mitrione and Dias Gomide.

Fathers Haroldo Ponce de Leon, Ismael Rivas and Justo Assiam Marquez suggested Brazil and another unnamed Latin American country free political prisoners to ransom Mitrione and Dias Gomide in the face of Uruguay's refusal of the kidnapers' demands.

The priests' proposal came hours before the kidnapers' midnight deadline to "do justice" to the two diplomats unless Uruguay promised to release all political prisoners in the country.

Ponce de Leon, the Montevideo archdiocese secretary, and the other priests suggested in a television broadcast that Brazil free prisoners for Dias Gomide and another Latin American country do the same for Mitrione.

Uruguayan President Jorge Pacheco Areco said Thursday it would be unconstitutional to free prisoners.

"As president of all Uruguayans I feel the supreme duty to safeguard the law," Pacheco Areco said. "I want my people to understand in these moments the responsibility that weighs upon my shoulders.

"I fervently wish that this painful affairs does not end tragically, bringing upon those responsible the most general, hateful and definite condemnation."

Mitrione, 50, an adviser to Uruguayan police from Richmond, Ind., and Dias Gomide, 41, were kidnaped July 31 in separate Tupamaros terrorist raids.

Police and soldiers have since conducted an intense search for them and the government offered a one million peso ($4,000) reward for information leading to arrest of their captors.

ABM Showdown Next Wednesday

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Senate showdown on the Safeguard Antiballistic Missile System (ABM) has been set for next Wednesday, with opponents believed to be one or two votes shy of victory in their effort to block expansion of the system.

The opposing sides agreed Thursday, the first anniversary of last year's dramatic 50 to 50 tie vote on the ABM, to end this year's debate at 3:30 p.m. EDT next Wednesday. The key vote will be on an amendment by Sens. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich.

...an exciting story in the romance of beautiful gems.

TANZANITE was discovered at the foot of Mt. Kilimanjaro, Tanzania, in 1967 by an amateur prospector named Manuel d'Sousa. Harrassed by smugglers, until his death in 1969, the output has been diverted and limited. Now the Tanzanian government has stepped into the matter and the future supply of this gem is unpredictable. Masai tribesmen living in Tanzania used to pick up the stones because they liked the rich blue color that gave off sparkles of red and purple. TANZANITE is the first natural gem discovery in fifty years and is shown in very few stores in this country.

Kent Lake Figure Asks Action Against Lawman

A San Rafael man, arrested during a disturbance Sunday at a hippie gathering place on Kent Lake has asked the Marin County district attorney's office to take action against the lawman who arrested him.

The complaint was made by Robert J. Buol, 24, of 165 Alpine Street. He had been booked into Marin County Jail on suspicion of six assorted felonies and misdemeanors, but was brought to court the next day on a single misdemeanor charge of resisting an officer and obstructing justice.

Accompanied by Deputy Public Defender Edward Briggs, Buol yesterday paid a call on Deputy Dist. Atty. Joshua Thomas. He handed Thomas a sworn statement of his version of the events for which he and Rebessa ann Matthews, 21, of Woodacre, were arrested.

Thomas later advised Briggs that after reviewing Buol's complaint there would be no action taken against the officer.

Buol's statement, which he signed under penalty of perjury, is somewhat at variance with the report Sheriff's Deputy Wayne Trembly submitted to his superiors.

Buol admitted the Lagunitas Spillway area is "considered by many as a 'hippie nudist colony,'" but declared "there was no trouble there" Sunday afternoon until some time after the deputy and a Marin Municipal Water District security officer arrived.

". . .The two men stayed watching and the sheriff's deputy started saying things that bothered people" for 15 to 30 minutes, Boul stated. "Becky Matthews had been playing the guitar and singing until she got so upset with the harrassment" that she behaved in a way that caused her arrest, he declared.

After describing a running argument between the officers and the woman and another companion, Buol said he accompanied her to where the officers were standing beside their cars.

"When we reached the officer, immediately he told me to get lost," Buol state. "I started to walk away, when the officer without any . . . attempt to talk to Becky, bodily tried to throw her in the back of the car. I cam back to the officer only because of my concern over Becky. The police told the water district man to 'get him out of here."

Buol described a brief scuffle with the water district man, which he said ended in handshakes, but "in the meantime Becky had been fought to the ground and she hit the officer with a rock.

"Becky was scared half to death, she got away and the water district man went trying to talk to her. I went after them," Buol said. "He came at me swinging like a mad man . . . and just kept beating until he got me on the head, and I could do no more. From the back window of his car, I could see at least six or more cops on Becky as she lie (sic) on the ground."

Trembly's report stated that force was required to subdue Buol, and voted that both the arrested man and the two officers were treated at Marin General Hospital for injuries.

Buol, represented by the public defender's office in court on his misdemeanor charge, turned to his counsel for help in seeking action against Trembly on grounds of brutality, false arrest and libel.

Even though the district attorney's office lodged only a single misdemeanor complaint against him the news of the deputy's booking him on felony assault, morals and other charges has harmed his reputation and livelihood in Marin County, Buol said yesterday.

$762 Million School Budget For Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The Board of Education Thursday approved a $762 million budget from which $20 million in cuts had been made due to the failure of a tax override last April.

A $1.4 million busing program which had been cut was restored, however, after a change in the method of figuring the delinquent factor in the county property tax rate provided a $1 million windfall.

The budget as it stood before the last minute addition was $761,050,928, up $58,719,558 from last year.

Three major increases in spending included $25 million in teacher salary boosts, $10 million in expanded food service and $2.1 million for children's centers.

Burglary Count Brings Hearing

David Mathew Sliney, 18, of Terra Linda, will face preliminary hearing next Tuesday on a charge that he burglarized the Del Prado Building in Terra Linda on July 31.

The youth, arrested Tuesday in San Rafael, was refused release on his own recognisance by Municipal Court Judge Peter Allen Smith yesterday, and was to attempt to gain release on $500 bail.

He pleaded innocent to the felony charge yesterday.

Novato Offered New Park Site

An offer to Novato of 450 acres for a community park at the same price the city was considering paying for the 67-acre O'Hair property has been renewed with variations that have drawn favorable reaction from civic leaders.

J.C. Garlick, the Salt Lake City developer who now owns the 856-acre Magetti Ranch, has offered the city a 450-acre parcel located on both sides of Novato Boulevard northwest of the O'Hair property for $600,000.

The land, which contains about 138 acres with less than a 15-degree slope and two heavily wooded secluded valleys, has one hill which offers a view of almost the entire city and much of San Pablo Bay and the countryside surrounding Novato. It includes the Bowman Canyon section of Novato Creek.

A similar offer to sell 428 acres of the ranch — split into roughly 100-acre scattered parcels — for $500,000 was turned down in February because of the land division and lack of time and money to act on the offer. "The main difficulty I saw was the division of the property being offered," City Councilman J. Wayne Womack said yesterday, "It was in a checkerboard division, with four separate parcels. In my opinion it would make a big difference how the property was divided."

Womack said that he was not yet ready to give an opinion on whether the city should purchase the land. He said he had not seen all of the property yet.

Six Novatans who viewed the property Wednesday as part of the Novato Creek study committee's walking survey of the creek area were enthusiastic about the land's potential as a park.

Most people have seen the property only from the road, Leroy M. Gerner said, but "they can't realize the potential unless they see the back of it. This is what's so spectacular about it, of course. There's an area back there with lots of trees that's just beautiful for picnicking. I think it's a fabulous piece of property, and, in my opinion, it's a much better buy than the O'Hair property. It could be developed at minimum cost, and it has a lot more potential for a park. It's a better area, and it's not really that much farther out; it's just a little ways past the O'Hair property."

The city is preparing an $850,000 bond election, $600,000 of which would be for purchase of the 67-acre O'Hair property.

The property includes two houses, several sheds and what Gerner calls "an enormous barn that would be ideal for horses."

Guthrie Greene said the land would make a very fine regional park.

"It's not overly impressive from the roadside view, but when you get in behind there, it's just beautiful — secluded, surrounded by hills and protected from the winds."

Supervisor-elect Arnold Baptiste said, "as compared to the O'Hair property, you're getting a lot more land for the same price.

"Even from the road you can see the potential bascball fields off to the left by the creek," said City Councilman George C. Quesada. "It seems to have just about anything you could want, and the price seems to be right. When you look at it you can't help comparing it with the O'Hair property, and it looks like a real bargain."

Quesada said that he thought it likely that the city could preserve the most desirable part of the O'Hair property as recreational area even if the property were developed for residential use.

He said that if the property were purchased the city should make it clear to Garlick that the purchase and Garlick's development of the rest of the ranch were separate and that no special consideration on densities of development would be given.

Garlick has told the city that if the planned $850,000 bond election fails he will offer the land under a lease-purchase agreement to be bought in smaller parcels while the city leases the unpurchased land.

The city must, however, act without undue delay, he said. "I will not extend the offer indefinitely if the city council talks about the purchase forever and doesn't do anything about it."

Garlick said that he had development plans for the property prepared and would proceed with the development if the city did not want the property for a park.

The O'Hair property presently being considered for a community park site is located at the corner of Novato Boulevard and Sutro Avenue.

Hub Man Booked As Pot Suspect

A 22-year-old San Anselmo man, being questioned by Mill Valley police yesterday in connection with shoplifting, was booked into Marin Municipal Court today. Police said that a clerk at Crook's Bootery, 32 Miller Avenue, called them at 4:29 p.m. to report that a man, later identified as Nead, had taken a pair of boots.

Nead was stopped by officers half an hour later on Camino Alto. When asked for identification, he produced a wallet from which a cigarette containing suspected marijuana fell, police said.

Missing Girl Is Located At Tahoe

A 15-year-old Bakersfield girl reported missing yesterday by Corte Madera Police has been located staying with friends at Lake Tahoe.

Police said today Pamela Stuart, who had been visiting in Corte Madera phoned her aunt Virginia Nodrstrom of 27 Rocklyn Court, Corte Madera, at 2:30 p.m. yesterday saying she had traveled to the resort area with friends.

Bagley Challenger Hits At Bargaining With Lobbyists

Joseph A. Forest, Democratic nominee for state Assembly, has accused the man he is challenging, Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, of bargaining with lobbyists in an effort to pass his tax revision package.

Forest, in a talk on Wednesday night before the Marin Democratic Unified Campaign Committee in Mill Valley, said, "The incumbent's attempt to swap political favors with special interest groups is the worst form of political dealing, and in total disregard of the public trust and confidence."

Forest, according to a press release from his campaign staff, cited news reports that Bagley was backing an $11-million revenue increase in pari-mutuel funds from horse racing. Bagley indicated to newsmen that race track lobbyists were helping to break the Senate deadlock over the tax package.

Forest said that "such bargaining leaves Mr. Bagley's integrity open to question. I would urgently request Mr. Bagley immediately drop this bill in the interest of the taxpayers."

Forest noted that Gov. Ronald Reagan, in his press conference on Tuesday, had said he had refused to bargain with lobbyists to get votes for the tax package.

Budget For College Gets Board Nod

Marin Junior College District trustees last night adopted a $4,658,323 budget for 1970-71, one that's expected to bring a 3-cent drop in the tax rate.

Trustees approved the budget with almost no discussion by a 6-0 vote. Trustee Donald K. Felt was absent.

Business Mgr. Norman D. Bird has estimated that the budget will carry a 90-cent per $100 assessed valuation tax rate compared to the district's 93-cent rate this year.

The district operates with a 35-cent basix tax rate and a 35-cent special building tax, with the remainder of the rate being made up of special overrides.

The budget is approximately $370,000 higher than last year's figure.

Actual expenditures for the district this year are estimated at $6.5 million, but the district is carrying over $3.3 million in building funds from last year to cover the difference.

The Marin Junior College Distrcit board also:

RESIGNATIONS — Approved resignations from Clark K. Sampson, Elizabeth Buckley and Margaret L. Moses. Sampson was the assistant business manager, Miss Buckley was a secretary and Mrs. Moses was a switchboard operator.

EMPLOYMENT — The board approved hiring Natalie T. Hodgson as a part time reference librarian at a salary of $2,500 for the school year.

EQUIPMENT — Authorized payment of $374,000 for Science Center equipment.

REPRESENTATIVE — Named trustee Harry J. Moore to serve as the board's representative on the California Junior College Association.

TEACHING AGREEMENT — Approved increasing by one the number of student teachers to be accepted from San Francisco State College.

APPOINTMENT — Held over appointing an assistant dean to replace Dr. Berkeley Johnson, who was recently named the college's dean of instruction.

WORKSHOP — Agreed to meet Monday at 7:30 p.m. to study facilities for the college's art program.

STUDY — Received a classified personnel survey prepared by local Chapter 196 of the California State Employees Association on "Internal Alignment of Classified Positions." Agreed to discuss the report at length in the near future.

NEXT MEETING — Set Sept. 3 as the date of the next regular meeting of the board.

Meeting Moved Up

The Aug. 25 meeting of the Dixie School District board has been changed to Aug. 17 at 8 p.m. in the board room of the adminstratiion office, Asst. Supt. Joseph B. Goff announced yesterday.

College Board Sets November Bond Vote

The Marin Junior College District trustees last night voted to place both a $17 million bond issue and a 25-cent tax rate increase before district voters on the Nov. 3 general election ballot.

Trustees voted 6-0 — with Donald K. Felt absent — after agreeing to stipulate that at least 50 per cent of the funds be used for development of the north county campus with the remainder reserved for capital improvement at the Kentfield campus.

The 25-cent tax rate increase — if approved by the voters — would generate funds to be used in the general operation of the college.

Repayment of the bond issue is expected to cost an average of 16 cents per year on the tax rate if amortized over 25 years, trustees were told.

The development of the north county campus is actually expected to cost about $25 million, but the difference between that amount and the $17 million bond issue will be made up in matching state funds.

The tax rate question which will go before the voters will seek approval for the college to drop an existing 35-cent special building tax, due to expire in mid-1972 anyway, and replace it with the 25-cent tax, meaning that taxpayers will see a 10-cent drop in the district's overall tax rate at least for the first year.

College Supt. President John A. Grasham said he expected a drop in the tax rate even after repayment of the bond issue is figured in. He said that investment returns on the bond issue money should be able to offset the additional cost of bond repayment.

The proposed new tax of 25 cents would remain in effect indefinitely, if approved.

Trustee Elizabeth M. Deedy called the two issues "a momentous step in the right direction."

"We are hoping for participation by the entire community," she said. "We have a massive job ahead of us to interpret and explain the issues to the public and we will need everyone's support."

She said she felt that the district must proceed on the basis that it will take a two-thirds majority to pass the issues. Until the U.S. Supreme Court rules on it, the recent state Supreme Court decision that bond issued need only a simple majority will not apply, the trustees have been told by the county legal staff.

The trustees last night also adopted a resolution reaffirming its earlier stand that neither the Kentfield or north campus be designed to house more than 5,000 students, despite some pressure from the state level to design the sites for 10,000 students.

Two Children Succumb To Heat Prostration

CANOGA PARK, Calif. (UPI) —Two young children died from apparent heat prostration in their babysitter's car Thursday while the woman chatted with her daughter, police said.

The babysitter, Mrs. Virginia O'Donnell, 62, Canoga Park, was caring for Hugh Flynn III, 3, and his 6-month-old brother John, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Flynn when her daughter called and asked her to babysit for her grandchild.

Police said Mrs. O'Donnell drove to her daughter's home, which she shared, and left the Flynn children in the car while she went inside to chat.

After about 45 minutes, Mrs. O'Donnell and her daughter, Mrs. Thomas Hendricks, went out to the car and discovered the children's bodies.

Both children were pronounced dead on arrival at a Northridge hospital.

Bruce Ready, Waits High Hanoi Envoy

PARIS (UPI)—Ambassador David K. E. Bruce brought a whole new series of peace proposals to Paris but none will surface in either public or secret negotiations until Hanoi gives something in return for President Nixon's appointment of a ranking negotiator, an authoritative diplomatic source said today.

The diplomat avoided using the term "coalition government" in discussing the new and as yet unexplored possibilities for peace, but he mentioned a "sharing of power" that could be discussed by Hanoi and U.S. negotiators without the participation of Saigon negotiators.

AIRS U.S. STAND

The diplomat said the United States would make no attempt to resume secret negotiations with Hanoi until Washington is satisfied it is dealing with a qualified negotiator.

American negotiators are confident Hanoi will soon send one of their ranking negotiators back to Paris, possibly within a few weeks, the diplomat said.

The diplomat noted that the most senior member of Hanoi's negotiating team in Paris is Nugyen Minh Vy, "who is no. 3 or 4, depending on how you count."

The United States is not ruling out contacts with Vy "on the technicality of his rank" the diplomat said, but he noted that in the eyes of American negotiators "he has never shown that he is anything more than a repeat-the-old-position guy."

RECIPROCAL MOVE?

According to the diplomat, the United States has no intention of revealing the "broad negotiating latitude" of Bruce, until Washington is convinced it has someone it "can do business with."

The diplomat said the new American negotiator is "not going to drop anything on the table" at the weekly public sessions. Before demonstrating the flexibility of the American negotiating position, the United States will await some reciprocal gesture from the "other side."

"None of the contingencies, none of the plans are going to surface until the United States gets something in return," he said.

Smith Ranch Strip Appears Best Field For Air Service

Helicopter service between Marin and San Francisco International Airport has been extremely valuable to our county.

Parking and traffic problems at San Francisco International have made the helicopter service especially attractive to corporate executives who reside in Marin and must make frequent cross-country air trips.

The Marin County Chamber of Commerce and others dedicated to economic progress in Marin know that the presence of the helicopter service has been a favorable factor in attracting desirable industry and business to Marin.

The news that San Francisco-Oakland Helicopter Airlines may suspend service to Marin next week-is indeed bad news.

In announcing the impending cut-back, SFO President Joseph A. Young indicated he hoped it would be only temporary. We hope he is right. The nature and details of the airline's financial problems have not been publicly disclosed. Without more information it is impossible to judge whether the end of service will in fact be only temporary, or whether it may be indefinite.

Marin's need for quick service to San Francisco International continues and presumably will keep on growing.

Golden West Airlines, the southern California-based, third-level air carrier, waits in the wings ready, willing and apparently eager to provide the necessary service for Marin.

Golden West previously sought to establish service to and from Marin using the private Smith Ranch air strip as its base. Residents of nearby Santa Venetia and Gallinas Village protested to the Marin County Planning Commission which turned down the Golden West proposal.

That took place last fall. Last winter, the city of San Rafael annexed a thousand acres of uninhabited land East of Highway 10., between Las Gallinas Creek and Hamilton Field.

Included is the Smith Ranch private air strip.

AT THE MOMENT of that annexation, planning control passed from the county to the city. The door may now be open.

Earlier, a spokesman for Golden West had said the airline might renew its proposal after annexation. To date, nothing has been said or done publicly toward renewal.

Aware that the existence of fast service to and from San Francisco International is important to Marin, Marin County Chamber leaders have, thus far privately, become interested in the possibility of backing Golden West's efforts to enter the field.

If the Smith Brothers strip could not be utilized, there is the possibility of obtaining government approval for use of Hamilton Air Force Base runways. But most of us would probably die of old age before the red tape attendant to such a move could be unwound.

THE COUNTY'S GNOSS Field airport at Novato could be used almost immediately, but it is unlikely to attract air commuters from central or southern Marin. Once you get on the highway for that much of a drive, you might as well head south to San Francisco International. Golden West just could not expect to generate sufficient passengers from Gnoss Field.

Of sights available, Smith Brothers strip appears to be the most likely to succeed — if approval for its use can be obtained.

AFFAIRS OF STATE

300-MPH 'Iron Horse' Now On The Drawing Board, But Why?

By JACK COOPER

SACRAMENTO — One of this state's better-known think tanks let us all know last week that it is working on a 300-mile-an-hour "iron horse" which will get us from downtown San Francisco to downtown Los Angeles in an hour and a half — about the time it now takes in a 500-mile-an-hour airplane and a couple of buses.

All this is to be accomplished by repelling magnetic force and linear induction motors. The magnetic force will "levitate" the car about one foot above the track and the linear induction motors will scoot it along in the air.

Electromagnets, in order to make high performance cheap, will be supercooled to absolute zero and kept at that temperature with helium. Absolute zero, in case you've forgotten, is 459 degrees below zero on your backyard thermometer.

THIS IS RATHER heady stuff, compared to ordinary airplanes which use ordinary jet engines to levitate themselves up to 30,000 feet and then de-levitate down to a landing at Los Angeles or San Francisco.

And it is considerably faster than the old Wabash Cannon Ball, to say nothing of the Dixie Flyer or the Flying Scotsman. Maybe it could be called the Cryogenic Cannonball, the Frigid Flyer or the Flying Frigidaire.

If the august Stanford Research Institute says it'll work, we're prepared to believe them. But if they want to bet you that it's going to happen in the next 50 years, take the bet.

The main effect of this kind of stuff is to divert the public mind from the importance of completing this state's basic transportation system. We can trifle with this workaday system, because shortly some magical solution will be found that will make it all unnecessary.

WHAT THE THINK-TANK boys don't mention, and you are not supposed to think of, is that any 300-mile-an-hour train is going to require the kind of straight, level right-of-way that just doesn't exist. The construction costs for this kind of track would probably be at least as much as the State Water Project.

In our mind's eye we can see a Frigid Flyer negotiating that little gem of the Tehachapis where the southbound trains now enter a tunnel, and on emerging from the south end begin a 270-degree turn to the right and wind up traveling east. Eastbound passengers in the head end can observe the southbound rear cars still emerging from the tunnel.

For some years now, we have heard that one of these days we will be able to overcome such problems by cutting railroad tunnels for a nickel a foot with laser beams. The only one of these that has worked so far, however, was the disintegrator ray that Dr. MacGregor gave to Buck Rogers to try to atomize killer Kane.

THERE IS BIG traffic from points near San Francisco to points near Los Angeles, but as one might guess from the incoming 1970 census figures, downtown-to-downtown traffic is declining all the time.

A plan to run a monorail from L.A. airport to downtown L.A. keeps running into the fact that most of the incoming passengers are heading for Beverly Hills and the San Fernando Valley. Downtown L.A. comes in third as a destination.

There is a general dispersion pattern at San Francisco airport too, and one expert maintains that air passengers arriving at San Francisco destined for East Bay and Contra Costa points contribute greatly to crowding on the Bay Bridge.

Business and industry are moving out of downtown just as the people are, and hotels and motels are moving out to service the traffic they generate.

Praise Given To Planning Panel

I think it is time someone praised the work that is being done by the members of the Marin County Planning Commission.

Having twice witnessed their meetings recently, while protesting the establishment of a private boys' High School on Laurel Grove Avenue, Kentfield, I find it most gratifying these men willingly give so much of their valuable time in the interest of the tax payers and home dwellers and are so sincere in their efforts. Particularly appreciated were those members who gave up their weekends to visit and study the land in question and who took a strong stand to protect the neighborhood involved.

It is truly a dedicated person who will tirelessly work long hours, and does so with little renumeration. The Planning Commission is endeavoring to keep our County the wonderful place it is to live, unselfishly doing what must be the most thankless job in the world.

The Plight Of Ag Preserves

Monday, (Aug. 3) the "Reporter's Notebook" brought up the plight of Marin's Agricultural Preserves. Noting that areas of less than 100 acres are seldom used in legitimate agricultural enterprises, it is also true that making these areas ineligible for preserve status gives all persons with preserve contracts a way to get out of them.

The recent fuss on whether a person under agreement can disolve the agreement before it expires will be ended, since any person under contract can merely divide his land into parcels of 100 acres or less, sell them to different owners and thereby automatically void the preserve agreement.

Visitor To PG&E Plant Impressed

On July 22-24 I had the pleasure of taking a trip to the Feather River as a guest of the P.G.&E., to visit their power plants up there. It was an outstanding trip from an educational standpoint, as well as a fun trip, also. I certainly would like to express my opinion on what a great job the P.G.&E. is doing up in that area.

The public must realize the effort that goes into getting electricity to the home, business, industry and our great street lighting. My hat is off to PG&E, and a bouquet of roses to all of the employees. I say a job well done. Also, when I get my P.G.&E. bill at the end of the month, I will say to myself, "well worth it".

Warning About Those Car Stalls

This is a warning to all who park in the San Rafael city stalls.

"They are getting bolder," said the gentlemanly officer of the law.

Together this is what we saw.

My Mustang sorrowfully resting on its front legs — naked to its very rims. You know, life is truly getting quite grim.

My modern day horse was parked in the upper decks of the San Rafael Municipal Parking lot from high noon till five. In golden daylight some natives did an untribal act to survive.

Guess there are some drones who have a sting!

Why Is Republican Tax Plan Better?

I recently received from the office of Sen. John McCarthy his "Report to the People" for July. In it Senator McCarthy makes reference to the debate before the Senate concerning tax relief.

Senator McCarthy states that in a protracted hearing before the Senate Finance Committee, the Republican bill calling for one-billion dollars in taxes was approved over the substitute Democratic proposal calling for four hundred and fifty million dollars in taxes. He further states that he anticipates a floor battle over the Democratic proposal. He finds this "ironic" as the Democratic measure calls for substantially the same program as the Republican bill.

The only reasonable inference I can draw from this information is that if the Democratic proposals are substantially the same, then why should the Republican bill calling for taxes of one billion dollars be superior to the Democratic bill calling for four hundred and fifty million dollars? Ironic or otherwise, it would seem obvious that the Democratic plan imposing a lesser burden on the taxpayer would be superior if, as Senator McCarthy concedes, we are going to receive essentially the same in services.

Rogers' Middle East Peace Plan Is Proof He's Not A Figurehead

By ROSCOE and GEOFFREY DRUMMOND

WASHINGTON — Secretary of State William Rogers' peace plan is doing more to move the Arabs and Israelis away from war and toward negotiations than anything put forward since the Six-Day War in 1967.

Rogers generated this move, and it is proving to be well conceived and well timed.

If it accomplishes its purpose — as it is beginning to do — it will be a crucial act in behalf of world peace and away from perilous confrontation between the Soviet Union and the United States.

These developments underline how trivial, petty and damaging to U.S. foreign policy it is to try to measure Rogers' role against that of White House Security Affairs Adviser Henry Kissinger and to judge who is more influential by the number of times he sees the President.

Some have been inaccurately writing that Secretary Rogers is no more than a friendly figurehead at the top of the State Department he doesn't control; that in a crunch he is ignored by the President; that he misled Congress about Cambodia because he didn't know what was going on; that he pretty much sits on the sidelines as big events pass by.

Not true at any point.

ONE VERY IMPORTANT reason requires that the record be set straight. The execution of foreign policy is inseparable from the secretary of state. To falsely downgrade his role, his ability and his closeness to the President is to irresponsibly enfeeble the conduct of American foreign policy.

Rogers is today at the center of the most momentous foreign policy initiative the United States has taken since Richard Nixon took office. He is leading and guiding it and the prescient care he took early to develop cordial and trustworthy relations with Moscow's influential ambassador to the US., Anatoly Dobrynin, is serving him well.

It is not the genius of Rogers' initiative which is propelling the Arabs and Israelis toward negotiation. Objective forces are doing it: The Soviet fear that the Middle East could explode into world war, the Egyptian fear that Israel may be prodded into a preemptive strike, the Israeli fear that mounting Soviet arms and pilots in Egypt threaten its survival.

But it is Secretary Rogers' initiative which is providing the catalyst to bring the antagonists together.

AS TO ROGERS NOT being in on crucial foreign policy decisions, which the President alone must make, that is idle chitchat. Rogers' views may not always prevail, but he is an active participant as he was at every critical stage in the Cambodia decision.

For military reasons President Nixon had to guard his Cambodia decision from leaks. This annoyed some members of Congress, and after Rogers appeared in closed session before a House appropriations subcommittee, a partial transcript of his testimony was leaked from Capital Hill. This partial transcript gave the impression that the secretary had deliberately misled the committee by appearing to imply that Nixon had ruled out attacking the Cambodian sanctuaries or else that Rogers was so distant from the decision-making process that he did not know what was going on.

The fact is that it was the limited leak which was misleading, not the secretary of state. Here is what Rogers actually said after testifying that it was not the purpose of U.S. forces to support the Lon Nol government:

"On the other hand, we can see that if we were able to move in, it we were able to knock out these sanctuaries, it could very well make it possible for Vietnamization to proceed at a faster pace. So we are right in the decision-making process now on what to do.

Having a McGeorge Bundy or a Walt Rostow or a Henry Kissinger at the side of the President obviously cuts into the influence of any secretary of state. The role of all-powerful secretaries of state, like Henry Stimson, Dean Acheson and John Foster Dulles, is past.

But Rogers is today more nearly a fountainhead than a figurehead.

INSIDE WASHINGTON

Thurmond Still Realizes He Needs Nixon's Image

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and JOHN A. GOLDSMITH

WASHINGTON — The recently enacted bitter-sweet tableau in which Sen. Strom Thurmond panned, then praised President Nixon has broad political implications — and not only for the President.

Much was written questioning the President's "Southern strategy" after South Carolina's Thurmond blasted Nixon's school integration policies a few weeks ago. Thurmond suggested that those policies might mean Nixon's defeat in 1972.

Political commentators replied, however, that with George Wallace rehabilitated by Alabama voters and apparently back in the presidential running, Nixon might be well advised to remove himself from Thurmond's embrace.

Then the senator, in a report to his constituents, changed his tack. Dwelling fondly on the President's policy on textile imports, Thurmond told his home folks that Nixon's heart was, after all, in the right place and that the President was resisting his liberal advisers.

Very little has been said and written about Thurmond's words of reconciliation. It is partly clear, however, that, having helped to elect Nixon by keeping Southern delegations in line at the nominating convention, Thurmond is, in a sense, stuck with Nixon and, in fact, needs the President perhaps as much as the President needs him.

IN THE INTERVAL between the bitter and sweet Thurmond comments, the liberal GOP Ripon Society published its critique on the Southern strategy in its monthly "Forum." Not surprisingly it concluded that the President should adopt a progressive stance to win Southern support and abandon the conservatives.

It declared that the revival of Wallace's presidential hopes means trouble for Mr. Nixon, because Wallace will capture the electoral votes of the Deep South in 1972. Mr. Nixon, the society said, should avoid a "polarizing" strategy to win votes in both the North and South.

The judgments of the New England-based Ripon Society may not the the best available with respect to byzantine political maneuverings in individual Southern states. Its overall statistics cannot be faulted, however, when it notes that the once solid South has not been solid for a presidential candidate since 1944.

"Typically, it has been divided along the lines of the Deep South (the belt from South Carolina to Louisiana and Arkansas) versus the Peripheral South," a Forum editorial declares.

"Given this fact of life," the Ripon Society says, "the GOP must decide which part of the South it wants. The choice should be easy, because not only is the Peripheral South more lucrative, but it has also been far more receptive to Republican campaigners on all levels."

Motorcycles Mighty Dangerous As A Mode Of Transportation

Motorcycles are killers.

That's the conclusion I've reached after three months of checking the California Highway Patrol each morning for accidents.

Marin County averages about three motorcycle accidents a week, and about once a month someone is killed. Witness the death Saturday of Robert Marion Allen, 19, of Daly City, killed when his machine slid into the path of a van on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard in San Geronimo Valley.

Never mind the freedom, the sense of exhiliration that motorcyclists get when they crank up their machines and roar off. Never mind the romantic James Dean aura.

JUST LOOK AT the statistics. According to the National Safety Council, the death rate for motorcycle riders is 23 per 100 million vehicle miles, as compared to 5.5 for cars. So motorcycle riders are four times more likely to get killed than automobile drivers.

And consider this — 85 to 90 per cent of all motorcycle accidents result in death or injury. Even a minor spill can turn into a broken bone or a fractured skull.

Because of their maneuverability, it is easier to avoid an accident on a motorcycle than in a car.

But once a collision occurs, all advantage is lost. The cyclist is at the mercy of his surroundings — unfriendly curbs, hostile trees, abrasive paving.

HELMETS, LEATHER jackets and other protective devices help, and no motorcyclist should ever go without them. But better yet would be never to set foot (to mix a metaphor) on the contraption in the first place.

These thoughts are prompted by a recent accident in which a 23-year-old San Anselmo man was killed and a 15-year-old girl critically injured in a motorcycle crash on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard in Forest Knolls.

The man was minding his own business, tooling down the highway, when a woman pulled across his path from a parking place.

She told officers that she looked and didn't see any traffic. This is the irony of the whole thing. Many motorists claim they don't see motorcycles that they hit (or hit them), but I believe that in many cases they see them but the sight doesnt' register.

MOTORISTS, I BELIEVE, are conditioned not to pay attention to motorcycles. The machine is so small, so insignificant, that the motorist dismisses it from his mind.

Ride a motorcycle a few times in city traffic and you'll see what I mean. People change lanes in front of you. cut you off, pull out in front of your path, make left turns in front of you. They just don't care. They seem to consider motorcycles as some kind of gnat.

"He can just pull around me," they think, or "He can stop easily."

Perhaps this doesn't occur on a conscious level, but I believe it does occur.

TO BE FAIR, many bikers are hot-rodders who zoom through traffic with seeming abandon. They give the appearance of riding recklessly between cars and on the shoulder.

But I think they know what they're doing. If motorists would watch out for them like they watch out for motorists, the accident rate would be cut considerably.

But the accidents keep happening, and that's why I'll never own a motorcycle. In theory, they represent total freedom, but in fact, with a little bad luck, they can mean the total lack of freedom — death.

COUNTY COMMENT

Not A Foe Of Conservation, But Don't Like Those Phonies

Fusselman

Please be assured that I am not against "conservation" and never have been.

For instance: My favorite book is "My Wilderness" by William O. Douglas.

I pick it up and read a page or two when I feel badly about my not being able to get around like I did for so many years. I am refreshed with a feeling of being at his side and seeing the things he so simply but eloquently tells about.

However, I am against phonies who get on the band wagon because it is the thing to do. Also, I am against those who are so uptight about all this that they lose sight of the humanities involved.

A sad fatal accident we all read about and a "10 Years Ago" (Aug. 4 1960) item in the Tuesday issue of the I-J are examples of the danger of this uptight practice.

HERE IS THE "10 Years Ago" item: "Marin residents protested the state Division Highways' plan for a four-lane freeway along the shoreline from Highway 101 to 2.8 miles south of Olema."

That protest took place in the board of supervisors hearing room of the annex to the courthouse. I was there and looked into the faces of those whom I was told had been bidden by urgent telephone calls the night before.

Many of them glared at me as at a deadly enemy, when I tried to tell them my personal understanding of the terrain. Following is an excerpt from this County Comment column, dated December 1, 1967.

The heading: "Criminal To Continue Route of Highway on Perilous Cliffs" "Before commenting on the Shoreline Highway problem, let me say I have been driving for 54 years in Washington, Oregon and up and down this coast. This has been over every type of terrain — cliffsides, seashore, and mountains."

DURING MANY years, in connection with my business, I drove the Shoreline Highway several times a week. I know the area from the Sausalito lateral through the tunnel to Fort Cronkhite and from Muir Beach north."

"A few weeks ago (1967) the county planning commission voted 4-to-3 favoring the cliff route from the Golden Gate Bridge to Stinson Beach-Bolinas and on to Olema and Point Reyes National Seashore. Commissioner Eugene R. Trombley, Niels Schultz, Jr. and Walter Freitas wanted to consider an alternate route that would follow the southern boundaries of Marincello, tunnel throught Wolfe Ridge into Tennesses Valley, through Coyote Ridge into Muir Beach.

"One of the commissioners, voting for the cliff side, said, 'esthetically there would be less harm on the cliff than in the rolling hillside' "

A panel of 4 appeared before the conservation group two of them (very prominent in conservation circles,) favored a route through Stinson Beach and Bolinas. One of them said "I just don't understand a route that don't take people where they wan't to go." Then the other one wanted "an inspirational route. It would have all the gimmicks, such as going around a special tree that would give a really delightful thought for the day."

I FINISHED the column that day with — "As I have said I know that entire area well. Believe me it would be criminal to expand and continue the present dangerous cliff alignment. It should be moved away from the cliff's edge."

Further consideration was swept under the rug to await a better climate for having their own way.

A few days ago two fine young men were forced over the edge — one fatally injured.

Tomorrow I will be 82 and my drivers' license expires, the end of 56 years of driving to wonderful places of natural beauty.

Integration Plan Asked

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A federal judge wants San Francisco's Board of Education to draw a master plan by Jan. 2 for totally integrating the city's schools by Sept. 1, 1971.

In making his suggestion Thursday, Judge Stanley A. Weigel declared that racial imbalance has persisted here for at least a decade with the knowledge of the board.

His remarks were made to attorney Irving Breyer, representing the board, and to Arthur Brunwasser, who represents the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Brunwasser, whose organization had filed a suit seeking integration, said the suggestion was agreeable to him. Breyer said he would have to consult his clients and the judge recessed the hearing until Aug. 12.

Hearing Continued

Preliminary hearing has been continued to Tuesday for Robert Wayne Kitzmiller, Fairfax ex-convict charged with attacking a San Rafael woman with a sawed-off .22 caliber rifle July 30.

Commission To Review Plan For Richardson Bay Harbor

A plan for new and improved docks and berths to accomodate all 260 houseboats in Donnal J. Arques; harbor in Richardson Bay will be reviwed by the Marin County Planning Commission Monday morning in the commission chambers at Marin Civic Center.

Arques's 25-acre property is at gates 5 and 6, from Grove to Monterey Street. Arques's plan would provide berthing for all existing houseboats on his property and a few moored in the bay.

Other items on the planning commission agenda include:

VETERINARY CLINIC — A proposed change in the county code to allow veterinary clinics in retail business and commercial districts, with a use permit. At present, a veterinary clinic is allowed only in industrial districts.

ENGLISH TAVERN — A hearing on Charles Felix's plan to set up a small English pub-type restaurant at Muir Beach, at the corner of Pacific Way and Shoreline Highway.

LAIRD'S LANDING — Hearing on a tentative map for Laird's Landing subdivision on 319 acres owned by Robert D. Marshall Jr. north of Tomales Bay State Park, between Pierce Point Road and Tomales Bay. The property is within the area designated for the Point Reyes National Seashore. The tentative map for 63 lots has been continued since December of 1969 because purchase by the federal government was expected, but the owner now wants to go ahead because the government has not yet acquired or condemned the land.

Oil Blaze Set At $100,000

COMMERCE (UPI) — Fire caused an estimated $100,000 damage and injured one man Thursday night in a warehouse containing oil products.

The injured employe of Lubricating Specialties Co. was not identified, but firemen said he suffered second-degree burns on his arms and legs.

Twelve county fire units and 60 men extinguished the blaze in about 45 minutes.

Dog License Deadline Is Last Of August

Dog owners in Marin have until Aug. 31 to get dog license for the 1970-71 fiscal year, tax collector-treasurer Stanley J. Fontez announced today.

He said he has received several calls from pet owners complaining that applications for dog licenses were not mailed to them.

"That may be true," said Fontez. "But the main thing is that anyone can get a dog license by going to the nearest city hall or to the Marin Civic Center, or just call us and we'll mail the application to them." He said a valid rabies certificate is required before a dog license is issued.

Fontez said the dog license applications are mailed to a list of dog owners provided by the Marin County Humane Society on the basis of last year's records. This list of names and addresses is prepared by the data processing department and mailed out.

He conceded that in the process, some dog owners may have been overlooked, and those who did not get a license last year would not get an application this year.

Dog license fees are $2.50 for spayed female dog, and $5 for all other dogs. After the Aug. 1 deadline, the fee will go up to $8 and $5.

Sausalito Planners Reject Zoning Plea For Apartment

A proposed apartment development on Sausalito's Wolfback Ridge has received a major setback with Sausalito Planning Commission rejection of a request to rezone the land.

Planning Director H. Eric Borgwardt said the commission voted unanimously Wednesday against changing the zoning of 90 acres on the ridge from single family duplex designations.

The application, which will now go to the city council, came from developers Frank Lynch and E.R. Fitzsimmons who also asked for a conditional use permit to allow construction of a 396-unit on 60 acres of the land.

Borgwardt said the commission postponed action on the use permit until the council acts on the zoning request.

The Sausalito Planning Commission also:

BOARDWALK — Granted an encroachment permit to Frank Werber to allow construction of a boardwalk behind 660 Bridgeway leading to Princess Park. The permit was granted on condition the public be given access to the bayside walkway, the planning director said.

RESTRICTIONS LIFTED — At the request of Trident Productions, lifted restrictions which limited use of a portion of a commercial building at 660 Bridgeway to six specific kinds of businesses. The commission voted the first floor of the structure can contain any six types of businesses allowed in a central commercial zone.

DRIVEWAY — Approved an encroachment application from Mr. and Mrs. Albert Cote to allow construction of a parking driveway on city street right-of-way at 67 Platt Avenue.

GENERAL PLAN — Adopted a resolution of intention to amend the city general plan to include other plans recently adopted by the city council, including the central waterfront and marinship plans.

NEWSPAPER RACK — Granted an encroachment application to Mark Thompson to permit a newspaper rack in front of Sausalito Liquors, 705 Bridgeway.

SIGN — Gave approval to William Charles for a projecting sign for a business at 676 Bridgeway.

Canning Sugar Shortage Cited

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Canners, particularly in the peach industry, are facing a critical shortage of liquid sugar due to the lengthy strike at the C&H Sugar Co. plant in Crocket.

The warning came Thursday from state Agriculture Director Jerry W. Fielder, who labeled the situation "alarming."

"The problem is not an overall shortage of sugar—there is plenty for the housewife and other users—but rather a current lack of sufficient plant capacity for melting sugar from the granular form to the liquid required for food processing," the director said in a statement.

DINING OUT AND INNS

By HARRY CRAFT

Black Point Inn Now At Its Best And Plans To Add More Seafood

It's always encouraging when a restaurant finds and settles down comfortably in its proper stride — the style and pace at which it operates most efficiently and develop its maximum appeal.

I would say that right now the Black Point Inn is at its best since Jess Fisher remodeled and opened this historical old roadside inn for business more than eight years ago.

In spite of the usual problems Jess had had over this period I have always known him as a genial, happy sort of person — sometimes overenthusiastic with a new idea which sometimes didn't work out — but always bobbing back like a cork and ready to try again. You might say that Black Point Inn during the last eight years has been his entire life and he has refused to let it die, come what may.

This isn't to say that its problems are over. That is never true for any restaurant, no matter how high it flies. But you can visit here, knowing you will get good food at the hands of chef Jack Cardini, good service and fair prices at both the table and bar. I should add to that — good entertainment with Art Allison at the piano bar Wednesday through Saturday nights.

Incidentally, Cardini plans to add more seafood specialties to the menu soon and you can trust a chef who is also a good fisherman to excel in this department. Meanwhile, you'll just have to put up with three or four seafood dishes, four ways of serving veal, four of chicken, along with steaks, brochettes, sweetbreads and pastes.

The former main dining room at Black Point makes a good party room and will seat 40 comfortably. Once Jess planned on having an upstairs banquet room, but with the downstairs remodeling that wasn't necessary.

THERE IS ENTERTAINMENT now at the Grotto in San Rafael on Friday and Saturday nights, when guitarist Fritz Von Gluck strums pizzicatos on his strings. He is a master of both classical and flamenco music.

THE RANCHO RAFAEL at Ignacio has continued to offer motel service although food and bar facilities have been dormant for more than a year. Now there is a good prospect for a return to its former days of glory — but not for several months.

It has just been purchased by Hotel Laundries, Inc., a corporation headed by David Kahler of San Rafael and F. John Dreyfus of Belvedere, who are also principals in Duracite Manufacturing Co., Inc., of San Rafael.

Although they have applied for transfer of the general on-sale liquor license owned by Charles and Garnet Capelli, who operated the Flatiron Bar, about the only increased activity at the Rancho for the next 90 days or so will be fencing off the property and extensive remodeling.

The new owners are taking time to do a thorough restoration before committing themselves to a definite completion date. But one of these days it will blossom out under a new name and in an entirely different type of operation.

LOOK ALSO for a new restaurant to open at Marinship, Sausalito, about the first of next month.

It will be called Gate 5 Restaurant and is very close to where Juanita used to have her Juanita's Galley. Peter Bonet, a former owner of the Brighton Express in San Francisco, is now lining up help and plans several features that should develop a large clientele.

The Gate 5 will be tastefully done, with an indoor and outdoor garden, butcher blocks and graphics on the walls for decor. It will feature a daily change of menu coupled with choice wines and beers. Breakfasts and lunches will be served at the start, with dinners to follow later.

JEAN'S KITCHEN in Ross has added some family-style frills to the dinners at no increase in prices —relish, soup, salad and ravioli, served at the table before the entree so you can help yourself to whatever you want. Lunches here are still $1.25.

LE PETIT at 33 Reed Boulevard near Strawberry Town and Country Village has some new items on the menu:

Among the sandwiches are the Berliner — hot pastrami, Swiss cheese and sauerkraut, with a Russian dressing — $1.50.

A crepe dinner served after 4 p.m. at $3.25 offers a choice of salad or soup, French bread, a choice of several crepes, dessert and coffee or tea. New on the crepes list are beef Stroganoff with a sour cream sauce and ham and asparagus Mornay in a delicate cheese sauce.

Among the desserts now are coffee toffee pie, cheese cake and gateau Arlene. And there is quite a take-out menu.

AL BARTHEL'S MENU at Senor Alfredo's Mexican Restaurant in San Anselmo may not show it, but dinner entrees include a 16-ounce New York steak, served with rice, beans and salad at $5.25.

Also featured are El Presidente burger — a half-pound of ground beef on a bun for $1.50, the Sapata burger (something like a sloppy Joe) at $1.25 and a child's entree called a Senorita burger at 95 cents.

And if you hadn't noticed it, there is an American low-calorie plate featured on the regular menu.

IN KEEPING with all the remodeling of the former Woodlands Restaurant in Kentfield into the new Zim's, this organization has also done over its other Marin County unit in the Corte Madera Shopping Center. Both restaurants now feature a new image — with comfortable booths, bright new decor and an expanded menu of entrees, sandwiches and desserts.

Topping the food innovations is "Zim fried Chicken," dipped in a zesty sesame seed batter, deep-pressure fried and served with hot buttered corn on the cob, French fried potatoes, roll and butter. It's also available in a child's plate and to take out.

The "Zimburger" and hot apple pie are still among the perennials.

OBSERVING ITS FIRST BIRTHDAY this month is the Tiajuana Taco drive-through restaurant at 930 Seventh Street, Novato.

Arthur D. Hay, who operates this place, was a little upset that I did not include him among last week's list of Mexican restaurants. Actually I hadn't intended to get into the franchised outlets in this respect, because they are numerous and not within the intended scope of our detailed coverage, as I have previously said here on many occasions.

But in Arthur's case I feel somewhat badly in having omitted him, because he seems to go beyond the usual "call of duty" in conducting a franchised operation. With great pride he describes his place as "Novato's only drive-through, sit-down, air-conditioned restaurant offering a wide menu of Mexican foods . . . including tacos, frijoles, burritos, enchiladas, chili, tamales, chiliburgers and many combination plates."

Open seven days a week from 10:30 a.m. to 11:30 p.m. (to 12:30 a.m. Fridays and Saturdays).

IN SAN FRANCISCO, the San Franciscan Hotel on Market Street at the Civic Center, operated since last November by Pacific Southwest Airlines, has opened its new Corinthian dining room featuring French cuisine.

It's open for lunch from noon to 3 p.m. and for dinner from 6 to 11 p.m. Mondays through Fridays. Open Saturdays only through dinner hours and closed Sundays. There are fashion shows with modeling by PSA hostesses Wednesdays and Fridays at noon, and a steak cart allowing dinner guests to choose the cut and size of their steaks before serving.

ALSO IN SAN FRANCISCO — and this should be good for commuters — is a hofbrau called Day's on Ellis Street near Market, around the corner from Grodin's and Joseph Magnin's.

Purchasing Power Declines In June

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Despite higher wages, Californians' purchasing power declined in June because of rising prices, the Department of Industrial Relations said today.

Hourly earnings of factory workers rose to $3.79, a new high and 17 cents an hour over the comparable figure last year. But workers with three dependents found their purchasing power decreased by 1.7 per cent for June. A single worker was able to purchase 1.4 per cent less because of higher retail prices.

The June salary average of $150.08 per week increased 2.1 per cent over the 1969 figures, the smallest gain in three years.

Novato Sanitary Board's Agenda

The Novato Sanitary District board will review the 1970-71 operations budget of $297,765 at 8 p.m. Monday at the North Marin County Water District office.

Last year's operations cost was $263,881.

The board will also consider the annexation of the San Marin East development at Highway 101 and San Marin Drive, plan approval for Western Oaks Village Unit No. 1 development and an outside service agreement with William Tarrant for property currently in annexation proceedings.

Fairfax Council Hikes Part-Time Pay Only

Fairfax City Council last night failed to reach a decision on pay raises for full-time city employees, but did grant five per cent raises on part-time salaries. (Another council story, page 1)

City Clerk-Administrator Frances Lestanguet had recommended an overall five per cent pay hike, while department heads sought 10 per cent.

Councilmen, apparently determined to hold the city tax rate at $1.74 per $100 assessed valuation, struggled with the salary question, but made little headway.

Fire chief Charles F. Thornton said it would be a bad move to hold the "tax line at the expense of city employees," but Mayor Frank J. Egger assured him this wasn't the intent.

After some floundering about how to proceed, the council agreed to go department by department, taking first part-time employees.

The first up for decision was part-time workers in the city office, and Councilman Francis O'Connell contended this would set the pattern for all raises.

If the council couldn't come up with more cuts in the budget, he would "stick to five per cent," O'Connell said.

Councilmen then discussed the idea of granting a five per cent increase retroactive to July 1 and then granting a 2.5 per cent raise in January, a proposal made earlier by Mayor Frank J. Egger.

They also discussed the possibility of reducing the reserve of $153,000 to meet the cost of pay raises above the 5 per cent recommended by Mrs. Lestanguet.

A motion to grant part-time workers in the city office 5 per cent now and 2.5 per cent in January was defeated by a 3-2 vote with Robert R. Souza, Cornelis Van Vliet and Lee Nelder voting no.

This brought a recess and then everyone sang "Happy Birthday" to Priscilla Gary of 126 Ridge Road, a frequent visitor at council sessions.

After the recess the council voted unanimously to grant a five per cent pay raise to the part-time workers in the city office.

They also approved a five per cent pay hike for the deputy city clerk by a 3-2 vote with O'Connell and Egger dissenting.

The councilmen, who had drastically cut the parks budget earlier this week to the dismay of the parks and recreation commission, made up for it a little by increasing the salary of Recreation Director Anthony J. Barbera.

They increased the salary for the part-time post from $3,300 to $4,200 a year by a 3-2 vote with Nelder and Souza dissenting.

Egger noting previous cuts in the parks and recreation budget backed the increase saying, "I feel the morale of the recreation commission will be downgraded to a point where we will lose more than one commissioner."

At the start of the meeting, Delores Dollahite, a commissioner for three years and former chairman, resigned effestice immediately.

She said it was evident to her that the majority of the council didn't share her concern for the pavilion and parks. "I feel that lack of concern by the city council is indicated by the budget cuts made Aug. 4."

Other changes approved by the council included increasing the hourly pay of a police cadet from $2.28 an hour to $2.52, and repair of Crest Road, Meerna Avenue drainage and repair of the bridge at Bridge Court, at an additional cost of $740.

Candidate Vows Target Is Phosphates In Detergents

Peter H. Behr, Republican candidate for state Senate from the Fourth District, today promised to introduce legislation to ban all phosphates from detergents if elected and if similar federal legislation fails to pass.

Behr, at a lunch meeting of the Vallejo Rotary Club yesterday, claimed that detergents were "The major pollutant of Bay Area waters."

(State studies of bay pollution, however, unanimously conclude that domestic sewage is the major source of pollution.

(The state studies also have suggested that the major source of phosphates is domestic sewage, although this probability is still being studied by the state.)

Phosphates encourage the growth of algae, which then bloom in areas of restricted circulation, thus consuming the same oxygen needed for fish life.

Citing detergent manufacturers' claims that phosphates are needed in their products as a water softener, Behr said that the Bay Area "has the softest water found in the state."

The legislation pending in Congress would ban all phosphates from detergents after June 30, 1971.

FCC Clarifies Stand On TV-Politics Issues

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Communications Commission favors selling political fund-raising TV commercials, but is against forcing stations to sell time for controversial comment and granting Congress prime time.

The positions were outlined Thursday in FCC rulings and during Senate testimony — the latter by FCC Chairman Dean Burch — as the government overseer of the nation's airwaves clarified its position on some political-television issues.

Cabbie Aided In Arrest Of RFK Son

BARNSTABLE, Mass. (UPI) —The taxi driver who took Robert F. Kennedy Jr. to retrieve a pet falcon July 10 was an undercover narcotics agent whose actions led to the arrest of the boy and his cousin Robert Sargent Shriver III on marijuana charges that night, it was learned today. (See also photo, page 2.)

UPI also learned the two youths will be leaving the Kennedy Compound on Nantucket Sound "as soon as possible" to spend time with relatives.

Kennedy, son of the assassinated New York Senator, will return to McLean, Va., while young Shriver, Kennedy's cousin and son of the former ambassador to France, will go to New York, a family source said.

Kennedy's pet falcon escaped July 8 and the boy broke his right wrist falling from a tree when he tried to retrieve him. Two days later, the bird was captured in Cohasset, about 60 miles across Cape Cod Bay, near Boston.

Young Kennedy took a taxi to Cohasset to recover the bird that day, the 10th. The taxi driver "was definitely an undercover agent" investigating the rise of narcotics use on Cape Cod, a police source said. He declined to identify the driver-agent or elaborate on the way in which he helped in the arrests.

The names of the two youths were taken by authorities the night of the 10th in a drug raid in Hyannis Port but not in the family compound. The incident was not revealed until Wednesday, a day after the boys were served with juvenile warrants charging them with illegal possession of marijuana and conspiracy to violate the state drug laws.

They appeared Thursday in the Juvenile Session of District Court and received a stern lecture from the judge, who continued their case along with those of 100 other juveniles—all reportedly first offenders, like Kennedy and Shriver—for a year without finding.

Possible New Source Of Power Discovered

RIVERSIDE (UPI) — Steam and hot water wells in Imperial Valley which may provide a major source of water and pollution-free power, have been located by a research team from the University of California at Riverside, it was disclosed Wednesday.

Dr. Robert Rex, team leader and professor of geology at UC Riverside, said in a report that the seven new geothermal fields stretching through the Imperial Valley south to northern Mexico will provide sufficient power for the projected needs of California for the rest of the century.

"If developed successfully," Rex said, "This new power resource has the capacity for restructuring the entire economy of the southwestern United States and northern Mexico. As one measure of this fact, our studies indicate these new geothermal fields have an electrical power potential fifteen times that of Hoover Dam when it is operating at capacity."

The underground "hot ocean" is actually a series of geothermal steam fields bubbling at temperatures exceeding 500 degrees and along with its power potential, could produce more than seven million acre-feet of distilled water annually for at least three decades.

"More important," Rex added, "geothermal power can be completely pollution-free. It does not contaminate the environment."

It was estimated the wells could provide fresh water cheaper than the Feather River project with desalination. "Geothermal water desalination would produce distilled water that could not only augment Colorado River water, but maintain its quality as well," Rex said.

The fields, produced when superhot rocks meet cold underground water, were considered uneconomic for producing either energy or water before the study due to the high salinity found in samples obtained in and near the Salton Sea.

Although the fields adjacent to the Salton Sea are highly saline, Rex said the study proved conclusively that this is not the case with the other steam fields located elsewhere in the valley.

The new discoveries are located in the following areas:

— North Brawley, near the city of Brawley.

— East Brawley, near the city of Brawley.

— Heber, near Calexico.

— Glamis, east of the Algodones Dunes.

— Dunes, near the Coachella Canal east of Holtville.

— Alamo, near the international border.

— Mesa, on East Mesa east of Holtville.

Terra Linda Park Center Announces Planned Activities

A pet show tomorrow from 1 to 2 p.m., a teen dance next Friday from 8 to 11 p.m. and an Aug. 15 soft ball at 3 p.m., all to be held at the Terra Linda Recreation Park District Center, have been announced by director Fran Traina.

All owners of pets are invited to enter their animals and prizes will be awarded, the director said.

Pony rides will be held from 1 to 3 p.m., she said.

A local group, Spring Fever, provide music for the dance.

The softball game will be played by fathers and sons who will later have a swim and an award dinner, she said.

Papers Reveal John Jay As Liberal Type

NEW YORK (UPI)—Rare papers previously unpublished reveal founding father John Jay wasn't as conservative as earlier thought. He helped procure cannon for the defense of the Hudson River against the British.

The papers, lost for almost two centuries, were presented Thursday to Columbia University by the class of 1925 through an unidentified collector.

Jay, the first Chief Justice of the United States and co-author of the Federalist Papers, had previously expressed hopes of conciliation with the British. But his gun-smuggling activities apparently began two weeks after the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

The prominent New York lawyer wrote about visiting "the works" in Salisbury, Conn. in July, 1776 to procure "as many cannon for the defense of the Hudson River as the state of Connecticut can conveniently supply."

RACE ON HORSEBACK

Preparing For 100 Grueling Miles

By PAT BALMES

Five Marin women will attempt to ride horseback 100 mountainous miles on Aug. 15 in the most grueling of all endurance races. This 16th annual Western States 100 Miles One Day Race will attract about 150 racers from the United States and abroad to vie for the Tevis Cup on the pioneer route from California gold mines to the silver lode of Nevada over the Sierra Nevada.

The Western States Trail, descending 7,430 feet through canyons from Tahoe City to Auburn, is almost as much of a wilderness as when the Washoe Indians used it before the Gold Rush in 1848. Afterward it was used by miners and express riders from the mining camps. In 1852, riders from the Auburn Wells Fargo and Company office carried mail and treasure for the mining camps. The Tevis Cup, named for Lloyd Tevis who was the company's president between 1872 and 1892, is awarded to the rider whose horse finishes first in good condition in the opinion of the judges and after veterinary examination.

The Haggin Cup, named for James Haggin, pioneer president of Anaconda Copper Co., is presented to the entrant whose horse is among the first 10 to arrive after dark at the Auburn fairgrounds and is in superior condition.

Silver buckles are presented to all who finish the 100 miles within 24 hours with horses in good condition. Last year 55 of the 125 starters finished.

THIS YEAR'S Marin equestrienne contenders range in age from the mother of grown daughters to high-school girls.

Mrs. W. L. McCall of Greenbrae explains, "Youth is not a prerequisite to finishing the 100 miles. There are more people my age than young people. To get in condition I do exercises. I ride early every morning and many evenings, too. I want to take off eight pounds so my equipment and I will just make the 150-pound minimum weight requirement."

Nancy McCall is particularly gratified to be able to enter her first 100 mile endurance race. The trim horsewoman says, "Five years ago I had major surgery and was told by my doctor that I might never be able to ride again."

"On an endurance ride you feel the whole world is your oyster. You ride alone at your own pace; a flat walk or a trot. I think more people should get out of their shells and do things like this. I never was much of a cake-baker," she winks.

Nancy confesses she's a "little terrified" of her first 100-miles-in-one-day race. "I rode last night until 11 p.m. Spooky!" The date of the race is chosen for a full moon, "But when you get into those canyons at about 10:30 p.m. it's pitch dark. You have to trust your horse. He can sense things in the dark. We carry flashlights because it's dark when we cross No Hands Bridge, which stretches over a canyon with no guard rail."

Seven veterinarian check points protect the horses from ignorance or cruel treatment.

"I would never push Rashann even if I weren't governed. I think too much of my Arabian," says Nancy. "And I want to look forward to this again!"

"AT CHECK points I'll change my clothes and my horse's saddle blanket. I wear thermo long-johns to protect my legs, even though the temperature goes over 100 degrees. I carry Gatorade and a sponge to cool my horse at the river. Security riders find stragglers and hustle them along between vet stops. It is a well-organized ride with good communication from jeeps and walkie-talkies. At the three one-hour veterinarian check points, you just rest and let your back-up crew take care of your horse," says the veteran of two previous Tevis Cup "pit-stop" crews.

"The day after the race you don't think you are going to be able to walk!" laughs Nancy, who has promised to be in Santa Rosa on Aug. 16 to help with a horseshow. As vice president of the California State Horsemen's Association, Nancy says, "Conservationists and horsemen's interests are tied together." Nancy is on the committee of the newly-formed Marin Trails Council, which is working to establish hiking and riding trails from Marin headlands to Tomales Point.

Another entry, Mrs. Richard Whittington of Mill Valley, will be competing with her father and brother. This mother of two gradeschool children says, "Finding time to train has been hard because of the children. I quit work to do this. We've been riding in endurance races with my father and brother all year round. Taking care of horses will keep you in shape. You have to ride a lot to develop muscles and calluses. Last year in the Tevis Cup Race my Dad, who is 68, had bloody legs from sores rubbed by his Western saddle. I wear thermo underwear, tight pants and wrap my legs in cotton bandages. Instead of boots, I wear moccasins so I can run faster up and down hills beside my horse."

"The night before the race I camp out with the horses. I watch them out of the corner of my eye. If somebody in camp begins to move around, they start nickering for breakfast. At 3 a.m. I feed them and eat breakfast, but that's my only meal on race day," says Jeanne Whittington.

"MY HUSBAND is back-up crew. At vet stops they worry more about the horse than about me. They change the horse's pads and blanket to protect him from rubs. I can never relax enough to lay down and rest. I watch my horse. If he eats well, I ride him slowly when I start away from the stop. You try to get a maximum of food in him," explaines the endurance rider.

Jeanne rode in the Diamond Race in the Mt. Lassen area in July, but chose to go only 50 of the 100 miles. "It was good preparation for the Tevis: 100 degrees at the bottom and snow at the top. I became terribly dehydrated, because I'm too excited to eat on these rides. Candy and drinks are my answer, but I drank so much Gatorade I had cramps!" she says.

Three more Marin contenders are training their horses under the supervision of veterinarian Jim Steere at the Wilkins Ranch in Bolinas. The 100-year-old dairy ranch is a potential corridor between the Marin Water District and the southern end of Pt. Reyes. "We hope to effect its purchase with the help of Nature Conservancy," says the veterinarian.

Riders Leslie Steere of Bolinas, 17; Vickie Anderson of Novato, 16 and Mary Tiscornia of Bolinas, 25, reminisce ruefully with Dr. Steere about their months of grueling riding to prepare for last year's Tevis Cup Race. The veterinari-

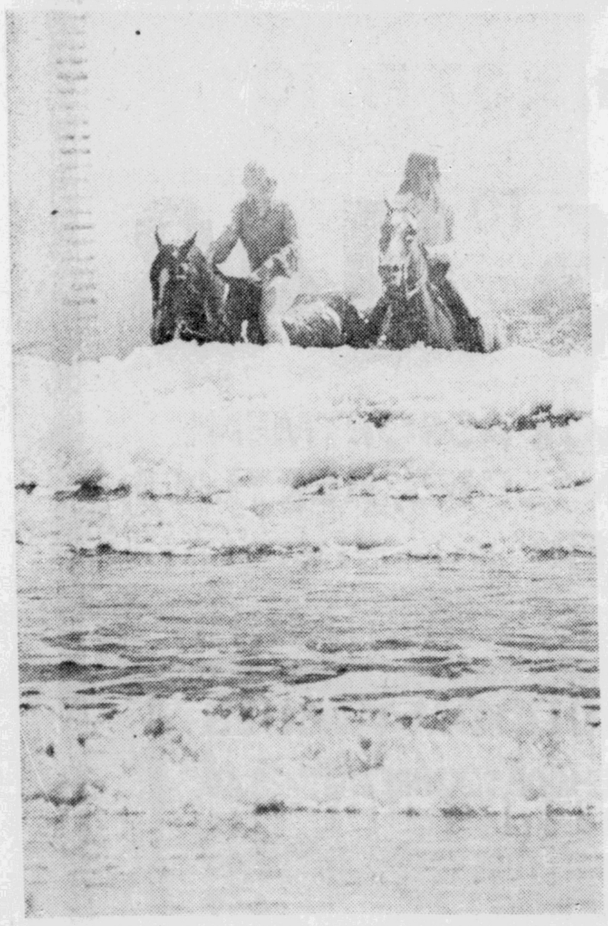
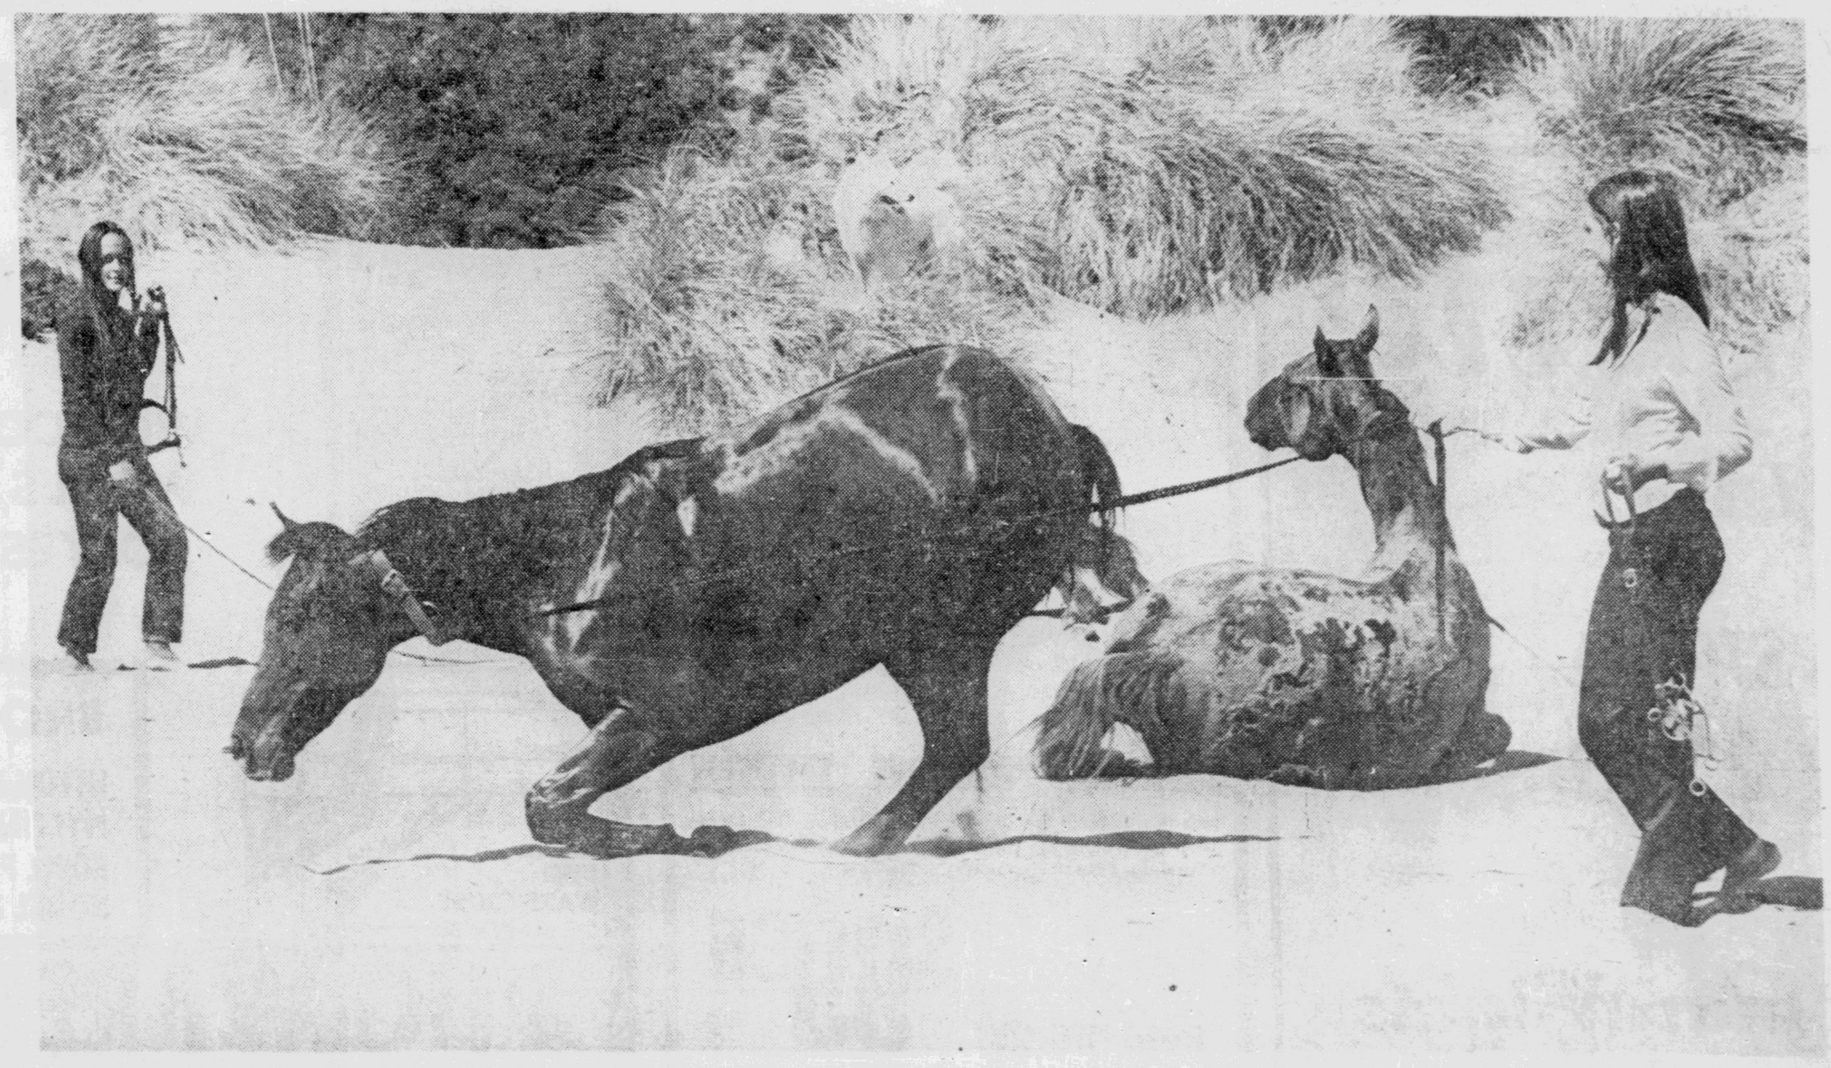
RUNNING DOWNHILL with their horses conditions Mary Tiscornia, left Vickie Anderson and Leslie Steere for the Tevis Cup Race. To sapre their horses legs, they will dismount and run down slopes leading their mounts. The average horse requires six months hard riding to get into condition for the 100 mountainous miles in 24 hours according to Leslie's veterinarian father. "The object is not only to complete the ride, but to complete it with horses in good shape and ready to go the next day," he says.

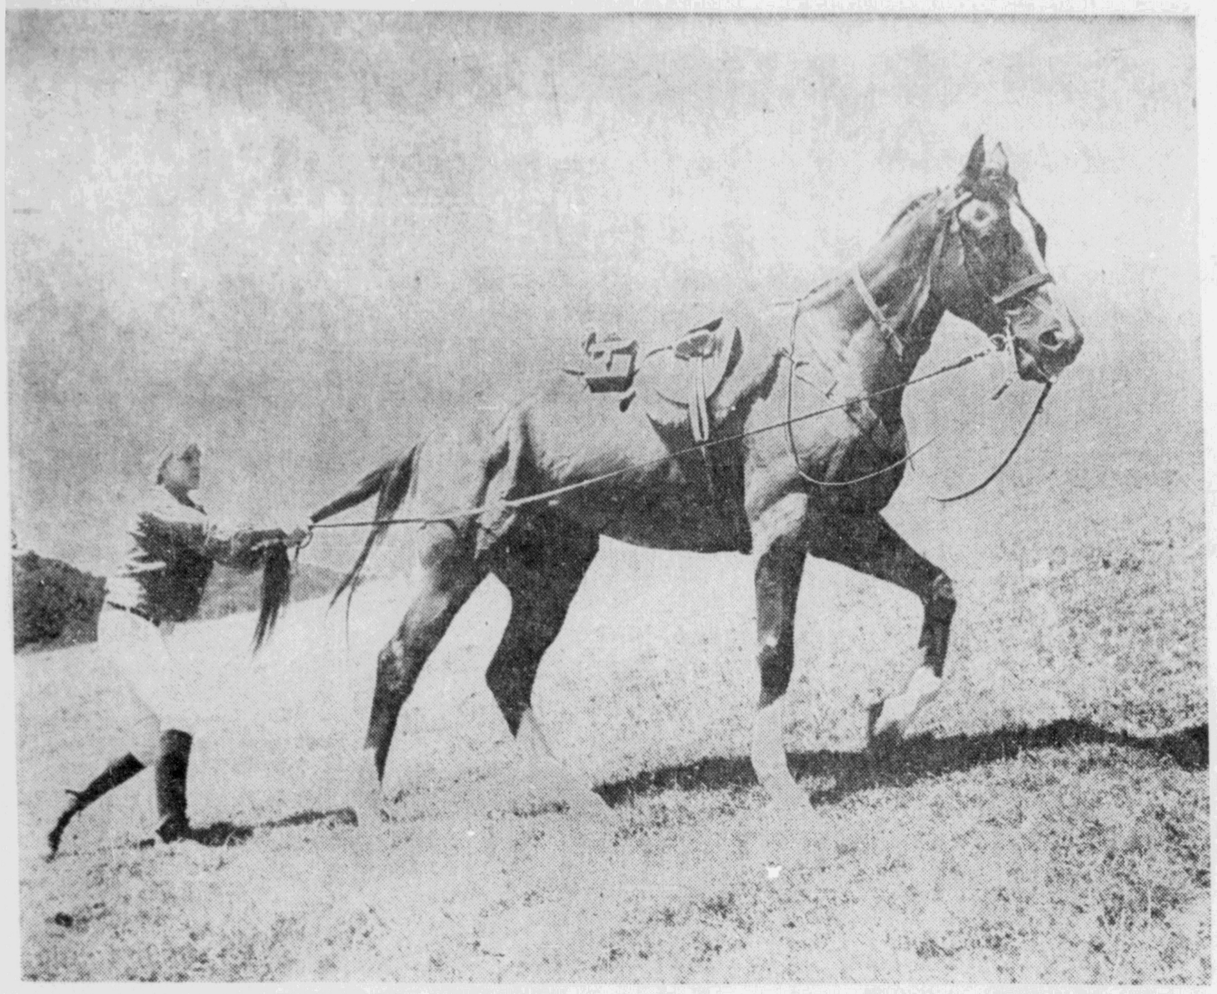
CHECKING HEART and respiration after Mary Tiscornia has exercised, veterinarian Jim Steere says, "What we are trying to determine at the seven check points along the 100 miles is if the horse has the capacity to go on. We check for the look of fatigue, condition of muscles, his interest in eating and whether the horse can move freely."



SWIMMING IN deep water in the inlet between Stinson Beach and Bolinas, Mary Tiscornia, left, and Vickie Anderson condition their horses for the Western States 100 Miles One Day Race on Saturday, August 15. They warn, "You have to do it when the tide's coming out. When it comes in you get caught in a cross current. We almost drowned the first time! Ever since then we've been more careful."



STANDING CLEAR while their wet horses roll after a swim in the Pacific, drenched Leslie Steere, left and Vickie Anderson report, "We swim the horses two or three times a week. They love it. When they see the water they want to get right in. We can hardly stop them! Working on the sand is good for their legs and wind and easy on their feet." The Marin teen-agers are conditioning their mounts to travel 100 miles in 24 hours over a grueling Sierra trail. (Independent-Journal photos by Bob Hax)



MARY TISCORNIA "tails-up" a steep slope to spare her thoroughbred. The mountainous Western States Trail requires climbing in and out of deep canyons. Mary explains, "We stand the horses in the deepest holes we can find in the river at the bottom of the canyons, sponge them off and let them drink. We let other riders race by. After 20 minutes of the cooling rest, our horses can zoom up those c a n y o n s." (Independent-Journal photo)

RIDERS

an's daughter recounts, "The start was at 5 a.m. But we slept right t h r o u g h the alarm!"

They talk of training on "trust-your-horses" mountain trails. "If you get scared," says Vickie.."Your horse gets scared too."

Mary, who already won her silver buckle for completing the 100 miles, advises the younger girls, "Don't pay attention to other riders. You have to rely on your own judgment as to the condition of your horse and travel at your own pace."

"H o r s e s demand constant discipline," she says. "They are a good preparation for raising children."

THE BEGINNING and end of the race is run in the dark. "You have to trust your horse on stony trails. They seem to have radar at night, you just go with them" says Mary. "When I became fatigued I got hallucinations. I saw what can happen to my judgment when I get tired." She explains that she began to race other riders instead of concentrating on riding at the pace best for her tiring horse.

Dr. Steere explains, "When you get into this kind of riding when you and your horse are under stress, you have to know how much you can push that horse. You learn an awful lot about yourself, as well as horsemanship. You should be able to do this without hurting your horse. He s h o u l d be ready to go the next day. The gals did this in the 70-mile Napa ride recently. The horses were fine. They completed the ride with the horses in good shape the next day."

"Leslie's horse, Red-Leather Fire Engine, has been doing e n d u r a n c e racing for four years. He never lost any condition over the winter and was ready to go again in the spring without any hard work on conditioning," says her father.

"I have three basic rules for myself or people training with me for endurance racing," says the member of the veterinarian committee for the Tevis Cup.

"1. Get ourselves in good physical condition, along with the horse, by lots of jogging along side of our horses," says the veteran of the Tevis Cup Race.

"2. We should not ride in an endurance race unless we and our horses are in condition to complete the ride in the allotted time. If you don't know if you and your horse are ready, you are not yet horseman enough to compete. There is no place in endurance races for the mechanic on horseback that pushes the throttle until his horse drops from fatigue," he warns.

"3. The criteria for success is not winning, but completing the ride and, the next day having your horse sound and rested and ready to do the ride again if asked to," says Dr. Steere.

"I'D RATHER RIDE the 100 miles myself than be back-up crew again. The waiting and woryring about our entry was awful," remembers Mrs. W. L. McCall, showing photographs taken at veterinarian check points on two previous T e v i s Cup rides. "We drove and hiked in to all the check points we could reach, carrying food, drink and a pad for him to rest on and rubbing alcohol for his horse."

A RESEARCH-project-on-horseback that he and Dr. Jerry Gillespie, who heads the research laboratory studying pulmonary emphysema at D a v i s, are performing is on the oxygen and carbon dioxide exchange in the cardio-pulmonary system of the athletic horse. The veterinarians are interested in what happens when an animal gets into condition.

"Why does one person or one animal do better than another?" they question.

They have performed operations on two endurance horses so that, when ridden, blood samples may be drawn from the artery through a catheter. The oxygen, carbon dioxide and blood PH is measured during various phases of the 30-mile rides they take once in month over and around Mt. Tamalpais and the Water District.

Blood samples are rushed on ice by motorcycle to a laboratory t e c h n i c a n at Wilkins Ranch.

"So if you see horses with strange tubes coming out of their necks and two riders d r a w i n g blood samples as their horses top the crest of Bolinas Ridge or Mt. Tam, you can be assured the riders are not ghouls but two dedicated horsemen-veterinarians w h o h a v e successfully combined the pleasure of riding with the excitement of research," says James Steere, D.V.M.

Stutterer Of Good Singing Voice Wonders How To Stop Stuttering

DEAR HELEN:

I stutter. All through school I wouldn't talk before a class because I knew what would happen. The only time I didn't stutter was when I sang. I have a good singing voice.

I have a wonderful husband who is very patient with me. Sometimes I don't stutter when talking to him, and sometimes I do. I can't remember anything that might have caused this. But how do I get over it? — STUTTERER

DEAR STUTTERER:

You're sure of yourself when you sing, for you know your voice is good. But when you talk, you "know what will happen" so it does. Your self-consciousness ties your tongue in knots.

A speech therapist can help you untie those knots, but don't expect overnight miracles. You can't undo the habits and fears of a lifetime without a great deal of work. Good luck. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Marilyn and I were married when she was 16 and I was 19. We ignored the warnings of elders about being too young — and for the first two years we were very happy.

I continued my education at night and worked full time during the day. We had a baby. We felt proud that things were going so well, in spite of financial difficulties.

Then Marilyn began working as a waitress on the nights when I didn't have a class. The extra income helped. I thought it would give her a break from house routine. That was the biggest mistake I ever made.

Soon she was working full time, and then she became a cocktail waitress (after lying about her age). It didn't take long before my sweet, wonderful girl became cold and insensitive. Her lust for money and the things it could buy grew out of proportion.

Four months ago she told me she had stopped loving me and for me to leave. After two months of utter loneliness, I tried dating again, and found some wonderful girls, but Helen, I can't get over loving my wife. She won't change her mind. It's over for her.

How does a man destroy a love that has built up over five years, and start a new life? — DEAR R.:

. . . By not living in the past. Y o u ' r e remembering a 16-year-old sweetheart, not a 21-year-old cocktail waitress who (if you met today for the first time) you might not even like. People change. Some grow up, others grow down. And love isn't forever unless both partners work at it. You'll see how right I am within a year. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I'd like to offer another possible help to the boy with the bigoted father. Encourage him to attend evening college classes. He'll probably be with people of all races and will learn they're all the same — just human. Maybe he could take Black History, or Black Economics (a real eye-opener for everyone). I took Black Sociology — got into it accidentally, and decided it would be fun. Although I didn't consider myself prejudiced or bigoted, I was amazed at the things I learned.

Sane people only need a little nudge to get over those ingrained ideas that they've never r e a l l y questioned before. — WAKING UP

Bay Area Yachtsmen To Attend Dinner Dance At Belvedere Club

Sailing togs will be worn to San Francisco Yacht Club's Regatta Dinner Dance on Saturday at the Belvedere clubhouse. Affiliated yachtsmen of the Yacht Racing Association, who will be challenging SFYC sailors in this weekend's races, will attend also.

SFYC's entertainment chairman, Joe Madrigali, appointed Mrs. G.A. Gast of Belvedere the evening's chairman. Assisting are Mmes. L.W. Colby and William Healy.

The burgee-decorated dining room will be the scene for cocktails at 6:30 p.m., a roast beef dinner at 8 p.m. and dancing.

DANCERS, INSTRUMENTALISTS, vocalists and a clown will entertain at the spaghetti dinner Saturday at 5 p.m., sponsored by the San Rafael Assembly 195 International Order of Rainbow for Girls at the Masonic Hall in San Rafael.

Cindy Hill and Jane Van Dyke are chairmen, and tickets will be available at the door.

THE WOMEN'S International League for Peace and Freedom, in conjunction with the Marin Peace Coalition, will present a free, public workshop on the "Aspects of the Draft" Tuesday and Wednesday at the Mill Valley Drop-In House at 550 Miller Avenue. The two-day session will feature speakers and seminars on the various aspects of the draft system.

Scheduled speakers include Rear Admiral Arnold True, speaking on "The Realities of a Volunteer Army"; Dennis Allen from the Friends Committee on Legislation, on "The Hatfield-Goldwater Amendment" and "Repealing the Draft," and Norman Leach, chairman of World Federalist Youth, on "Universal Military Training", and "National Service".

Tuesday's session will begin at 7:30 p.m. and Wednesday's program will start at 9 a.m.

ROSS VALLEY DeMolay Mother's Club is having a fashion show and luncheon on Wednesday at noon at the Masonic Lodge in Larkspur. All the clothes shown will be made of knit fabrics.

Proceeds from the luncheon will benefit the Ross Valley DeMolay.

CORINTHIAN YACHT Club's traditional Shipwreck Party will be held at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the Belvedere clubhouse. Harold Monozon is chairman of the dinner.

Club members are invited to come in costume; whatever clothes they think they might be caught in if their ship sunk suddenly. Judges of women's costumes will be David Golden, Colby Howe and Elbe Kramer. Men's costumes will be judged by Mmes. Ken Mason, Loran Mebine and Harold McGlynn.

ST. ANSELM'S YOUNG Ladies' Institute 98 will have an official visit from the newly elected grand president, Elizabeth Aherne, Wednesday at 8:15 p.m. Miss Aherne is a member of Our Lady of Lourdes Institute 20 in San Francisco.

Chairman for the evening, Mrs. Jack Benz, will be assisted by co-chairman, Mrs. Walter Milani, and Mmes. Eric Besozzi, Joseph Cordone, Clarence Curtin, John Daly, James Kealey, Louis Lucarotti, Remo Simontacchi, Frank Sousa, James Turrini and Miss Loretto O'Rourke.

THE LEOETTES of Corte Madera will hold their installation of officers tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Sheldon Schwebel in Corte Madera.

To be installed as president will be Mrs. Norman Graves with Mrs. Winston Parker as secretary and Mrs. Edward Sabo as treasurer. Following the installation the Leoettes will have a party with an astrology theme the chairman of which is Mrs. Sheldon Schwebel.

Hair Mimics Midi

The smaller head with softening waves will be an important daytime look this fall. Many variations of the chignon, worn low on the head to mimic midi lengths are styled for both daytime and evening fashions

THE SUBURBAN SCENE

Greece, Canada Beckon Marinites

By MOLLY MARIN

The Greek Islands, especially Athens, were the highlight of a five weeks' European trip from which the Perry Jacksons and their daughter Susan returned to Sausalito this week.

During their tour of five of the islands they fell in love with Greece, Mrs. Jackson said, and were surprised to hear the people say they were very happy with the present regime because business is better. That may have been what they were told to say, she noted.

The Jacksons went first to London to visit cousins. They also stopped at Istanbul, which they found interesting. Highlight of two weeks in Italy was staying at the Cipriano Hotel in Venice. It has the reputation of being the "in" place to go with fashionable people. Mrs. Jackson says, and she and Susan enjoyed a show every night of the most beautiful clothes they had ever seen.

WITH HIS Australian warbride of 25 years ago, L.W. Colby of Belvedere marked his silver wedding anniversary with an "inside passage" ferry boat round trip from Vancouver Island to Prince Rupert, British Columbia.

"We chose the right week for our vacation," says Mrs. Colby, explaining that during the following week the Alaska-bound boat which connects with that ferry ran aground, and on another run the ferry was hit by a Russian freighter.

GIFTS FOR the bride's kitchen were presented to Kathy Moore at a shower on Wednesday at the Belvedere home of Mrs. John Ericson. Co-hostessing the luncheon was Mrs. Ericson's daughter, Robin, who will be Kathy's bridesmaid on Aug. 22 at St. Stephen's Church in Belvedere.

Kathy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Moore of Belvedere, plans to wed Michael Malloy of Reno, Nev., a law student at University of San Francisco in a small ceremony.

THE 24 BOYS and girls from La Paz, Mexico, who are participants in the exchange program under the direction of Tamalpais High School Spanish teacher Anthony A. Medrano, will be entertained tonight at a party hosted by the John A. Thomsons of Mill Valley.

First the 70 guests, including the families the students from Mexico are living with until the end of August, will swim at the Mill Valley Tennis Club from 5 to 6:30 p.m. and then go to the Thomsons' for a potluck dinner.

Games for the children and dancing for the teen-agers unti 10 p.m. will conclude the evening. Edmundo Gonzales, who is living with the Thomsons, is making the pinata to be filled with goodies.

The group was also entertained recently at two dinner parties hosted by the Stanley H. Andersons in Mill Valley, and last week they met for an afternoon of games and a potluck dinner at Paradise Park.

ON BEING BLACK

Little Readers Know All

By SANDRA HAGGERTY

"You guys gonna eat that?" Our 7-year-old screwed up her face as she motioned toward our plates on the breakfast table.

"East what?" I responded, scanning my breakfast in search of some heretofore hidden foreign object.

"That's bacon."

"Well, I had planned to."

"It's pork, you know."

"Yes, I know, dear." (Seven-year-olds have a habit of assuming that parents were born yesterday.) "What about it?"

"You can get worms from pork, you know."

"Huh?" I was hungry, so my guard was temporarily down.

"Yeah, trichinosis."

"Oh brother," her father moaned. He was obviously in need of some fill-in information.

"Ummmm, Kendall's been reading your freshman biology book."

"My what?"

"Yeah," I sighed, "they have a chapter on human parasites."

"Reading!" He shook his head understandingly.

I nodded in agreement.

NOW, LEST we be misunderstood, we are pleased and delighted that Kendall has mastered the art of reading. But ever since that day, some three years ago, when she discovered that written words communicate ideas, she has almost driven us crazy — reading everything in sight. You know, like the instruction pamphlets inside those little boxes that I have carefully placed on the top shelf of the medicine cabinet or tucked neatly away in a dresser drawer and so on.

But back to the breakfast table.

"The trichina worm is taken into the body by eating pork that contains live trichinella larvae."

Three-year-old Gillian began to wail. "Worms, where are the worms? I don't want to eat any worms!"

Kendall carried on, dazzling us with her latest area of expertise.

"The female worm carries thousands of eggs and . . ."

"Oh brother." Sam was turning green. "Do we have to discuss it right now?"

Kendall, sensitive child that she is, recognized his need for comfort. "Well, daddy, the worms are killed if the pork is cooked done enough. This is, well, almost burned, so you can eat your bacon."

"Thank you."

"But I'm not eating any!"

SUFFICE IT to say that breakfast lost its enthusiastic aura that morning.

"Oh, oh," Miss Authority cautioned herself as we ordered sandwiches at a lunch counter. "Is ham pork?"

"Yes it is." (Impossible to lie to a kid who can read!)

"That's too bad. I like ham, too." She shrugged her shoulders. "I'll have a cheese sandwich. Cheese is a dairy product, you know."

"Yes, I know."

AFTER A few weeks, our pork indoctrination was so complete that we had all been noticeably affected by it. I had stopped buying pork altogether. At the supermarket my daughter's words echoed in a corner of my mind. "The female worm deposits thousands of eggs . . ."

Gillian sided unquestionably with her big sister. She wasn't about to eat a worm either.

But the person most affected by the pork purge was her father. I didn't realize just how intimidated he was until one evening he whispered, yes, whispered, in my ear, "After Kendall goes to sleep, I'm going around the corner to the Barbecue Pit and get us an order of pork ribs to eat while we are watching the late show."

"Good idea," I whispered in agreement.

WELL, IT must be true that all illicit activity comes back on you, because who should get up for a drink of water and wander into the living room that night — Miss Pork Purger.

Sam looked like he had just been discovered burying a dead body. After sending Kendall back to bed and rolling on the floor laughing at ourselves, we decided to add to Kendall's reading list, placing a book of proverbs — which espoused such principles as "to each his own" and "one man's pain is another man's pleasure" — on her desk.

Read on, my dear.

Adults' Vocabulary

NEW YORK (UPI) —How many words does the average adult have in his reading vocabulary? About 30,000 to 40,000 according to Dr. William LaPlante, director of curriculum and materials development of Borg-Warner Educational Systems.

Keep Them Cool

Eggs and poultry are vulnerable to high temperatures. At picnics, high temperatures may cause a buildup of certain food poisoning organisms. If a barbecue is planned, the chicken should be kept cool until cooked and served immediately after cooking. Egg salads should be kept cool at all times, preferably in an ice chest.

Disneyland Bans Long Hairs

'Yippies,' Police In Skirmish

ANAHEIM, Calif. (UPI)—Disneyland officials banned all long haired youths from the Magic Kingdom following a confrontation between police and 300 "undesirables" that culminated in the park closing six hours early Thursday night.

Twelve young persons were arrested on charges stemming from the evening skirmish between nearly 100 officers and the participants in a so-called "National Yippie Day," proclaimed by dissidents for the famed tourist attraction. Six others were arrested during the day on charges of trespassing and illegal entry.

"It is unfortunate for a lot of young people that have long hair but a very small group forces us to draw this line," said Jack Lindquist, a Disneyland official.

"REALLY TOUGH"

He said a "really tough" grooming standard would accompany the long hair edict that went into effect today.

The unscheduled closure, only the second in the 15-year history of the park, came after the group of hippie-type youths, described by officials as 'undesirables," marched up main street—chanting and singing—and attempted to enter several shops en masse.

The officers, wearing facial shields and carrying gas masks and batons, moved in and in some cases bodily removed the group from the park.

According to advance notices of "Yippie Day" in the underground press, the long hair invasion was to observe the anniversary of the first atomic bomb attack on Japan.

"Those underground idiot sheets advertised it, but they said it would be close to 80,000 yippies (showing up)," Ken Clements, a spokesman for the Anaheim police department said. "I don't consider 300 significant at all."

ATTENDANCE DOWN

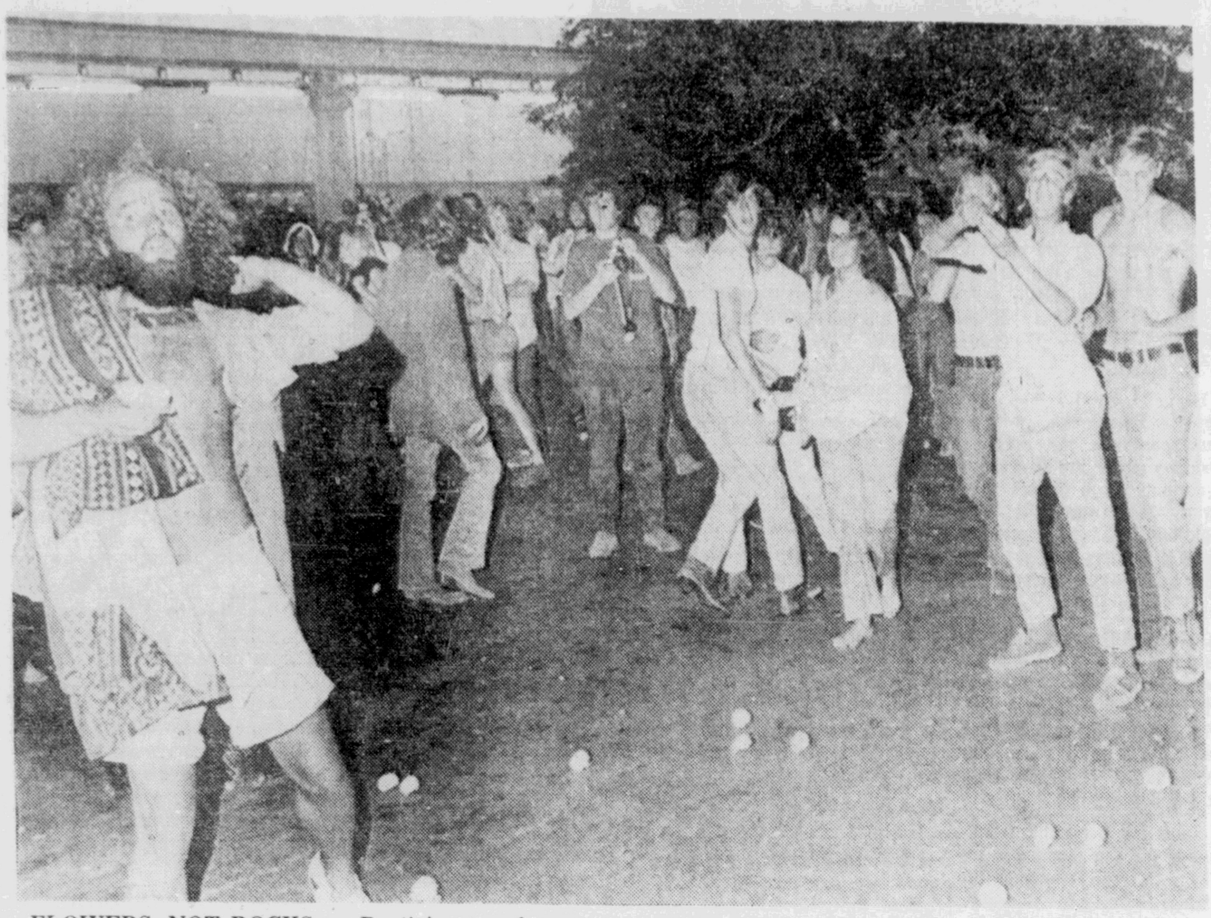
Overall attendance for the day was 46,000, slightly lower than normal. The park usually closes at 1 a.m. but was shut down at 7:30 p.m. When officials announced the closure over loudspeakers, many tourists knew nothing of the disturbance and asked policemen as they left why the park was being shut down.

During the day the group of dissidents marched down main street and into Frontierland singing the Mickey Mouse Club song and obscene chants.

The group took over Tom Sawyer Island and eventually ran off all the tourists. They displayed a Viet Cong flag from the fort on the island and, chanting "legalize marijuana," unveiled a flag embellished with a dark green marijuana leaf.

Disneyland officials said members of the group also passed around marijuana and smoked it during their island stay.

The only other unscheduled closure of the park was a memorial gesture following the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.



FLOWERS, NOT ROCKS — Participants of a so-called "National Yippie Day" toss flowers at police at Disneyland following a confrontation in which 12 youths were arrested. Officials of the amusement park closed the gates early yesterday to avoid further scuffles and banned all long-haired youths.

Sooner Governor Nips Rock Festival

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Gov. Dewey Bartlett had sent state troopers to stop a rock festival planned for this weekend near Sulphur, Okla., and Max E. Sulcer, sponsor of the festival, was mad.

"All those Gestapo at the gate," Sulcer said Thursday after troopers cleared out the site of the rock festival. "You would think it was Heil Hitler Day."

It didn't look like Sulcer would get his festival, but another festival was in full swing before it began near Jackson, Mich., and a federal court approved a 10-hour festival in Philadelphia on Sunday. Officials in a Pennsylvania township were trying to halt a rock festival there planned for Aug. 28-30.

Promoters of the festival near Jackson had expected 60,000 young people—each paying $15 for three days of music by 21 bands—but Michigan State Police said up to 70,000 persons had come to the 39-acre Goose Lake Park Thursday night—12 hours before the first band was to begin today.

Police said 15 or 20 of the new arrivals were arrested on violating a state law which prohibits commercial concerts on Sunday.

The promoter of the festival is Peace, Inc., an organization which raises campaign money for peace candidates. The chairman of the fund distribution committee is former U.S. Attorney General Ramsey Clark.

In Oklahoma, District Court Judge Bob Howell ordered the site of the proposed Turner Falls Rock Festival grounds near Sulphur padlocked Thursday after Bartlett told him the festival would be held Saturday and Sunday despite an injunction against it.

Bartlett mobilized 300 National Guardsman and sent 100 highway patrolmen to the site of the festival in southern Oklahoma's Arbuckle Mountain, and closed highways leading to Turner Falls.

Bartlett said he saw films of last weekend's Powder Ridge Rock Festival at Middlefield, Conn.

"Now the amazing thing about the Powder Ridge Festival was the fact that it was banned by a court injunction . . . but some 30,000 people put themselves above the law . . . and converged on Powder Ridge as if the court didn't even exist," Bartlett said.

Sulcer, manager of the park narcotics charges, but there were no serious incidents. A 400-man private police force kept the peace, and watched a 12-foot-high electrified barbed wire fence to keep out easy riders.

The Strawberry Fields Festival begins today in Mosport, Ont., some 90 miles northeast of Toronto and 750 miles from its original location in Moncton, New Brunswick. Canadian immigration authorities are turning back thousands of Americans at the border.

After a U.S. District Court judge approved a 10-hour rock festival in Philadelphia Sunday state and local governments asked an appeals court to reverse the decision. Gov. Raymond P. Shafer said he feared "serious harm" from the festival and said the promoters could be jailed for where the festival would have been held, said highway patrolmen moved into the park Thursday night and evacuated 150 persons "who paid the fare to come in."

"I still say American youth won't accept this kind of leadership. This is not leadership. I have $600,000 invested and have to go through five checkpoints to get into my park. Is this freedom?

"All those Gestapo at the gate. You would think it was Heil Hitler Day. Somebody has got to say something."

Pennsylvania Governor Shafer had promised West Finley Township officials "aid," if requested, to stop a rock fest Aug. 28-30. The promoters, "Golden Freak Enterprises Inc." of Chicago said they expected 20,000 to show up.

$50,000 May Not Be Coming

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Gloria Sykes may not get much of the $50,000 she was awarded for a cable car accident which she said gave her insatiable sexual desires.

City Attorney Thomas M. O'Connor, who represented the city in its unsuccessful case, filed a Superior Court action Thursday asking judges to split up the money.

He said attorney Harold Elliott, who filed the original suit, has a lien of 40 per cent on any amount collected. Marvin Lewis, the attorney who tried the case, also has a claim, O'Connor added.

Lewis claimed during the trial last April that the 1964 accident forced Mrs. Sykes into the arms of more than 100 men.

Unruh In Blast At Campus Unrest

STANFORD (UPI) — "Students and faculty who participate in violence should be expelled," Jess Unruh told a Stanford University audience Thursday.

Unruh, the Democratic Party candidate for governor, also told the Stanford Committee for New Politics that "education is a right, not a privilege."

Much campus violence, however, "could have been headed off if we had an administration which did not continually denigrate and downgrade the academic community," he added.

Music Chest Sets Recital By Vocalist

Bass-baritone, William Warfield will give a recital in Forest Meadows at Dominican College, San Rafael, Aug. 16 at 3:00 p.m. as the third artist to be heard on the Marin Music Chest Summer Concert Series.

Warfield has been featured often at the Lewishon Stadium, Chicago's Ravini and Grant Parks, Hollywood Bowl, Tanglewood, and many other American summer series.

His Aug. 16 appearance in San Rafael is a return engagement under Music Chest auspices.

Programmed for his Aug. 16 concert in San Rafael are songs by Haydn, Schumann, Saint-Saens, an aria from Verdi's opera "Simon Boccanegra"; aria from Rossini's "Barber of Seville"; group of Spirituals arranged by Hall Johnson and two songs Virgil Thompson. William Duncan Allen will be at the piano.

Joint Sewage Meeting Reset For Tuesday

A workshop discussion of a joint sewage treatment system being planned by the Bolinas Public Utility and Stinson Beach County water districts, originally set for tomorrow, has been postponed until Tuesday.

The meeting, between Kennedy Engineers and Brown and Caldwell Engineers, firms hired by the districts to plan the system, will be at 7:30 p.m. in the utility district office, 270 Elm Road, Bolinas.

FAMILY

"Boatniks" — The packed boat harbor of Newport Beach, the utter chaos created by weekend yachtsmen, an accident-prone Ensign in charge of the harbor and three jewel thieves trying to escape to Mexico are the ingredients of this wacky comedy.

"Chisum" — A good old-fashioned western based on actual characters and incidents during the cattle war in New Mexico in 1878. The plot is filled with intrigue, revenge, bloody murders, and violent gun battles so it may be too rough for the youngest members of the family.

"80 Steps to Jonah" — Heart warming drama in which a migratory worker innocently connected with a crime seeks refuge in a summer camp for blind children. There he discovers a new purpose in life in helping the handicapped.

"Goodbye, Mr. Chips" — Beautifully mounted musical version of James Hilton's novel about a lonely schoolmaster who falls in love with a music hall star and her influence on the students and the professor.

"Out-of-Towners" — Refreshingly funny spoof on big city life. Misadventures of a small city businessman who takes his wife with him for a job interview in New York City. Hilarious comedy.

"Swiss Family Robinson" — Welcome reissue of fine Disney favorite telling of a Swiss family marooned by shipwreck on a tropical island. Story told with wealth of detail.

"Undefeated" — A warm, full bodied post Civil War adventure story. Plot is enriched by touches of humor and warm friendships that develop between former adversaries when they join together in a common goal.

ADULTS AND TEENS

"Beneath the Planet of the Apes" — Science fiction, the sequel to "Planet of the Apes" concludes the story and combines an amusing fantasy with a very real and grim message. Well done.

"Downhill Racer" — A brilliant study of the development of a ski champion. Action sequences are complimented by story about the dynamics of sports competition.

"Paint Your Wagon" — A lusty, irreverent script is framework for a musical set in a mining camp during Gold Rush days. Elaborately mounted broad comedy, raucous and at times tasteless, not suitable for young children.

"Patton" — An unusually well-made film, with a brilliant characterization by George C. Scott. Very strong dialogue. It shows Patton as a complex man who is a military disciplinarian who sacrifices his men in order to win battles.

"Reivers" — A weekend adventure when an 11 year old boy loses his childhood innocence and discovers the waywardness of man. Story has good human values, but it is regrettable that the action in a brothel makes film unsuitable for younger audiences.

"Z" — Remarkable film about a political assassination. Powerful combination of action and suspense providing profound insights into today's troubled politics. Subtitles in English.

BORDERLINE

(Most sources say Adults Only)

"Count Yorga, Vampire" — Vampirism in a modern gothic setting. After a bloody series of vampirism by the Count and his beautiful vampire wives, the forces of good combat the legions of the damned. Ending however, is untraditional with a strange twist. (Federation of Motion Picture Councils)

"Dunwich Horror" — Dreary horror picture dealing with a naive virgin under the influence of a follower of the occult who is searching for a sacrifice for a devil's mass and fertility rite. Mediocre.

"Man Called Horse" — Compelling but unforgivably brutal melodrama about a 19th Century English aristocrat who is captured by a Sioux tribe. Accurately detailed tribal rites and Sioux tongue spoken adds realism.

"Woodstock Festival" — Interesting documentary of last summer's famous rock festival. Nudity, obscene language, use of drugs and love-making may keep from the audience those most interested in seeing it. Parental guidance advised.

ADULTS ONLY

"M-A-S-H" — Title stands for Mobile Army Surgical Hospital. Antiwar film deals with three surgeons. Scenes are gruesome as they are funny. Bittersweet element of truth in action and dialogue.

"Myra Breckinridge" — An artistically crude and drawnout picture. Very likely to confuse and disappoint a lot of people who were so taken with the satiric novel. Film's main selling point is the star billing of Mae West as a lecherous female talent agent and the new freedom on the screen permits her to go further, more explicitly, than ever before. Devoid of any originality or style, film's narrative structure is weak. (Motion Picture Daily)

Hiker Plunges To His Death

ALTA, Utah (UPI)—A young Pennsylvania man, hiking with friends near this famed northern Utah ski resort, fell 80 feet to his death early Thursday evening while trying to skirt a jagged outcropping of rock.

He has been identified as Nathan Kreible, 19, of Trevoise, Pa. He reportedly was visiting friends in the Salt Lake City area.

The accident occurred about 6:25 p.m. in an area on the north side of Sugar Loaf Peak in the upper Albion Basin area near here.

SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY

THIRD SECTION — SAN RAFAEL, CALIFORNIA, FRIDAY, AUGUST 7, 1970 — 21

COME ON, DOG, COME ON

Karen Thoene, 12, of Morgan Hill Tries vainly with reminder tugs on the leash to draw 7-month-old Sierra away from an enticing obstacle. However, the Golden Retriever puppy appears more interested in rubbing noses with the stuffed dog than in finishing the distraction course set up by Guide Dogs for the Blind in San Rafael to test the obedience of puppies raised by 4-H members for Guide Dogs. More than 150 youngsters participated in the dog obedience judging at the guide dog facility yesterday. (Independent-Journal photo by Roger Bockrath)

STATE WATER PROJECT

Bay Area Attacks Flayed As Unfair

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Norman B. Livermore Jr., secretary of the State Resources Agency, contended yesterday Bay Area criticism of the State Water Project for diverting surplus water is unfair because Bay Area water projects seek to accomplish the same thing.

Livermore, in a strong defense of the project before the San Francisco Bay conservation and Development Commission, pointed out that while the state project will divert about two million acre-feet to the Metropolitan Water District in Southern California, Bay Area water projects will be diverting about 1.5 million acre-feet a year from the bay and delta tributaries.

"It therefore, appears to me to be unseemly, to say the least, for San Francisco Bay residents to criticize our neighbors to the south for doing the same thing we northerners are doing. Let him who is without guilt cast the first stone," Livermore declared.

He also noted that three Bay Area counties, Alameda, Contra Costa and Santa Clara, "will be substantially dependent on water delivered to them via the Peripheral Canal."

The canal, the key link in the project, would carry water from the Sacramento River around the eastern part of the delta to pumping pools for diversion south. Construction of the canal is not expected before the end of this decade, but the project is committed to increased delivery of water southward by 1973.

Livermore acknowledged to newsmen after his appearance that "some damage to the delta ecology and fishery" was inevitable during the seven or so years between the increased pumping and construction of the canal. He said he did not know how severe the damage would be to fish life, but said this had been a problem since pumping at the south end of the delta began in 1953.

He estimated that screens to keep fish out of the pumps were about 70 per cent effective.

In his two-hour appearance before the commission, Livermore rebutted conservationists' claims that the project will harm the bay by robbing it of needed fresh water.

The real problem facing the bay is from sewage and industrial wastes, Livermore argued. "The threat of pollution in the bay exists regardless of the Peripheral Canal. Pollution is a problem in the bay today, while construction of the canal lies several years in the future," he declared.

"San Francisco Bay may no longer be used as an open sewer for the industries and communities on its shores," Livermore insisted.

Responding to some critics' demand that the project be halted until its effects on the ecology can be studied further, he said it was "unthinkable that all of the taxpayers of the state should be asked to stand the burden of debt — upwards of $2 billion — that would fall on them should the water project be stopped when it is so near to completion."

As for more study, Livermore added, "there comes a time when you have to stop studying and start acting."

He reiterated previous promises that the State Water Resources Control Board will draft and enforce standards to maintain water quality in the delta and bay.

He noted that he had asked the federal government to predicate its funding of the canal on the basis that the "delta area shall have a prior right to the use of water required under any criteria" set by the state board.

Commission chairman Melvin B. Lane, however, asked Livermore if it would be "really politically feasible to take water away from Southern California just because San Francisco Bay needs more water.

Livermore replied he was "not a politician, just a bureaucrat," but said he could not envision a long enough string of drought years to raise the issue.

Also skeptical was commissioner James F. McCormick, a member of the San Francisco Bay Regional water Quality Control board, who said, "When it gets down to ecology and the people's needs, the people's needs will be met first."

Lane, citing "an urgency" for standards to protect the bay and delta from excessive diversion of fresh water, said he and others were "concerned" to see the project being built before such standards had been set.

He said that the commission's staff soon would draft a position for the commission to take on the water project.

New Cotati Lot Policy Is Advanced

The Cotati City Council last night gave preliminary approval to a subdivision ordinance.

The proposed ordinance had been approved by the planning commission, but brought ciriticism from Commissioner R. C. Braden.

Braden objected to the requirement specifying a minimum lot width of 65 feet. He said he felt the ordinance should allow more flexibility.

City Mgr. Paul W. Salfen explained that the ordinance included a deviation clause which could permit developers to change lot sizes after council consent.

The ordinance will be considered for adoption at the Aug. 20 meeting.

The Cotati City Council also:

LANDFILL — Heard a report from Donald B. Head, county public works chief on plans for a solid waste disposal site on either Stony Point Road or Meacham Road, both west of Cotati. The council made no recommendation and heard no protest.

EXPENSES — Approved a resolution authorizing reimbursement for expenses incurred by city employees and the council.

WEEDS — Said it felt the bill for $518 received from the Kinyon Tree Service for weed spraying ws too high and asked Salfen to study the costs.

Auto Is Stolen

A yellow stationwagon owned by Irwin R. Green of 36 Staghound Passage, Corte Madera, was stolen betwee 7 a.m. and 7 p.m. yesterday from the rear of the Copper Penny Restaurant on Meadowsweet Drive, Corte Madera police said today.

Safety Employee Pay Talks To Start Over

Salary negotiations between the county and its safety employees will have to start from scratch, with an official county offer of 7.5 per cent for sheriff's deputies and 5 per cent for firemen and communications workers, Asst. County Administrator John F. Barrows declared today.

He explained he was issuing the statement only because he wanted to clarify some of the matters reported in yesterday's Independent-Journal.

Sheriff's Sgt. Wade R. Powell said yesterday that the county had offered a 5 per cent raise as of July 1 this year, 5 per cent next January, and 7.5 per cent on July 1, 1971, with the 7.5 per cent raise to be effective for two years.

Barrows, who heads the county negotiating team, said that the 7.5 per cent raise on July 1, 1971, was to be effective for one year thereafter, not two years.

Sgt. Powell agreed this morning that Barrows is correct. "What I meant was two years for the whole contract, from July 1, 1970 through July 1, 1972," said Powell.

"The 5 per cent, 5 per cent, 7.5 per cent offer cannot be termed a county offer as such because the county board of supervisors had not authorized it," explained Barrows. "It was a proposal by the state mediator, which both negotiating teams had tentatively agreed to, and did not constitute a county offer per se."

On July 30 the safety employees turned down that offer. All 82 votes to reject the offer came from sheriff's deputies. All firemen and communications workers were 100 per cent in favor of accepting. They were joined by 21 sheriff's deputies, for a total of 63 votes to accept.

Because the offer was not accepted by the end of last month, retroactive pay to July 1 is no longer possible, said Barrows. He explained that the state constitution prohibits making retroactive pay. Until last week, the county could have gotten around that by including the retroactive pay in the July 31 paychecks.

Since those paychecks are already distributed, the only possible retroactive pay that can be considered now is to Aug. 1, said Barrows.

Yesterday, Powell announced that the deputies had lowered their request to 12.5 per cent raise this year. He said the top pay for Marin sheriff's patrolmen was $100 below those of four other counties.

"Our understanding was that their last position was for 15 per cent," said Barrows. As for the complaint that pay is $100 below other counties in the Bay Area, Barrows pointed out that the state mediators proposal (5 per cent in July and 5 per cent next January) would have raised the deputies salary by $92.

Boat Burglarized

A depth finder and compass, worth a total of $191, were stolen Sunday from a 23-foot cabin cruiser belonging to Stanely Kelley, 23 Plaza Drive, Mill Valley, Sausalito police reported today. The items were taken while the vessel was berthed in the Clipper Yacht Harbor, police said.

Mrs. Rivas Paints A Picture Of Violent Outbursts At Home

Defense counsel cross-examining Mrs. Fidel Rivas today drew from her a picture of many violent outbursts which led to the death of her husband.

Her son, Ronald Rivas, 21, is being tried on a murder charge for the July 17, 1969, killing in the family home in Novato.

Mrs. Rivas described repeated outbursts in which her husband threatened her with knife, rifle and other weapons and said he would kill Ronald if the boy did not stop summoning police.

The episodes ranged over 10 years.

All of the case's witnesses are being excluded from the courtroom until they testify. When Rivas's sister, Mrs. Rita Hernandez, left the witness box, she remained in the courtroom to hear their mother give her version of the fatal evening.

The sister testified that the father "made fun" of young Rivas, criticizing him for helping his mother with the cooking and housekeeping, and often used profanity. The exact words, although rolled out by defense counsel Carrow in his opening statement, were carefully avoided during the sister's testimony — there was by then an audience in the courtroom.

Mrs. Hernandez testified that the father often became violent with his wife, and that "Ron was always very concerned, got very upset" over the episodes.

Mrs. Rivas, as the second witness, told the court that she was the mother of 13 children. She recalled that all were in the family home the fatal evening of July 17, except for one older son, Lonnie, and her daughter, Mrs. Hernandez, who arrived at the house at 59 Raposa Vista about 10:30 p.m.

She said she had gone to young Rivas's bedroom because she saw the son and a sister crying. "He kept telling me 'there's nothing wrong,' she recalled.

"All of a sudden there was a bang on the door and it was flung open" by the father, Mrs. Rivas testified.

"I was told in foul language to get out of there . . . into the kitchen." The husband followed her, she testified, "yelling foul language to me, asking me what I was doing in there. I said it was because the kids had a problem."

"At the doorway to the kitchen, the senior Rivas "hit me, very hard, in the face," she said. "I told him why did he have to hit me." She could not remember his reply.

Shortly thereafter, while her back was turned to her husband, "I thought I heard a firecracker." She said she turned to see the father walking toward the dining room and young Rivas walking holding a gun.

"I rushed over and touched his arm and said, 'Ron, don't,' but his eyes just glared," the mother said. "I ran out of the house and down the street" and saw no more, Mrs. Rivas testified.

The mother also testified that her husband "fussed and cussed at me and the kids every day."

During his opening presentation, defense counsel Carrow had declared that "the totality of evidence will establish at the time of the shooting" that the act was either justifiable homicide or that young Rivas was insane at the time.

In the prosecution's opening statement, Anthony said he would prove that young Rivas first fired two shots at his father, wounding him with the first and missing with the second, and then after the father fell, shooting him twice more with the semiautomatic .22 caliber pistol. One of these last shots stopped the elder Rivas's heart, Anthony said.

Action Near On Petaluma River Status

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — The Sonoma County Planning Commission yesterday received a recommendation for action to improve the Petaluma River.

The report submitted by a citizens committee was favorably received by the commissioners who said they will consider a resolution at the Aug. 20 meeting to put the plan into effect. The Sonoma County Board of Supervisors will later consider action on the plan.

The report, completed in April, was outlined by Allan Chambliss who said steps should be taken to preserve the ecology of the river as well as open space. The committee also suggested a study on the river land zoning as a means of controlling damaging development.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Tick Paralysis Is Uncommon, But Can Be Dangerous Disease

Many years ago, I wrote about a young Denverite who was bitten by a tick. Four days later, the girl became restless and irritable and complained of numbness and tingling of the extremities, lips, and face. By the next day, paralysis had set in, and she was rushed to the hospital, where a respirator was available.

Colorado physicians are familiar with tick paralysis. Therefore they made a systematic search for the insect, because the critter must be removed to bring about a cure. The tick had burrowed into her scalp. Within 24 hours of its removal, a dramatic recovery followed, and by the end of the second day, the girl had regained much of her strength.

WE DOUBT IF many of our readers will benefit from an article on this subject because tick paralysis is an uncommon disease. However, a Columbia, S.C., woman was able to help a friend because she remembered the original article. Years later, while visiting a friend whose child was paralyzed, she suggested that the mother mention to the physician the possibility of ticks.

To everyone's surprise, a tick was found near the back of the head. The engorged insect was removed, and the youngster made a miraculous recovery. The remedy is simple, provided the physician suspects a tick.

RECENTLY, an editorial on tick paralysis was published in the British Medical journal, The editor wanted to acquaint English physicians with the condition because of the possibility that a Briton might visit the Rocky Mountains. Since the incubation period is five days, the victim might not develop paralysis until he returned home. Unless this diagnosis is considered and the ticks are removed, the culprits may not be found in time to save his life.

Every person who picnics, camps, fishes or hunts should look for ticks at the end of each day. Check the children, too. Tick paralysis may be primarily a veterinary problem, but humans are not exempt.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.)

'BOILING' OVER

Mrs. E. L. writes: My children get one boil after another. No matter what precautions I take, the boils keep coming back. Please advise.

REPLY

When boils develop in this way, the entire family must avoid all forms of contamination. The skin should be cleansed thoroughly and each person should use his own towel and washcloth. It may be advisable to have throat cultures taken to determine whether one or more members of the family are harboring the causative staphylococci. If so, all of them may have to take an antibiotic at the same time.

EVERYTHING IS RELATIVE

R. E. writes: In movie close-ups, the actors and actresses talk so close to each other their lips almost meet. How do they keep their breath sweet and odorless?

REPLY

Through good oral hygiene including thorough cleaning of the teeth after each meal. The majority of Hollywood stars maintain good health and avoid odoriferous foods. But most men would tolerate a wee bit of halitosis to do a scene with Racquel Welch.

LUNGS GURGLE

B.B. writes: What causes bubbles in the lungs?

REPLY

The bubbles represent frothy sputum and serum that originates in the lungs. They usually stem from pneumonia or congestion from heart trouble.

Novato Planners Approve 2 Signs

The Novato Plan Review Committee has approved sign permits for the Peacock Restaurant and Ross Department Store, landscape plans for the Dolphin Club Child Day Care Center and the Round Table Pizza Restaurant and house plans for foothill lots in Bahia Unit No. 3 housing development.

Minor changes were made Wednesday in applicants' plans for the department store, restaurant and day care center.

The committee also studied a plan submitted by Councilman George Quesada for a footbridge across Novato Creek between the county library branch and the downtown shopping center. No action was taken pending comparison of the plan with other existing plans.

Marin Juvenile Court Bans Burglary Case

Marin County Juvenile Court has refused to take the case of John Lauren Mott, 18, of San Rafael, accused of the June 24 burglary of the DeLong Chevrolet agency showroom.

He pleaded innocent to the felony charge yesterday in municipal court, and Judge Peter Allen Smith set preliminary hearing for Aug. 18.

RESOLUTION OF THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF THE MARIN JUNIOR COLLEGE DISTRICT
RESOLUTION NO. 70/71-3
RESOLUTION CONVEYING CERTAIN PROPERTIES TO SANITARY DISTRICT NO. 1 OF MARIN COUNTY, CALIFORNIA

WHEREAS, in connection with the construction of a pumping station site, Sanitary District No. 1 has requested the conveyance of certain properties by this District to it, and

WHEREAS, the property requested is not and will not at the time of delivery of title or possession be needed for classroom buildings by this District;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED that it is the intent of this Board to convey the property described below to Sanitary District No. 1 on September 3, 1970.

1. The property to be conveyed consists of:

PARCEL ONE - A sale in fee of approximately 0.14 acres of that property more particularly described in Exhibit "A" attached hereto and by this reference incorporated herein.

PARCEL TWO - An environmental control easement more particularly described in Exhibit "A" attached hereto and by this reference incorporated herein.

PARCEL THREE - A permanent access and sewer easement more particularly described in Exhibit "A" attached hereto and by this reference incorporated herein.

PARCELS FOUR and FIVE - Temporary construction easements terminating June 1, 1972, described in Exhibit "A" attached hereto and incorporated herein by this reference.

2. The price required to be paid from Sanitary District No. 1 to this District for said parcels of property shall be $2,750.00.

3. The conveyance to be made as herein provided shall be subject to the following terms and conditions:

a) The property shall be used by the Sanitary District only for the construction, operation and maintenance of a sanitary pumping station.

b) All construction equipment and material storage during the construction period shall be kept within the purchased land, construction easements, or non-college owned property.

c) All trees and plantings outside the protection line as shown on Exhibit "B" (on file in the office of the Business Manager for examination) and by this reference incorporated herein, are to remain and shall be protected. Any plantings accidently damaged shall be replaced by Sanitary District.

d) Site grading, drain lines and structures shall be designed to accommodate local drainage to prevent damage to college property.

e) Filling of the stream meander shall be done in such a manner that it will not damage any of the plantings outside the protection line shown on Exhibit "B".

f) All construction areas outside the fence shall be planted and maintained by the Sanitary District with native plant materials in a manner similar to that shown on the landscape plan dated July 1, 1970, indicated as Exhibit "C" (on file in the office of the Business Manager for examination) and by this reference incorporated herein.

g) The easement granted Parcel Two may be terminated by mutual agreement.

h) All plans for development by the Sanitary District including but not limited to building, fence and plantings shall be developed cooperatively with representatives of the College.

i) The initial development of the pumping station, service area, and fence shall be done in a manner consistent with the plan dated July 1, 1970, prepared by Crawford and Banning, Architects.

j) All improvements shall be kept in good repair at all times by the Sanitary District.

k) All utility services to the site will be placed underground from Stadium Way.

l) Sanitary District shall be responsible for keeping any noise below a nuisance level beyond the permanent easement. The selection of equipment and the structure shall be designed accordingly.

m) A complete positive deodorization system shall be utilized.

n) Sanitary District shall grant to the College District a license to:

1) Use the access road from Bon Air Road to the pumping station for access to College property for maintenance purposes.

2) Use a portion of the access road for pedestrian traffic from Stadium Way to the Ecology Study Area.

o) The Sanitary District's construction contracts relating to said property shall name the College District as an additional insured.

4. This Resolution shall be published no less than once a week for three weeks prior to the making of the sale as provided herein, in the Independent-Journal, a newspaper published in the District and having a general circulation here.

PASSED AND ADOPTED at a regular meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Marin Junior College District of the County of Marin, State of California, held on the 16 day of July, 1970, by the following vote, to wit:

AYES: Deedy, Felt, Gray, Moore, Oliver, Rogers, Wellman

Postal Reform Bill Now Awaits Nixon's Signature

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. Post Office is only a few days away from being removed from politics.

The House Thursday completed congressional action on an historic bill to transform the Post Office into an independent agency. President Nixon was expected to sign the bill into law next week.

One of the first results will be a raise in the cost of first class mail from six to eight cents, probably by next January, and increases of one-third in the cost of other classes of mail. But Postmaster General Winton M. Blount, who will lose his cabinet status one year after the law takes effect, promised "better service for the American people."

The tall, spare Alabama businessman told reporters he had given "no thought" to taking on the job of directing the new "U.S. Postal Service." But he did not rule it out.

The reform bill gives the nation's 750,000 postal workers an 8 per cent, $637 million pay raise, plus the right to collective bargaining. Passage of the bill —which Blount confessed seemed impossible 18 months ago —was spurred by the nation's first postal strike last March.

Benjamin Franklin, generally regarded as the father of the Post Office, was appointed by the continental Congress July 26, 1775 to run the first mail service prior to the birth of the nation.

The Articles of Confederation gave Congress "the sole exclusive right and power of establishing and regulating post offices" and the first act creating the office of postmaster general passed Sept. 26, 1789. The job was elevated to cabinet rank in 1829.

Lawrence F. O'Brien, the nation's 57th postmaster general, proposed abolition of the post office and creation of an independent agency in April 1967, warning the nation was 'in a race with satastrophe." He and other critics had warned of a postal breakdown unless modern business methods were applied.

The Nixon administration agreed and began the push for congressional approval while Blount pleaded for reform to relieve taxpayers of "the long bleak history of huge postal deficits."

While the reform bill is not perfect, Blount said, it contained four major features the administration wanted:

—Removal of the post office from politics and provision for continuity of management.

—Collective bargaining between postal management and employees.

—Postal rate-setting by management instead of congress.

—An authority to obtain adequate financing by issuing bonds.

Nixon will appoint a nine-member board of governors who will select a postmaster general and a deputy to run the new service. He also will name a five-member commission to set rates and an 11-member advisory council.

Nerve Gas Loading Under Way

ANNISTON, Ala. (UPI)—Vaults containing World War II nerve gas are being loaded aboard a freight train for their controversial shipment through Georgia and the Carolinas.

The Pentagon announced Thursday that similar vaults would be loaded aboard a train tnday at the Blue Garss Arsenal in Richmond, Ky.

A total of 418 of the vaults will be shipped by train from the two arsenals to Sunny Point, N.C., where they will be loaded aboard an old ship hulk, towed 282 miles off the coast of Cape Kennedy and sunk in 16,000 feet of water.

The shipment is expected to roll through Georgia next Monday and Tuesday.

Meanwhile, Mayor Ronnie Thompson of Macon, Ga., who has vowed to barricade railroad tracks outside his city to halt the train, said he would arrive at Anniston today to inspect Army safety precautions regarding the shipment.

Col. John J. Osick of the Office of the Army Director of Chemical and Nuclear Operations invited Thompson to look at the shipment preparations.

Osick was dispatched from Washington to try to convince Thompson the nerve gas shipment would be safe.

But Thompson appeared unmoved Thursday following a meeting with Osick although he agreed to the trip.

Osick said the train, consisting of 28 freight cars, would be safer than any other on the tracks. He added the army has no intentinn of changing the routing through Bremen Griffin, Macon and Athens on the way to the sea.

Thompson said the only way the army could prove its confidence in the shipment would be to route the train through Atlanta.

In another development, Rep. Alton Lennon, D-N.C., chairman of a House Merchant Marine and Fisheries subcommittee investigating the operation, accused the Army of choosing a dumping site off the southern coast rather than off New Jersey because it thought Southerners would not object.

Teen-Age Dance Set At Petaluma

A dance for teen-agers will be held today from 9 p.m. to midnight at the Kenilworth Recreation Center, Petaluma.

The Petaluma rock band, "Air," will provide the music. Members of the band include Phillip Marshall, Thomas Altenruether, Mitchell Froom, David Froom, Steven James and Steven Harr.

The dance, sponsored by the CCD, youth group of St. Vincent de Paul Church, will also include a light show by the "Vulcan Lites" of Petaluma and Novato.

The Florida Keys are made up of a total of 1,000 islands. Only 62 of them are inhabited.

Terra Linda, County Argue Old Repair Tab

The county of Marin and the Terra Linda Park and Recreation District are engaged in a skirmish over a $224.60 bill incurred during a storm in December of 1968.

Tax collector-treasurer Stanley J. Fontez, whose office is in charge of collecting unpaid bills, this week asked the Marin County Board of Supervisors to cancel the bill, compromise, or sue the district for payment.

Fontez explained that a drain sump in Terra Linda got clogged with debris during a storm on Dec. 19, 1968, and threatened some homes with flooding. Terra Linda Fire Department did not have equipment to clear the debris and called on the park and recreation district, which in turn called in the county department of public works. The department of public works unclogged the drain and billed the park and recreation district for $224.60.

V.H. Nicholson, vice chairman of the park and recreation district said the cleanup by the county was a public service performed during an emergency, not to protect district facilities but to help county residents from a threatened flood. Therefore the district should not have to pay the cost.

"It seems to me there should be a way of settling this matter without a suiet." said Fonteg. However, since he is not in a position to decide, he asked the county supervisors for direction.

Nixon Names Study Group To Prevent Fuel Shortage

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon has named a special committee to determine how to head off an expected shortage of heating and power plant fuels this winter.

The White House said the Cabinet-level committee was asked to "recommend federal actions which may be taken to alleviate the acute shortage of clean (low sulphur) fuels for adequate fuel supply for the next five years."

The committee also is to be concerned with environmental quality. New federal clear air standards would prevent utilities from using most reserve supplies of coal for example, because they have a high sulphur content.

Dr. Paul McCracken, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, was named chairman of the panel.

McCracken said the committee would look into the problems of supply and demand for coal, natural gas, residual fuel oil and No. 2 home heating oil.

"Primarily the problem has arisen from short supplies and the enormously increased demand for fuels," McCracken said.

He noted that many power companies were operating at below the recommended power reserve for peak periods, which resulted in "brownouts"

Navy To Retire 55 Vessels

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Navy Secretary John H. Chafee announced today 55 ships of the U. S. fleet will be mothballed during the next six months for economy reasons.

Included among the ships were the attack carrier Bonhomme Richard and the heavy cruiser U.S.S. St. Paul. Most of the vessels, however, were designed as auxiliary ships, amphibious warfare ships, or mine warfare ships.

All of the ships are old — their average age is 23 years — and the oldest, the U.S.S. Platte, has been in service for 31 years. Chafee said the deactivation of the ships would raise to 228 the number of vessels retired in the face of continuing budget cutbacks.

Tape Player Stolen From Parked Auto

A radio-cassette tape player, tapes and other possessions valued at more than $250 were taken Wednesday from a vehicle owned by William C. Otey, 29, of 9 Palm Avenue, Corte Madera, police said today.

Officers said the auto was burglarized between 5 and 9 a.m. while parked at the Wards parking lot.

Pot Brings Probation, Suspended Term, Fine

Mark A. Harris, 18, of Larkspur, has been placed on three years' probation, given a suspended 60-day jail sentence and fined $150 for possession of marijuana.

Arrested May 15 on a felony charge of cultivating marijuana, he later pleaded guilty to the reduced, misdemeanor charge, and was sentenced yesterday by Judge Peter Allen Smith in municipal court.

Make Mine Milk, Says Master Mike

Michael Suyderhoud, the world water ski champion from San Anselmo, seems to be spending more time on breakfast tables than he is on the water these days.

You've undoubtedly seen Master Michael doing those flip-flop Wheaties commercials on television.

Now, the 20-year-old Sonoma State chemistry student is getting big in the milk industry, the better to lubricate the Wheaties flakes, I guess.

Anyway, while vacationing up north last week I picked up a McColl's Dairy milk carton and — lo and behold — there was Suyderhoud's name prominently displayed in an advertisement for the Fall River Mills (Shasta County) Invitational Water Ski Tournament Aug. 9.

"See champions Mike Suyderhoud and Lisa St. John in action," the milk cartons urge.

Skim milk, no doubt.

A Wet Time For Miss Kilgore

HEY, WHO SAYS Canada Dry?

Tiburon teener Bee Kilgore found quite the contrary last week in Vancouver while she was winning two junior titles in the Canadian Open Tennis Championship. It rained much of the time, forcing a day's delay in the schedule, but failed to dampen Bee's outstanding ability.

One of Miss Kilgore's championship matches, by the way, was televised nationally in Canada.

FAIRFAX PARK and Recreation Department's first attempt at sponsoring a football clinic last Saturday at Drake High School was a resounding success, reports Rec Director Tony Barbera. He said more than 100 youths turned out to hear and watch College of Marin coach Dick Read and his coaching staff discuss some of the basic points of the game. Barbara now has his sights set on a basketball clinic.

WHO'S THE FASTEST waiter in Marin? I nominate Bob Hope at the West End Villa, San Rafael. Hope, no relation to the comedian, is the former Tam High distance star who won the Mill Valley to Stinson Beach Dipsea Race 10 years ago and is still pretty fleet on his feet. Got me a three-minute egg in 2:23.

And He's Enjoying It More

SAN ANSELMO'S Johnny Boccabella, veteran major league catcher-first baseman-outfielder, is really making some loud noises with the bat for the Montreal Expos against his former Chicago Cubs teammates.

Wednesday Boc the Sock cracked a home run and triple in three at-bats and yesterday he ruined Cub pitcher Ken Holtzman's bid for a no-hitter with an eighth inning single.

Boc is not exactly a fan of Cub skipper Leo Durocher so he must be enjoying his latest batting heroics.

CHARLES S. "CHUB" FEENEY, the swinging president of the National League, will be special guest of the San Francisco Giants Boosters Club's Aug. 19 dinner gathering at Rubini's in Fairfax. Boosters President Allan B. Murray expects a turnaway crowd, so make your reservation now.

Since Feeney has been accused of livening up the N.L. ball this season I suspect the Rubini's menu that night will include rabbit in his honor. No speeches, but a lot of table hopping.

Happy Day For Giants' Skipper

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—It wasn't Charlie Fox's birthday.

Neither was it his wedding anniversary nor any other milestone day in his life. Yet, he couldn't have been happier.

Horace C. Stoneham, president of the San Francisco Giants, started things off nicely for the Fox household Thursday by guaranteeing employment through the 1971 season.

MORNING CALL

"He called me up in the morning," Fox said, "and told me he had decided to extend my contract as manager through next season. That put me on cloud nine."

A few hours later at Candlestick Park the Giants jumped the Cincinnati Reds for seven runs in the first inning enroute to an easy 9-3 victory.

"I couldn't believe it," Fox said. "I figured this was the biggest day in my life, even bigger than my birthday or the day Mr. Stoneham hired me to manage. I can't explain it, but it was like floating around on two clouds."

Getting a contract extension, with a little raise thrown in, was a big thing but Fox made it sound as if beating the Reds for the club's fourth straight victory was even bigger.

COMPLETE GAMES

The way the Giants pitching staff has performed this year you could understand Fox's joy when Frank Reberger gave the club its fourth complete game, and his first in the big leagues.

"The kid really showed me something," said Fox. "He wasn't afraid to challenge those tough Cincinnati hitters and he worked his way out of a couple of jams like a guy who has been pitching a long time."

HOME RUNS

Willie McCovey and Frank Johnson made things easy for the Giants, Fox and Reberger by hitting three-run homers in the first inning off Cincinnati starter Ray Washburn. The Giants sent 12 men to bat in the inning and seven of them scored, the final run crossing on a sacrifice fly by Tito Fuentes.

McCovey's homer was his 28th and it boosted his RBI total to 88, two less than club leader Dick Dietz. Johnson, who played in place of the ailing

Mercury Is Found In Fish

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A state public health official says evidence of mercury contamination in Sacramento-San Joaquin Delta Fish is presently inconclusive.

Dr. Ephraim Kahn, a Department of Public Health environmental specialist, made the comment Thursday after the Department of Fish and Game said mercury levels found in samplings of Delta fish were "high enough to be of concern."

Kahn said there was no conclusive evidence on the levels or to what extent there was a public hazard.

"We don't have ennugh data," he said, "there are scattered fish specimens. Results from different laboratodoubt about it."

Eldridge G. Hunt, chief of the DFG's wildlife management branch, said the amounts of mercury found in fish were "at warning levels. There's no doubt about itm"

Hunt said the residue level of samplings was at a half part per million—the federal government's "actionable level."

But Kahn said the samplings so far showed varied levels without giving a truce, scientific picture of the problem. He said the levels were not increasing and "the problem has been with us for quite a while."

Kahn said his investigators would be able to determine within two weeks an exact level of mercury in the fish.

Kahn said the Public Health Department would probably issue an immediate warning if the mercury levels proved to be "one or two parts per million." But he added, "We're not sure where the levels are."

The DFG probe was being extended from the Delta into San Francisco Bay and into Southern California. Included would be the Sierra foothill streams.

The mercury was believed to come from industry and old Sierra gold mines. Mercury was used in gold panning operations throughout California.

Tommy Davis No Longer With 49ers

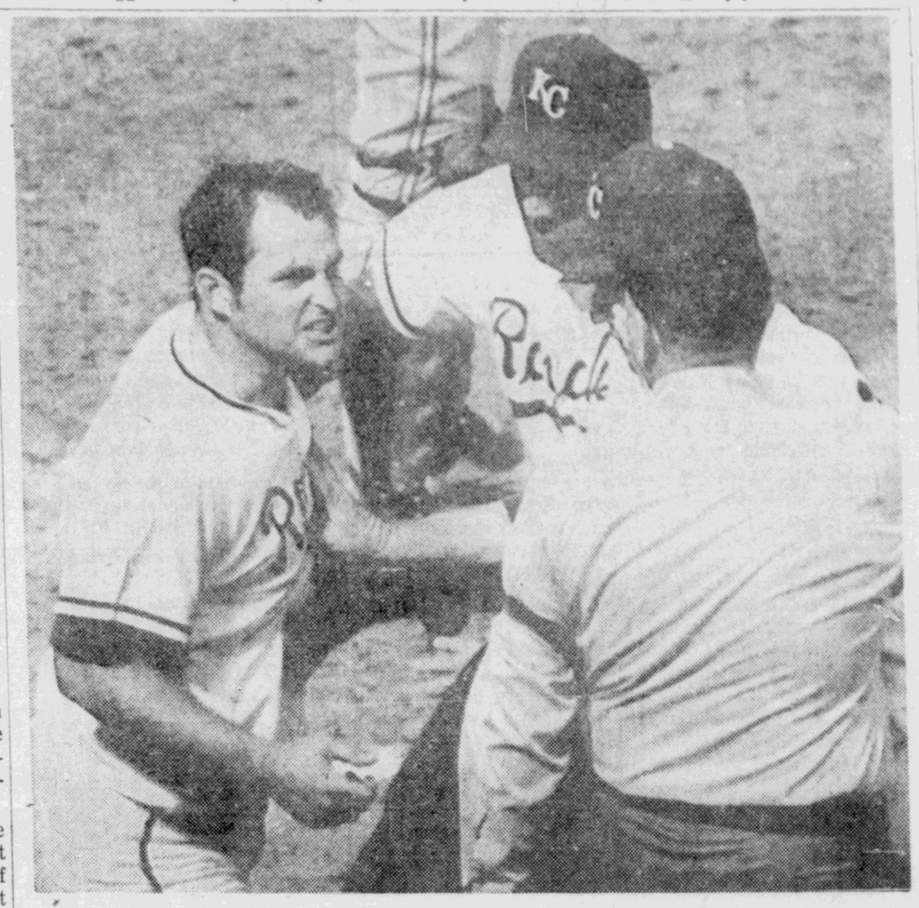
GOLETA (UPI)—Bruce Gossett and Momcilo Gavric are now officially the top kickers on the San Francisco 49er football team.

Veteran placekicker Tommy Davis, 35, was placed on waivers and became a free agent Thursday when no other team claimed him. He is now free to make his own deal with any club.

Davis was the kicking mainstay of the 49ers and set a National Football League record of 234 consecutive points after touchdowns and his 44.7 yard punt average was the highest among active players entering the 1970 season.

Another roster cutback occurred when linebacker Jim Vander Slice, a 13th round draft choice from Texas Christian, packed his bags and left training camp.

Linebacker Dave Wilcox and running back Dave Cunningham missed practice because of back strains. But they are expected to resume drills over the weekend.



HOT AND HATLESS — Kansas City catcher Ed Kirkpatrick expressed his feelings to umpire George Maloney while Royals' manager Bob Lemon and an unidentified player held him back during last night's game at Kansas City. Maloney, who had called Kirkpatrick out, responded by throwing the angry player out of the game. (UPI Telephoto)

Will Namath Really Quit Pro Football?

NEW YORK (UPI)—The retirement of Joe Namath from professional football may be imminent.

The star quarterback of the New York Jets hinted that such a thing was close Thursday when he said, "I don't want to play football."

The 27-year-old Namath has created quite a stir this week by his failure to report to the Jets' training camp. One of his teammates, Al Atkinson, retired from football Wednesday and he cited the selfishness of players like Namath as one of the reasons for his decision.

Namath has been engaged in several business activities this past year, including movie-making, and readily admits that football doesn't play as important a part in his life as it once did. He said his reasons for not reporting to the Jets training camp were due to "personal problems."

Namath met with Jets' president Phil Iselin, for several hours Thursday night in an effort to iron out his difficulties with the management.

IN MINNESOTA

Now Or Never For Athletics

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI)—It's now or never for the Oakland Athletics to make a move to displace the Minnesota Twins from atop the American League West.

The white-shoed baseballers from the West Coast open a five-game series with the Twins tonight whom they trail by eight games. To call the upcoming series crucial is understanding the cast a bit.

Oakland maybe was looking ahead to Minnesota and forgot all about Kansas City who wiped out a 3-0 A's lead Thursday night to pull out a 5-3 win.

The Royals hopped on starter Diego Segui and relievers Bob Locker, Paul Lindblad and Marcel Lachemann for five runs in the seventh inning. Locker, now 1-2, was tagged with the loss.

Segui sailed into the seventh with a two-hit shutout and three-run lead. But Amos Otis led off with a homer, Lou Piniella singled and Bob Oliver rocketed another homer over the leftfield wall to tie the game and finish Segui.

Then after a single and walk, Pat Kelly singled home the tiebreaking run. With the bases loaded, Lindblad walked in the Royals' fifth run.

Rollie Fingers (5-8) is scheduled to pitch for the A's tonight against 16-game winner Jim Perry. The teams play single games Saturday and Monday and a doubleheader on Sunday.

LITTLE LEAGUE

San Rafael Vs. Sacramento '9'

"One of the kids said to me, 'They can't be any older than we are'," Henry Knotts, manager of the San Rafael American Little League All-Stars, said Wednesday in describing his team's attitude for tonight's opening game against Washington of Sacramento in the Section II tournament at Rancho School in Novato.

Any team that runs up 43 runs to 6 for the opposition in winning four straight games as San Rafael did in the District Three, Marin County tournament must have a good attitude. With the talent the Americans have, however, they could have been manic-depressive and still have won.

MAJOR ITEM

If pitching is 75 per cent of baseball at the major league level, it's probably 90 pct. in Little League. It's said a team needs two first rate pitchers to win in tournament play. Meet Jeff Knotts and Garry Johns. Knotts, acknowledged as the team's all-around super star, displayed his versatility in the final game against Marinwood by pitching a shutout and hitting a home run. The Americans won, 14-0.

Johns, besides fashioning shutout victories in both the first and third games of the tourney, made a leaping catch at the fence to save the Novato game, which San Rafael won in 10 innings, 8-6.

CREDENTIALS

The Americans' hitting credentials speak for themselves. In the title game Saturday, six players in the starting lineup blasted extra base hits. Jim Bell, Marty Magliulo, Scott Leoncini, Johns and Knotts cracked doubles, and Knotts and Dan Helms had homers.

Helms, a switch hitter, time and again was the Americans' clutch man at the plate. He smashed two lefthanded homers to go with his righthanded, title-games hot, including a two run job that tied the Novato game in the seventh inning.

Knotts senior has announced that he will go tonight with the same lineup that has brought him to the sectional playoffs. In batting order they will be Brian Shelley, leftfield, Helms, centerfield, Knotts on the mound, Matt Harris, first base, Johns, centerfield, Bell, third base, Leoncini behind the plate, Mike Houston, short-stop and Magliulo, second base.

Tonight's game, starting at 6 o'clock, will be broadcast by radio station KTIM. The Rancho School field is at 1430 Hill Street in Novato.

CONCORD TRIUMPHS IN OPENER

Concord defeated Santa Rosa, 9-4 last night in the opening game of the Northern California Section II Little League baseball tournament at Rancho School in Novato.

Concord will play in the final game tomorrow at 3 p.m. against the winner of tonight's contest between Washington of Sacramento and San Rafael American. Losers play at 1 p.m.

Kurt Schneider, Tom Underwood and Len Harrod each rapped two hits for the winners, and Harrod got the game's only extra base blow, a double.

Tim Herron was the winning pitcher.

Sharon Walsh Wins In Team Tournament

Sharon Walsh of San Rafael defeated Janet Newberry of Southern California in the opening match of the finals in the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association team tennis championships yesterday at Allentown, Pa.

Miss Walsh, playing for Northern California, downed Miss Newberry, 3-6, 6-3, 6-2.

Baseball's Muscle Men With Magical Fingers

Willie Mays paid a top compliment to Leo Hughes, team trainer of the Giants, when he said "Doc keeps me going — he finds all the aches and pains in me and makes them go away."

Willie McCovey is another admirer of Hughes. "Doc," said McCovey, "knows his business. I was with him in triple A and have seen him at work a number of years."

Hughes is a very important behind-the-scenes operator for the Giants. But just who is he?

HUGHES IS a native San Franciscan in his mid 50s. He was a fair ball player himself at Mission High School but never advanced beyond the semi-pro ranks. The late Red Adams first introduced him to a pro dressingroom in old Recreation Park at 15th and Valencia Streets in 1928.

Hughes liked the atmosphere, particularly the training room of Bobby Johnson, trainer for the old Seals, who taught him the fundamentals of applying tape and gently locating knotted muscles.

HUGHES' CAREER was further advanced when he came in contact with the famed Denny Carroll at Boyes Hot Springs, the spring training camp of the Seals. Carroll had preceded Johnson as trainer of the Seals and had gone on to the Detroit Tigers as trainer. But when Seals needed special treatment, Carroll would always lend a hand.

"HE HAD magic in his finger,s" said Hughes. "It was a privilege to work beside him and learn. Ask Walter Mails sometime about Carroll. There was a time when Mails couldn't raise his pitching arm above his head. Other trainers worked on Mails' sore arm. Carroll corrected the problem by working on the leader muscle from the neck into the arm.

Hughes described the days he spent with Carroll as "a postgraduation course."

"CARROLL PROLONGED Tony Lazzeri's baseball career," said Hughes. "The Yankees sent Lazzeri to Carroll and he worked the soreness out of a bad elbow Lazzeri had. He also did wonders for Detroit's great second baseman, Charlie Gehringer. There were many other careers Carroll prolonged."

So now Willie Mays credits Hughes with keeping him going. How does Hughes feel about that?

"IT WAS very kind of Willie to say what he did," said Hughes. "I'm most grateful."

Aside from finding sore spots in athletes and rubbing them out with his sensitive fingers, does Hughes have any other training secrets?

"Psychology and salt are as important as bandages and pills," he said. "Psychology is one of the big weapons of a trainer. As for salt, I'm a great believer in it.

"A SALT tablet a day creates better circulation for an athlete at work. It keeps water in pores and prevents them from drying. Thus, muscles are kept supple and lubricated, not tense and in danger of pulls.

"A trainer can treat muscle spasms or pulls but a good one should teach players how to avoid them. Pulled hamstrings usually occur in spring training when players, not yet in shape, over extend themselves. They occur during the season when players are tired."

Workers Return At Cincy Stadium

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Additional workmen were called in to speed the conversion of the Riverfront Stadium for football purposes Thursday after the job was delayed two days by a strike.

Union carpenters walked off the job Monday in a jurisdictional dispute with structural ironworkers. They returned to work Wednesday when threatened with contempt of court citations.

City Utilities Director Wallace Power said additional workmen were put on the job to speed up the installation of about 2,000 demountable seats for the Cincinnati Bengals' first exhibition game Saturday night with the Washington Redskins.

SPORTS SHORTS

Basketball Merger Still A Year Away

CHICAGO (UPI) — Merger of the National and American Basketball Associations is at least a year away, NBA commissioner Walter Kennedy told club owners at their annual summer meeting.

The delay, he said, was likely because "I do not contemplate that we will be able to get legislation acted upon in this session of Congress."

Football

BLOOMFIELD HILLS, Mich. — Alex Karras, defensive tackle for the Detroit Lions, yesterday told general manager Russ Thomas by telephone that he wants to leave the team.

Thomas told Karras, a 35-year-old veteran of 11 National Football League seasons, that the Lions would try to trade him if coach Joe Schmidt was willing. Schmidt said he was.

Fishing

KAILUA, Hawaii — The Hawaiian International Billfish Tournament set a new marlin catch record yesterday when 22 more fish, including a 583-pound monster, were boated. The record of 63 for the five-day tournament was smashed by a four-day total of 78.

Harry Jefferson of the Island of Hawaii landed the 583 pounder, which put his team in first place with 1,268 points.

Five Marin Netters Triumph

All five Marin county players in yesterday's quarterfinals of the Portola Valley Junior Tennis Tournament at the Alpine Hills Club were victorious.

Andy Moffat of Mill Valley, third-seeded in boys 18-and-under, disposed of Steve McDonald, 6-4, 6-4 as the field in that class was cut to four.

Cary Stansbury of San Rafael and Greenbrae's Diane DeMartini won in 12-and-under matches. Stansbury defeated Chip Uorris, 6-2, 6-1, and Miss DeMartini shut out Amy Morris, -0, 6-0.

Lissy Manheim and Leslie Airola of Tiburon both won in girls 16. Miss Manheim took Maureen Hennig, 6-0, 6-3, and Miss Airola stopped Kelly O'Keefe in three sets, 6-3, 8-10, 6-0.

Scrappers Triumph

The Scrappers outlasted Marin Supply, 13-12 last night in a San Rafael adult softball game at Albert Park.

Bobby Bonds, hit his third.

The Giants put their four-game winning streak, longest of the season, on the line tonight in the first game of a four-game weekend series with the Houston Astros.

Ron Bryant, who went into the ninth inning against the Philadelphia Phillies with a 6-3 lead last Sunday only to see Mike Davison and the Giants lose it, pitches tonight against Larry Dierker (9-10. Bryant is 3-4.

Joe Kapp Is Job Hunting

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Joe Kapp and the Minnesota Vikings have parted ways after being unable to bridge an apparent $1 million gulf.

So the big quarterback is job hunting among other pro teams. Or rather his attorney, John Elliott Cook of San Francisco, is trying to find another employer while Kapp takes things easy at a mountain resort in Northern California.

THE SETS?

Cook won't say what teams, if any have put in a bid for Kapp's services. But it's no secret the New York Jets will be looking for a top-flight quarterback if Joe Namath's so-called "personal" problems keep him out of the game.

"Joe has placed his matters in my hands and I assume complete responsibility for decisions," said Cook, adding he isn't charging Kapp a cent.

"It is a pleasure to help a young man of his quality," adds the attorney.

Kapp, who led the Vikings to the National Football League championship and a loss to Kansas City in the Super Bowl last season, became a free agent May 1 and can sign with any club he chooses.

'UNREWARDING'

Cook said Minnesota offered Kapp a two-year contract at $50,000 a year. Kapp reportedly labeled this offer "totally unrewarding for my work."

On the other hand, Kapp is asking as much as $1,250,000 spread over five years. That averages out to $250,000 a season on a presumably no-cut basis.

"Joe is now finished as a Viking," said Cook Thursday. "It is hoped his football future will be with a club that shares his dedication...you simply have to win."

BASEBALL ROUNDUP

Pirates Extend Lead In East

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Most men are promoted when they do a good job.

But with Bruce Dal Canton of the Pittsburgh Pirates it's just the opposite.

Normally a reliever, Dal Canton has been placed in the starting rotation in recent days to ease the strain on a pitching staff hobbled by injuries.

The 28-year-old righthander has responded by winning. Thursday night he went the route for the first time as he beat the Philadelphia Phillies, 8-3, in the second game of a doubleheader. The Pirates won the opener, 4-0, behind the six-hit pitching of Dock Ellis. The sweep increased their lead to 2½ games in the National League East.

And the reward for Dal Canton's fine performance? The bull pen, according to Pirate manager Danny Murtaugh. "Bruce will get one more start," says Murtaugh. "Then who knows what will happen. Steve Blass, who has been on the disabled list with arm trouble, will throw 15 minutes of batting practice tomorrow and if the doctor says he's okay, then he's back in the starting rotation."

In other National League action, San Francisco belted Cincinnati, 9-3, Chicago topped Montreal, 4-2, St. Louis blanked New York, 3-0, Houston topped San Diego, 8-6, and Atlanta rapped Los Angeles, 4-1.

In the AL, Cleveland shutout Baltimore, 4-0 in the first game of a doubleheader but lost the nightcap, 7-1, Detroit and New York split a pair, with the Tigers winning the first game, 2-1, and the Yankees bouncing back, 7-5, Washington beat Boston, 5-2, Kansas City whipped Oakland, 5-3, Minnesota edged California, 2-1, and Chicago belted Milwaukee, 7-3.

Al Oliver hit a two-run double in the first game and a two-run triple in the second game to spark the Pittsburgh attack. Willie Stargell slugged his 21st homer in the opener as Ellis boosted his record to 12-8.

'It's My Swan Song' Says Ken Venturi

AKRON, Ohio — Ken Venturi of San Francisco pulled out of the American Golf Classic yesterday aftre the first round and said he would never enter another tournament unless doctors can cure his aching hands.

"This is my swan song," said Venturi, 39, after carding an 80 on the Firestone Country Club course. "I'll never play another competitive round," he said. "I can't swing a stick and until the doctors can do something about it, until they say I'm cured, I've had it."

Venturi has won 14 tournaments in his career, including the U.S. Open and the American Golf Classic six years ago.

Another dropout from tournament was Napa's Ron Cerrudo, who like Venturi withdrew after the opening round.

George Archer took the first round lead in the classic with a 67 after Tommy Jacobs met doom on the "monster" 625-yard 16th hole. Jacobs had been rolling along at six-under-par through 15 holes when he ran into a triple-bogey eight on Firestone's most troublesome hole.

Jacobs finished at two-under-par 68, tied for second with Paul Harney.

FISH AND GAME

A Long Hike Reveals A Lot Of Little Fish

By AL GIDDINGS

With releases of water from Kent Dam to Papermill Creek and through Samuel Taylor State Park, the juvenile silver salmon and steelhead have received a shot in the arm, so to speak. You might wonder how many fish are to be found throughout Papermill Creek and its tibutaries, and just what role they play in keeping the runs of adult salmon and steelhead intact each year. And what is their value in dollars?

This past week, I spent some time hiking and spot checking fish from Pt. Reyes Station to Woodacre. It's surprising just how many fish there are to be counted along this area.

I started from Pt. Reyes Station taking counts and estimating the numbers in most of the holes and riffles all the way to Tocaloma, a distance of about six miles. The total number came to approximately 7,500, two to three-inch-long silver salmon and steelhead.

THEN FROM Tocaloma to the Lagunitas "Inkwells" below Kent Dam, a distance of five miles, I took a second count. Five miles is approximately 26,000 feet. Along every foot of the way, there was at least one silver salmon or steelhead fingerling. This then gives a figure of 26,000 fish.

From the "Inkwells" to lower Woodacre, another five miles in distance, even higher counts per foot were made. I finally settled on a figure close to 50,000 fish more or less evenly divided between silver salmon and steelhead for this area.

The total figure for the three areas came to 83,500 fish. I would say the figure is pretty close to being correct. Those 83,500 fish at 10 cents per fish, the present general market price, then give this fish run a market value of $8,350.

IN CONSIDERING their value to the adult winter runs, it is generally figured that 83,500 juveniles would provide up to 50,000 one year old fish that would go to sea. It has also been estimated that after the commercial and sport catches plus other losses, approximately one and one-half to two per cent come back to their original spawning grounds to restart the cycle from the sea. One and one-half to two per cent of 50,000 gives us a figure of 1,000 adult spawners that we can expect to return. We believe that our counts of adult spawners has been about 1,000 fish, so everything seems to fit the pattern.

Devil's Gulch Creek for a distance of two miles was fairly "loaded" with small fry. The total counts here came to approximately 20,000 fish, or about two fish to the foot along the stream.

GENERALLY THEN, the average live stream under good conditions can be considered a nursery area for silver salmon and steelhead with an average population of 5,000 to 10,000 fish to the mile.

Check this against the Fairfax-San Anselmo Creek areas, and one can readily see the difference. Pollutions of the water really takes a heavy toll. I doubt if we could get a total count of 2,000 fingerlings from Greenbrae to Fairfax.

UP AT Walker Creek, taking counts was difficult. Two miles of Salmon Creek, a Walker Creek tributary, were completely dry. One hole below the Dolcini Ranch Bridge in Salmon Creek on the Marshall-Petaluma Road had four 8-10 inch trout and approximately 30 juvenile fish. Even Walker Creek was generally dry in most areas.

SOME OF the catchable trout planted in Phoenix last week died, probably 100 or more. When the waters reach the high temperatures of the summer, then fish problems occur. Many of the fish were also being "attacked" by anchor worms, a fish parasite common to hot weather water. They are not dangerous to man, but give the fish an unpleasant aura. Probbly, the Department of Fish and Game will stop the summer plants because of this condition.

Raiders Working Overtime

SANTA ROSA (UPI)—Veterans of the Oakland Raiders have begun working overtime to get ready for the 1970 exhibition opener against the Baltimore Colts Saturday night.

The Raiders went to three-a-day practices Thursday and will polish up their offensive patterns and defensive alignments today on the eve of launching the new season.

Football fever has already hit the East Bay because there is only standing room left for the game. The final 1,000 vacant seats in Oakland Coliseum were sold Thursday to insure a capacity turnout of 52,600.

Offensive lineman Jerry Jones, obtained from New Orleans in the spring, became the first player cut from the 77-man squad. A Raiders spokesman said he reported out of condition.

Coach John Madden said Daryle Lamonica and Ken Stabler would take turns directing the Raiders against the Colts with George Blanda and free agent Kay Stephenson probably seeing some action.

Madden and his staff plan to give practically everyone on the roster a few minutes of playing time because the squad must be reduced to 60 players by next Thursday.

Defensive tackle Tom Keating, not yet in camp, will miss the exhibition opener.

Most of the other veterans will see action with the possible exception of flanker Warren Wells who has a sore neck and running back Hewritt Dixon who is nursing a muscle pull.

JUDGE HALEY, THREE OTHERS SLAIN

FINAL MOMENTS—Judge Harold J. Haley and other hostages are forced from the Hall of Justice toward a waiting getaway van by San Quentin inmates James D. McClain (left) and Ruchell Magee. Moments later Judge Haley, McClain and another inmate and an accomplice were killed and a deputy district attorney, two women jurors and Magee wounded in a burst of gunfire as officers attempted to block their escape. 4 Hurt In Civic Center Shootings

Judge Harold J. Haley of Marin Superior Court and three others were slain today when gunfire erupted during a daring break for freedom from the Hall of Justice by three San Quentin inmates.

Haley, 65, one of four hostages taken by the inmates and an accomplice, was shot in the face when law officers blocked the escape path of a captured van.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Gary W. Thomas, also a hostage, suffered three bullet wounds, but was expected to survive. A juror, Maria Graham, 48, of 587 Tamarack Drive, San Rafael, was shot in the right arm.

A second juror taken hostage, Joyce Rodoni, 25, of Point Reyes Station, was not injured but taken to Marin General Hospital in near shock.

Also killed were two of the inmates, one of them identified as William Arthur Christmas, 38, and a third man, tentatively identified as the accomplice who made the break possible.

"They were carting bodies away like nothing I've ever seen," said Independent-Journal reporter Paul Peterzell, on the scene.

Authorities said one of the prisoners, James David McClain, 37, was being retried before Haley on a charge of stabbing a guard at San Quentin in March. A hung jury ended the first trial in June.

Christmas and Magee were witnesses in McLain's trial.

One man in the court as a spectator — later identified only as Burrows — launched the morning of terror when he flashed a weapon after entering Haley's courtroom.

Haley and the hostages were bound with wire. All were marched outside — Haley with a gun at his throat — and ushered into a yellow Hertz rental van.

RACED TO SCENE

Dozens of sheriff's officers and San Rafael police raced to the scene. Employees and visitors in the Hall of Justice cowered under desks and chairs.

The van began pulling away and a witness, Craig Steen of Novato, said police blocked its path. Steen said muffled gunfire then seemed to come from inside the van.

Steen said the exchange of fire between the van and police continued for about two minutes.

Two weapons, an M-1 semiautomatic carbine with a folding metal stock and a .12 gauge shotgun, were recovered. They were drenched with blood.

First reports said the killers carried dynamite but six sticks found in the van turned out to be railroad flares.

Thomas was shot three times. He and the two others wounded were taken to Marin General Hospital. Magee was said to be in surgery. Maria Graham was reportedly wounded with one shot in the right arm.

The terrifying incident which began at 10:45 a.m. lasted 45 minutes.

WANTED TO BE FREE

Five ambulances rushed to the scene of the shooting near the south archway of the Hall of Justice. Police cars swarmed to the area. County employees leaned out windows to watch the macabre events.

This was the scene as the escape try unfolded:

James Layne, a bailiff in Haley's courtroom, said he had seen Burrows in the courtroom yesterday. The man had asked whether the trial under way was the McClain case. Layne said it was.

This morning, Layne said, he noticed the spectator again, saw a leather case and just as he was walking over to Burrows to check the bag, the man whipped it open and pulled out a weapon and handed it to one of the prisoners.

Layne said the accomplice then whirled and from underneath a trench coat he was wearing brandished an automatic carbine and said, "Freeze".

Layne sat down. McClain yelled, "For the love of God, take these handcuffs off."

W.E. Twells, a San Quentin guard, said he was standing outside the courtroom when Magee came out with a gun and ordered him into the court to undo handcuffs.

Guard John J. Higgins, was in court and he said later he had also seen the spectator before.

McClain, according to reports, walked behind the judge and put his weapon to Haley's head. Twells and another guard, John J. Higgins, were told to lie on their faces. Layne was thrust on the floor.

FIVE AMBULANCES

"I want to be a free man," one of the inmates said.

McClain gave the shocked jury a speech on the injustice of accusations. He had been acting as his own attorney in the trial.

Two other bailiffs were grabbed from the hallway outside and pulled into the courtroom.

There was indecision on what to do; on how many hostages were to be taken.

"I buried my face in a crack and just heard what was going on after that," Layne said.

Next door, in an adjoining courtroom, Deputy Dist. Atty. J. Michael Anthony, said he heard the rattling of chains. He thought nothing of it at first, he said, but later went next door to investigate.

"All I saw was Haley and a guy with a gun at Haley's head and he was marching him down the hallway," Anthony said.

Anthony said he closed the main courtroom door and locked it.

Word of the weapon-bristling escape try quickly spread around the Hall of Justice. Workers dived under furniture as warnings were sounded. Doors were locked. In the sheriff's office on the floor above, matron Helen Laffsa said a Cal-

LUCKY TO BE ALIVE

Bailiff Credits A 'Distraction'

Court bailiff John V. Higgins came about as close as one can to becoming another of today's casualties at the Hall of Justice.

Higgins said he's alive because of "a distraction" which enabled him to run from the business end of an automatic rifle thrust in his stomach by the "spectator" who aided three San Quentin inmates in making a fatal escape attempt from a Superior Court courtroom.

Higgins said he was in the bailiff's waiting room when the prisoners made their break for freedom.

Learning of the escape attempt from a courtroom reporter, Higgins said he tried unsuccessfully to find a weapon. Unable to do so, he then called into the sheriff's office informing them of the break.

The 45-year-old bailiff said he then rushed to the north entrance of the Hall of Justice where he flagged down a sheriff's patrol car returning from its beat.

Grabbing a shotgun from the vehicle, Higgins said he rushed back to the north entrance where he hid behind a concrete wall awaiting the prisoners' exit.

"A few minutes later a procession of about six or seven including Judge (Harold J.) Haley came out," he explained.

"I didn't say anthing. One of the prisoners had a gun at Judge Haley's head," he continued.

Then according to Higgins, a fourth armed man, possibly the courtroom spectator came out and Higgins was spotted kneeling behind the wall.

"One of the men yelled 'Kill that mutha, kill him, kill him,' " Higgins said.

"I'm going to kill you," Higgins quoted the plainclothed man as telling him.

"He told me to get up and lay my shotgun at his feet," Higgins said, adding that he complied with the demand.

"Now I going to kill you, mutha," Higgins again quoted the man as saying.

"Just then there was a distraction in the parking lot which drew their (the prisoners and spectator's) attention and I started backing up, with my hands raised above my head. I

Judge Haley's Marin Career Long, Noted

Judge Harold J. Haley, 65, shot to death today after being abducted from his courtroom by gunmen, was named to the superior court bench by Governor Edmund G. Brown in 1964 after serving as judge of Marin Municipal Court since 1956.

He lived at 156 Peacock Drive, San Rafael.

A native of San Rafael, he attended public elementary and high schools in San Rafael and received his law degree from the University of San Francisco in 1928.

He was admitted to the bar in 1928 and conducted a private law practice in San Rafael until his appointment as assistant district attorney of Marin County in 1933.

He served as district attorney from 1943 to 1947, when he returned to private practice, and then served as San Rafael City Attorney from 1949 to 1956.

He was appointed to the municipal court bench in 1956 and won re-election in 1958 and 1964.

Haley was a former chairman of the Republican Central Committee of Marin County; past president of the Marin County Bar Association, Community Chest and Mount Tamalpais Parlor of the Native Sons of the Golden West; and past chairman of the Marin County Catholic Social Service board.

He was a member of San Rafael Elks lodge, Serra Club and the Marin Rod and Gun Club.

Survivors include his wife, Gertrude; three daughters, Patricia Davis, Carol Atkinson and Joan Fennone, and several grandchildren.

I-J Photographer Sees Friend Sprawled Dead

Independent-Journal photographer Jim Kean was told by armed San Quentin prisoners to "be sure to get a picture of the judge" only to see the judge sprawled dead moments later.

Kean broke only once in telling his story of the events at the Marin County Civic Center today which ended in the death of Superior Court Judge Harold J. Haley — Kean's lifelong friend.

The frightening hour began for Kean as he was returning to the I-J building from an assignment. He heard on a police radio in his car that an armed man was in a courtroom at the Civic Center.

Unable to reach the I-J newsroom by radio, Kean headed for the Civic Center and took an elevator to the courtroom floor.

A ceiling-high walled planter is in the center of the corridor outside the elevator. To one side of the planter wall stood Marin County Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos and several court bailiffs.

The planter wall blocked Kean's view of the front of the courtroom but he heard Mountanos say to the men with him, "OK, let's take it easy. Everything's going to be all right."

Kean walked around to the other side of the planter wall where he found himself face-

If your Independent-Journal was delivered late this evening it was because the press run was delayed to permit fullest possible coverage of the melee at the Marin County Hall of Justice.

The comics page does not appear today, it was deleted to make room on page 14 for photo coverage.

Covering the story at the hall of justice were I-J photographers Jim Kean and Roger Bockrath and reporters Jeff Greer, Erik M. Ingram, Paul E. Peterzell and Wat Takeshita. Reporter Larry Mowell was at Marin General Hospital.

On rewrite in the I-J San Rafael office were reporters David Dietz and C. P. McCarthy.

UAR, Israel Agree To Cease-Fire

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United Arab Republic and Israel have agreed to enter into a cease-fire beginning at 6 p.m. EDT, Friday, Secretary of State William P. Rogers announced.

"We welcome this statesmanlike action taken by the leaders of the governments concerned. We hope this important decision will advance the prospects for a just and lasting peace in the Middle East."

After official spokesman Robert J. McCloskey read Rogers' statement, responsible officials indicated that a cease-fire would also formally be in effect between Israel and Jordan.

The officials said that neither Israel nor Jordan had ever formally disavowed the pertinent U.N. cease-fire resolutions between the two countries.

The officials were referring to the original cease-fire which ended the 1967 Mideast War and the subsequent Nov. 22, 1967, security council resolution which laid the basis for a future political settlement in the Middle East.

"We have just been informed by the governments of the United Arab Republic and Israel of their acceptance of the U.S. proposal for a standstill cease-fire to come into effect at 2200 Greenwich Mean Time today, Friday, August 7," Rogers said in a statement.

U.S. officials were extremely pleased by the agreement to stop the fighting on the UAR-Israeli front which is considered to be the most serious area of Middle Eastern hostilities.

The main problem along the Israeli-Jordanian front are the Palestinian Commando units which are not controlled by the Jordanian government but which operate from Jordanian territory. Some of these Commando groups have indicated they will honor the cease-fire while others have stated they will not be bound by it.

Secretary Rogers' announcement was a first step in his Mideast peace initiative of June 29 which had been addressed to United Arab Republic, Jordan, and Israel.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

South Koreans Gripe

SEOUL (UPI) — South Korean political leaders rejected today U.S. Ambassador William J. Porter's contention that their country should spend more money for defense.

Rep. Kim Chang-kun, spokesman for the ruling Democratic Republican party, said South Korea already had the largest defense budget in Southeast Asia, except for South Vietnam, and could not afford to pay more.

"Mr. Porter's remarks could even create an impression of interfering in South Korea's internal affairs," Kim said.

Rep. Kim Young-sam, a ranking opposition politician, said Porter had misjudged South Korea's economic growth.

The dispute added to the friction created by the recent U.S. decision to withdraw 20,000 of its 62,000 men from South Korea.

France Ends A-Tests

PAPEETE, Tahiti (UPI) — France set off the last hydrogen bomb of its 1970 testing program Thursday on the 25th-anniversary of the atomic blast that destroyed Hiroshima. Military sources said it was a success.

The explosion in the atmosphere above Mururoa Lagoon, 800 miles southeast of Tahiti, was part of a program to reduce France's hydrogen device enough to fit into missiles.

Military sources said the 1970 nuclear tests in the Pacific were the most ambitious France has conducted. It was France's 39th nuclear explosion since the first was detonated in the Sahara Feb. 13, 1960.

Film Stars Wed

LONDON (UPI) — Actor Albert Finney today married French actress Anouk Aimee in a small civil ceremony.

It was the second marriage for Finney, 34, who became a star in the British film "Tom Jones." Miss Aimee, 38, was divorced from her third husband last year. She starred in "A Man and a Woman."

A spokesman at the Kensington Register Office said after the ceremony the couple did not use a wedding ring.

Cholera Hits Soviet

MOSCOW (UPI) — Soviet authorities today fought to contain an outbreak of cholera by quarantining the Volga River port of Astrachan and warning Russia's 240 million citizens to take special precautions to sterilize food.

Newspapers urged all citizens to boil water and milk, scrub vegetables and toast bread to prevent spread of the scourge.

The Health Ministry announced Thursday the disease appeared in Astrachan, a city of 361,000 on the delta where the Volga Flows into the Caspian Sea, and cases had been verified on the Black Sea riviera west of the Caspian.

Col. Sanders Resigns

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — Col. Harland Sanders, whose white goatee and black string tie became synonymous with the "finger-lickin good" Kentucky fried chicken he promoted, has stepped down as director of the corporation.

Sanders, 80, sold the franchising business he built from nothing for $2 million in 1964, but had remained on as a director of the corporation and goodwill ambassador for the firm.

The new owners, Kentucky Fried Chicken Corp., cited Sanders age and his outside business interests as the reason for his resignation.

Londonderry Clash

LONDONDERRY, Northern Ireland (UPI) — A group of 150 Roman Catholic youths stoned a British army patrol today in Northern Ireland's eighth consecutive day of violence.

The soldiers charged the crowd with batons and fired nausea gas but the youths refused to disperse, an army spokesman said.

At least two persons were arrested.

Rail Crash Kills 7

BELGRADE (UPI) — An eastbound express carrying more than 300 passengers collided head-on today with a westbound freight train near Ljubljana, northwest Yugoslavia, the news agency Tanjug said.

First reports said seven crewmen were killed and 25 express passengers injured, five seriously. All were rushed to hospitals in Ljubljana.

SALT Interests Russ

VIENNA (UPI) — The Soviet Union has shown "a positive interest" in an American plan for curbing the two nations' missile arsenals, diplomatic sources said today.

Russian and American diplomats met today at the U.S. Embassy for the 30th formal session of the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT). The session lasted 40 minutes with an hour of informal conversation afterwards.

The American plan - possibly the most important single event since SALT began here April 16 - was presented July 24 by the chief U.S. delegate, Gerard C. Smith.

Almost half the married women in this country between ages 45-54 are gainfully employed.

A LONG WALK TO COURT

Photographers and newsmen fight for position as Sen. Edward M. Kennedy accompanies Ethel Kennedy, with her head bowed, and her son Robert Kennedy Jr. into Barnstable District Court in Massachusetts. The boy and Robert Sargent Shriver III, son of former ambassador to France Sargent Shriver, went to court yesterday to answer a summons for being picked up in a drug raid last month. The two boys received a good "talking-to" and admonitions not to get into trouble for a year or drug charges against them could be brought up. No guilt or innocence findings were made in the private juvenile hearing. (UPI Telephoto)

Pediatricians Ponder Whether Measles Vaccine Is Misdirected

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Suspicion is growing among some child doctors and virologists that the current massive vaccination campaign to eliminate German measles may be misdirected.

The question being raised is to let children get measles and develop a natural life-time immunity instead of immunizing them in childhood and leaving them susceptible to the disease as adults.

It is among the adult population that rubella poses its greatest threat. It is a major carrier of infection to susceptible pregnant women whose offspring may suffer crippling birth defects or die. During a 1964-65 epidemic an estimated 20,000 to 30,000 children were born with such rubella-caused defects as mental retardation, heart disease, blindness and deafness.

The National Center for Disease Control in Atlanta stresses that the vaccine has been given safely to more than 13 million Americans, mostly children. And no one is seeking to halt the federally financed drive to immunize school-aged children.

But a Nobel-prize winning virus authority thinks it is time to raise some serious questions about who gets the vaccine, and a Seattle, Wash., pediatrician told UPI he was not prescribing the vaccine because he is uncertain of its effectiveness.

Writing in the current New England Journal of Medicine, Dr. John F. Enders of Harvard University expressed a concern that young girls vaccinated today may be more likely to get the disease when they grow up and start having children than if they had gotten it naturally in their childhood.

Findings indicate that vaccinations may establish only partial resistance that is not as long lasting nor as protective as a natural infection, Enders wrote.

He won the Nobel Prize in 1954 for work on polio virus.

"If childhood vaccinations were to diminish substantially the opportunity for such contact (with a natural infection), the proportion of susceptible adult women of child-bearing age might eventually become considerably larger than it is today," he stated.

Enders estimated some 600,000 rubella-suscepitble women become pregnant each year.

Sniper Fire, Firebombs In Lima, Ohio

LIMA, Ohio, (UPI) — Sniper fire and firebombing hit this northwest Ohio City of 55,000 again Thursday for the second night in a row. Nobody was reported injured.

A Molotov cocktail destroyed a linoleum and furniture store and 20 arrests for curfew violations were made.

Police said the gunfire, from rifles and small arms, was aimed at store windows.

National Guardsmen called into Lima after a Negro woman's killing touched off racial disorders Wednesday will stay for the weekend to patrol the Southside.

The 500 Guardsmen, all 80 city policemen and sheriff's deputies from 12 other counties kept all persons off the streets as an 8 p.m. to 6 a.m. curfew was extended indefinitely.

Col. J. E. P. McCann, administrative assistant to Ohio National Guard Adjutant General S. T. Del Corso, said the troops would stay to ensure against a flareup of trouble.

"We expect to be here at least until Sunday night," McCann said.

Police said the sniper fire, which they first encountered Wednesday night after dispersing a gun-carrying mob that started downtown, came mostly from darkened windows or rooftops.

The violence followed the killing of Mrs. Christine Ricks, 40, who tried to stop two white patrolmen from arresting a black youth blocking a street with his bicycle.

Police said the woman grabbed Patrolman Glen Pierce's revolver and began firing at him. She was shot dead by his partner, Ted Boop.

Allen County Coroner Dr. William Noble said an inquest on the death of Mrs. Ricks would not be held.

"I believe the circumstances of the shooting are clear," Noble said in rejecting the request by black leaders.

Historic Bonn, Soviet Agreement

MOSCOW (UPI)—Foreign Ministers Andrei A. Gromyko of the Soviet Union and Walter Scheel of West Germany initialed today a nonaggression treaty praised as a foundation for relaxing tensions and building a lasting peace in Europe.

It was the climax to the most significant diplomacy between the old World War II foes in 15 years. Diplomatic sources said the Soviets agreed to accept a West German disclaimer that the document constituted a surrender of the right to eventual German reunification.

Scheel and Gromyko initialed the four-page document beneath the crystal chandeliers of a marble hall in Spiridonov Palace, a room built by Czars and used by World War II Allies in planning strategy against Adolf Hitler.

"The goal we set before ourselves has a great political importance," Scheel said. "The treaty will help relax tensions and provide the prerequisites for building a lasting peace in Europe."

Gromyko praised the treaty and said bargaining over a 10-day period had been tough. He said the Soviets were as glad as the Germans it was over.

In a statement released as he prepared to board a plane for Bonn at Moscow Airport, Scheel added "with this treaty a new page will be turned in relations between the Soviet Union and the Federal Republic of (West) Germany."

He said he was convinced the two states were now moving toward changing "mistrust into trust, confrontation into cooperation."

It was the first major fruit of West German Chancellor Willy Brandt's policy of reconciliation with the Soviet bloc and the most important Bonn-Moscow diplomacy since a series of letters between former Soviet Premier Nikolai A. Bulganin and former Chancellor Konrad Adenauer in 1955 led to establishment of diplomatic relations.

"This treaty will form the basis for the future development of relations between the two countries," said Bonn spokesman Ruediger von Wechmar.

The treaty will not take effect until the West German parliament and the Soviet Supreme Soviet ratify it. That could bring a serious partisan battle in the West German Bundestag.

The Bonn government's political opposition already has branded the treaty a surrender of the right to eventual German reunification.

Von Wechmar announced the agreement late Thursday. He did not disclose the text of the treaty but said it would make "peace in Europe more secure."

Before meeting with Gromyko, Scheel met Thursday afternoon with diplomats of the United States, Britain and France and briefed them on the negotiations.

Von Wechmar said Brandt would return to Bonn from his Norwegian vacation to attend a special cabinet meeting on the treaty Saturday and if approved, the treaty would be signed this month.

Diplomats said the ramifications of the document go far beyond healing wounds between the Soviets and West Germans dating back to World War II.

Oakes Receiving Physical Therapy

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Richard Oakes, militant Indian leader who suffered a head injury in a June 11 tavern fight, is receiving speech and physical therapy.

A medical spokesman said Thursday that Oakes, 28, had been moved from San Francisco General Hospital to the University of California's Moffitt Hospital.

He has only partial use of his left arm and leg and his speech is slurred, the spokesman said.

Tommy Pritchard, 26, a Samoan, has been charged with assault with intent to commit murder.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Semorile, 11 Constance Drive.

Spain Pact Widens Rift In Capital

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The rift between the State Department and the Senate Foreign Relations Committee has been deepened by the newly signed military and economic agreement between the United States and Spain.

The executive agreement, finalized Thursday despite strenuous objections from Foreign Relations Chairman J. William Fulbright, grants Spain economic and military assistance worth about $200 million over five years. It includes a loan to Spain of 16 U.S. warships and gives America continued use of four military installations in Spain.

The Foreign Relations Committee, piqued by the State Department's refusal to agree to public discussions of the agreement before it was signed, voted to go ahead and hold public hearings anyway in the coming weeks.

Fulbright had no immediate comment on he signing but an aide said the senator continued to stand by his lengthy statement of Wednesday.

In that statement Fulbright contended the agreenent actually was a disguised commitment for the defense of Spain: that it had been worked out without due respect for the right of the legislative branch to examine the alleged commitment; and that the State Department had been deceitful in informing him when the agreement would be finalized.

Paper currency notes issued during the French Revolution were called assignats.

Board Backs Reduction Of Diesel Crews

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A presidential emergency board has recommended that the jobs of firemen and brakemen be merged on diesel freight locomotives, eliminating one man from freight crews.

If the railroads and the United Transportation Union (UTU) both agaree to the board's finding, it would bring to an end 11 years of discord and intermittent strikes over the emotional issue.

The railroad industry immediately said it was "grateful" for the commission's findings and was ready to return to the bargaining table. But Charles Luna, president of the UTU, refused to comment on the report.

OLDEST DISPUTE

The board said the two sides were "on the very threshold of settlement" of the nation's oldest labor dispute. It said they had agreed to most of the issues in principle.

J.P. Hiltz, chairman of the National Railway Labor Conference which represents rail management, said he was "very grateful to see that the Commission found, like all other neutral bodies that have examined the problem, that firemen are not needed on other than steam engines."

Diesels took over most freight anad passenger service on the nation's raialrords in the early 1950s. Only a handful of steam locomotives remain today, most of them on tourist lines or for excursions and historical displays.

CREW OF FOUR

If the board's recommendaations are carried out, the average freight train crew will be reduced from five to four — an engineer and a fireman brakeman in the engine, and a conductor and a flagman riding the caboose. Passenger trains would not be affected because firemen are needed to tend the boilers which provide steam for heat and air conditioning.

The jobs of the 20,000 remaining firemen would be eliminated through attrition — retirement, dismissal or promotion. Another 18,000 firemen jobs already have been eliminated under a 1963 arbitration award that permitted the railroads to begin eliminating 90 per cent of the jobs.

EARLY NEGOTIATIONS

The board proposed that the two sides begin negotiations again, but that binding arbitration be imposed if they cannot reach a settlement by Aug. 21. President Nixon endorsed this section of the report.

The unions are prohibited from striking and the railroads from staging a lockout before Sept. 6, when a 60-day cooling-off period expires. The cooling-off period was imposed by Nixon when the UTU struck three railroads July 7, and the carriers responded with the threat of a nationwide lockout.

The board concluded there is no need for firemen on diesel freight locomotives along with an engineer and a brakeman. It recommended that the savings from the elimination of the firemen be used to increase salaries for the remaining railroad men.

Retail Sales Rise

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Commerce Department says the nation's retail sales for the week ended Aug. 1 were estimated at $7 billion —a 1 per cent increase over the previous week.

Black Panther Testifies He Had Orders To Kill Hampton

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (UPI)— Black Panther George Sams Jr., who has pleaded guilty to murder charges in the death of one party member, said Thursday he had been ordered to shoot Chicago Panther Fred Hampton.

Sams, a key prosecution witness in the murder conspiracy and kidnaping trial of Lonnie McLucas, was to be cross-examined today in Superior Court.

McLucas is accused in connection with the May 21, 1969 death of Alex Rackley, an alleged police informer whose tortured body was found in a Middlefield swamp. Sams and another Panther, Warren Kimbro, have both pleaded guilty to second-degree murder in the slaying.

Sams said he was present when Rackley was tortured with boiling water, taken for a ride and shot twice with a .45-caliber pistol.

He testified that Landon Williams, another Panther, told him to shoot Rackley and to "watch Warren Kimbro and Lonnie McLucas for any cowardly tendencies." He said he was to "pop Lonnie and Warren with the ammunition left over from Rackley."

He told the court he had met party chairman Bobby G. Seale, another of the eight accused in the death, before Rackley's torture. Sams said Seale told him, "do away with him. Off the pig."

After Rackley's death, Sams said he went to Chicago on Williams' orders. "Landon called national headquarters and said Brother Fred Hampton was going crazy in dealing with pigs . . . then he informed me later on Fred Hampton was going to be popped off and I was to carry out Xthe order myself."

Sams testified the party wanted Hampton killed because he was working with police in a community project and that showed "counter-revolutionary tendencies."

Tam Valley Youth, 18, Denies Pot Charge

Daniel Martin Klopf, 18, of Tamalpais Valley, has entered an innocent plea to a marijuana possession charge arising from his arrest by Mill Valley police at Cascade Reservoir July 22.

Klopf is to appear in Marin Municipal Court Aug. 13 for preliminary hearing.

Renoir Stolen; Value Placed Up To $100,000

PHOENIX (UPI)—A Renoir painting, valued at $50,000 to $100,000, was stolen by burglars Thursday night from the Grunewald and Adams Jewelry Store.

"We won't know the actual value of the painting until the insurance company examines its records," said detective Bill Nolan.

The painting was that of a young woman and was one of several hanging just inside the front door, Nolan said. The other paintings were not touched.

Nolan said the burglars dismantled a lock on the door, sounding an alarm. Within four minutes police arrived, but the burglars had already fled. "It looked like someone knew what in the heck he was doing," said Nolan.

The painting was owned by Arthur Grunewald, one of the store owners.

Judge Haley, Three Others Are Slain

ifornia Highway Patrol officer burst in and locked the door.

"What's up?" she said.

The officer replied a man had a machine gun downstairs. The matron fell to the floor.

The exit route of the killers and their hostages from the building is unclear, but reporters in the press room said one of the men banged on the office door.

Meanwhile, Layne and one of the San Quentin guards went for weapons.

Sheriff's Lt. Tom Lightfoot, alerted of the escape try, went to the north archway and saw the gunmen herding hostages out of the building lobby.

One of the gunmen, armed with the M-1 semiautomatic, forced several deputies and bailiffs posted around the archway to drop their weapons. The gunmen fired three shots and hurried the hostages around a corner of the building.

Lightfoot radioed for help and ran after the convicts. He said he heard "lots of shooting." He ran to the panel truck, into which the gunmen had herded the hostages.

Two of the convicts were dead. Haley was in the rear of the truck, part of his face blown away.

It was reported that both Haley and several of the armed men talked with Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos before leaving the courtroom. Haley reportedly warned the sheriff that "lives are at stake." The sheriff was said to have been told by one of the prisoners to call off his "pigs" or the hostages would be killed.

Haley was said to have been cautioned against allowing removal of the chains of the three inmates in the courtroom. He decided to keep Christmas's and Magee's chains on, but had McClain's removed, holding that chains might prejudice the jury.

Reports also circulated that the accomplice, Burrows, was a brother of one of the Soledad inmates accused of killing a guard.

Man Bound Over To Higher Court

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A San Francisco man charged with assaulting a waitress from Mill Valley with a tire iron has been bound over to San Francisco Superior Court for trial.

The assault charge against Lloyd J. Hartman, 36, arose from an incident July 20 outside Roland's Cocktail Lounge in the Marina District during which he allegedly attacked Patty Noland, 12, of 31 Millay Place, police said.

Hartman had been ejected from the bar, but apparently waited outside until Miss Noland left shortly after 2 a.m., police reported. She was rescued by several customers.

Hartman was held in city prison in lieu of $1,250 bail.

Last Clinics Set For Rabies Shots

The final two in a series of rabies vaccination clinics sponsored by the Marin County Department of Public Health and the county Veterinary Medical Association have been announced by Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, county health officer.

One clinic will be on Tuesday in Novato at Marion School, 1705 Marion Avenue, and the other on Thursday in San Rafael at the city school administration building, Third and E streets.

Hours of both clinics will be 6 to 8 p.m.

State law requires all dogs four months and older to be vaccinated for rabies.

Canvass Of Residents At Enchanted Knolls

Plans to canvass the Enchanted Knolls area of Mill Valley in an effort to learn neighborhood concerns and locate new members have been formulated by directors of the Enchanted Knolls Homeowners Association.

President Robert B. Rankin said the directors met Wednesday and were assigned areas to cover in the door-to-door canvass. They will begin work within one week and proceed at their own pace, he said.

Woman Is Treated For Accident Injuries

Diann Lynn Rigby, 20, of 65 Hermit Lane, Kentfield, was treated today at Marin General Hospital for cuts on her nose and chest suffered in a single-car accident in Corte Madera.

Police said Miss Rigby was driving her car north on Corte Madera Avenue at 12:19 a.m. when she struck a speed limit sign near Chapman Drive. Officers said the driver told them she had fallen asleep.

Planes Used To Bypass Strike At Convention

FRANKLIN, Pa. (UPI) — A leading mining machinery firm here didn't let a trucker strike in Cleveland prevent it from exhibiting its equipment to the American Mining Congress' convention. It airlifted the trade show here instead.

After setting up its equipment display in a plant storage area, Joy Manufacturing Co. chartered a DC-3 to go with its own small executive aircraft and instituted an 80-mile shuttle service. Plant secretaries, dressed up in miners hats for identification, served as hostesses to guide arriving groups from the local airport to the plant by car and bus.

Four False Fire Alarms Reported

Four false fire alarms were turned in last night from boxes in the area of Terra Linda High School, the first one at 10:20 p.m. at the school.

The three subsequent alarms were from Nova Albion Way at 10:31, 825 Las Gallinas Avenue at 11:10 and Freitas Parkway and Las Gallinas Avenue at 11:23.

Stamp Honoring Ike Presented To Mamie

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower was given one of the new six-cent stamps honoring her late husband in White House ceremonies Thursday.

The picture on the stamp was taken of Eisenhower in 1953 moments before he went on television to announce the end of military hostilities in Korea. Mrs. Eisenhower selected the picture for the stamp.

Picture Sends Linda Into Emotional Shout

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Linda Kasabian gasped "Oh, God" and shouted that she couldn't believe her friends could do such an "animalistic thing" when shown a picture today of one of the victims in the Tate murder case.

Defense attorney Irving Kankarek thrust before her a color photograph of the mutilated body of Voytyck Frykowski, a guest of the actress Sharon Tate who was stabbed dozens of times and shot in the killings last Aug. 8.

Mrs. Kasabian began crying steadily and Kanarek said to her:

"Why are you crying now?"

"I just can't believe it."

"You can't believe what?"

"I can't believe they could do such a thing."

"Are you sure you don't mean that you couldn't do such a thing?"

"I know I didn't do it. I didn't have in me to do such an animalistic thing."

Kanarek suggested again that she also ran into the house with two young women codefendants of Charles Manson in the case and Charles "Tex" Watson and that she might be unable to remember because she was in a state of shock at the time.

Her voice rising to a shout, Mrs. Kasabian replied, "I just know I didn't do it, Mr. Kanarek."

Kanarek had begun the day's questioning by showing Mrs. Kasabian a color picture of another victim, coffee heiress Abigail Folger, sprawled on the grounds of the Tate estate.

Mrs. Kasabian had become almost hysterical Thursday afternoon when defense attorney Irving Kanarek produced a photograph of the bloody, almost nude body of Miss Tate inside the residence.

When the trial session resumed again today, Kanarek approached the 21-year-old blonde with a sheaf of pictures and thrust one toward her. Mrs. Kasabian took one look and then averted her head.

Kanarek attempted to have the witness take the picture in her hand but Judge Charles H. Older instructed him that would not be necessary and told him to go ahead with the cross examination.

finally got to that car over there and ran for it," he added.

Higgins explained that he then flagged down a California Highway Patrol car, and acquired another weapon. A few minutes later, he said, he heard a burst of gunfire.

"I didn't fire at the man, because he was directly in line with the other (Judge Haley and the two jurors)." He added later when asked why he didn't gun down the prisoners' accomplice.

"You can't come much closer to getting it than I did," he concluded.

Topless Rules Will Take Effect Monday

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—New Alcoholic Beverage Control Board rules on the nudity and deportment of waitresses and entertainers in taverns will go into effect Monday as planned, the State Supreme Court ruled Thursday.

Supreme Court justices refused a postponement asked by owners and entertainers in 20 Southern California bars who seek to test the constitutionality of the rules.

U.S. Planes Aid Fighting In Cambodia

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (UPI)—U. S. jet fighter-bombers came to the support today of Cambodia forces meeting heavy Communist resistance in a weeklong campaign to recapture the town of Skoun, field reports said.

Meanwhile, military sources said today, the U.S. Command is providing close air support for Cambodian troops but calling it interdiction to conform with President Nixon's directives.

The United States insists the intent of the missions is to protect U.S. and allied troops in South Vietnam by destroying Communist capabilities, and any benefit to the Cambodians is merely coincidental.

The fight for Skoun raged on as Cambodian units reported hurling back North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops attacking government positions at points four and eight miles from Phnom Penh—closest thrust to date by Communist infantry.

Military officials said Cambodian troops have been trying to encircle Skoun, 35 miles northeast of Phnom Penh, but failed to break through because of a powerful Communist defensive ring.

Cambodian troops ran into heavy resistance today on the southern end of Skoun, officers said, and requested American air support, which was provided.

Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird, in a statement in Washington Friday, said American planes had bombed in the Skoun area in a move aimed at preventing Communist forces from reopening Cambodian sea supply routes, thus protecting American forces in South Vietnam. He said U. S. planes were not giving close air support to Cambodian units.

Vigorous Senate Dove Wins Party Primary

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI)—Sen. Albert Gore, a vigorous opponent of the Nixon Administration's Vietnam policy, won renomination for a fourth term Thursday in the Democratic Senatorial primary.

His victory set up a confrontation in November with a strong backer of the President, Rep. William Brock, who ran away in the three-man Republican primary.

Gore, 62, defeated Hudley Crockett, a former administrative aide to Gov. Buford Ellington, and two political unknowns—Herman Frey and Stafford Andress.

Brock, 39, a millionaire candymaker, who gave up an almost certain fifth term in Congress to seek Gore's seat, easily turned back former cowboy movie star Tex Ritter and J.D. Boles.

In the governor's contest, attorney John J. Hooker of Nashville won the Democratic nomination in a six-man race, and Dr. Winfield Dunn, a Memphis dentist, narrowly beat Nashville industrialist Maxey Jarman in the GOP battle.

Ellington, the incumbent governor, is prohibited by law from succeeding himself.

With 2308 of the state's 2495 precincts reporting, Gore had 245,646 votes to 216,359 for Crockett. Brock led Ritter 161,009 to 48,635 with Boles a distant third at 4515.

Hooker had 238,545 votes to 178,616 for Snodgrass, his nearest opponent, and Dunn held a 75,367 to 65,193 edge over Jarman.

Gore, whose liberal viewpoint on many issues has made him a controversial figure in Tennessee—and the south—is a critic of U.S. policy in Vietnam.

He also raised the ire of many of his constitutents by voting against President Nixnn's two southern appointees to the U.S. Supreme Court—Clement Haynesworth and G. Harrold Carswell.

During the primary campaign, Gore did not explain his stand on such issues, saying only—"sometimes things appear unpopular at first, but later prove to be the right thing."

Brock, an executive of the Brock Candy Co., concentrated his attacks on Gore's controversial stands and largely ignored Ritter and Boles, his immediate opponents.

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew has announced plans to speak in Memphis next month and there is speculation that President Nixnn also might visit the state to boost Brock's candidacy.

Assault Case Booking Made

A 24-year-old San Anselmo man was booked into Marin County Jail yesterday for investigation of forcible rape after he was arrested at his home by San Anselmo police on a warrant issued by the Sausalito Police Department.

Police said Michael Joseph Kemp, of 9 Southview Terrace, was arrested in connection with the alleged rape of a 22-year-old Hayward woman in a car in the parking lot of Rico's restaurant in Sausalito on July 7.

Kemp was released on $1,000 bail and to appear Tuesday in Marin Municipal Court.

75 Haystack Fires

EPHRATA, Wash. (UPI) — More than 75 arson-caused haystack fires were reported over a 70 mile stretch of Grant County early today, and preliminary estimates place loss between $250,000 and $500,000.

Bolinas Lagoon Quarantine

All Use Of Waters To Be Banned

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

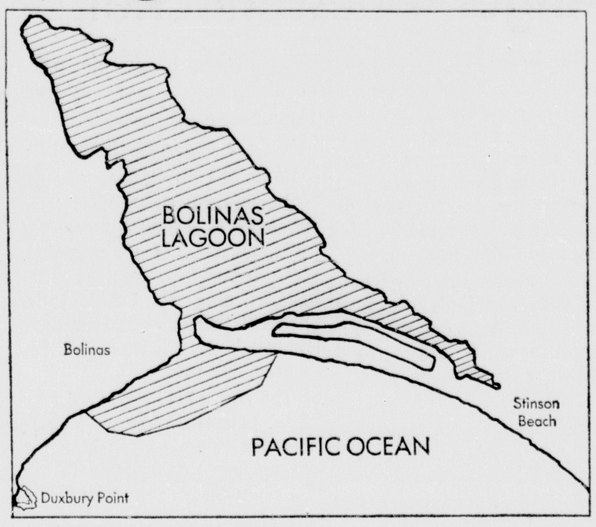
A quarantine on all public use of polluted Bolinas Lagoon and adjacent beaches along Bolinas Bay will be ordered for up to two years next week by county and state health officials, the Independent-Journal learned today.

Shellfish long have been quarantined in the area, but the new order will ban all use of the waters, including wading, swimming, surfing, rafting, surf-fishing, and diving. The quarantined area will not include Stinson Beach State Park.

Total quarantines on use are rare in California. The last comparable one was in 1959, when Monterey Bay beaches in the Watsonville Area were posted because of sewage pollution. That ban was in effect only for a few weeks, however, and was lifted when operation of sewage treatment plants was upgraded.

The pollution in Bolinas comes from the community sewage system, which dumps raw sewage into the mouth of the lagoon.

The Bolinas Community Public Utility District is about to build a treatment plant, but it is not scheduled to be completed until April 1, 1972. It is supposed to be in emergency operation by Feb. 28 of that year.



OFF LIMITS — Health officials, citing sewage pollution and evidence of hepatitis, are about to ban all water-contact sports in the marked area in this map of Bolinas Lagoon and Bay. The ban, being readied by the state attorney general's office, will be for up to two years, pending construction of a sewage treatment plant. (Independent-Journal sketch by Jack Lucy)

The district, according to deadlines set by the San Fran-day, and globs of fecal material usually can be found floating in the area.

Either county or state health officials can order a quarantine, but, as in the case of Bolinas, usually prefer to issue a joint order. The quarantine is sched-

cisco Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board, must demonstrate compliance with all water quality requirements by July 1, 1972.

Anyone violating the quarantine will be subject to arrest by law enforcement officers.

A spokesman for the State Department of Public Health conceded that enforcement will be difficult. He said the main point of the quarantine will be to publicize the dangerous condition of the area, and to warn citizens against using the waters.

The quarantine was asked on June 25 by the regional water quality control board. The Bolinas district discharges about 37,000 gallons of waste a uled to be announced officially on Wednesday morning.

Several cases of hepatitis have been traced to use of the lagoon and adjacent beaches.

The decision to order the quarantine came promptly in the wake of sampling of the area by the state department's Bureau of Sanitary Engineering.

The bureau, in a report completed this week, concluded that "water-contact sports take place in the areas found to be adversely affected by the Bolinas raw sewage discharge."

The result, it declared, was "a serious health hazard to people using the affected areas."

The area found unsafe for water-contact sports included bay beaches from one-half mile to about eight-tenths of a mile to the west of the mouth.

Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, Marin County health officer, told the I-J today that four cases of hepatitis had been reported in Marin in the last few days. The only thing the four patients had in common, she said, was that they had been swimming in the polluted water around Bolinas.

Two of the patients live in Bolinas, one in Point Reyes Station and one in Mill Valley.

Swimming is popular from beaches on both sides of the mouth of the lagoon.

The Bureau of Sanitary Engineering data showed the count of bacteria up to more than 24 times the maximum allowed by the state in water used for water-contact sports.

Monterey's Policemen On Strike

MONTEREY (UPI)—This resort city's 60-man police department went on strike Thursday night in a wage dispute.

Despite the lack of patrolmen, Monterey remained tranquil, at least through early today, remaining officers said.

The situation was similar to Antioch where a strike started and ended without a serious outbreak of crime.

At 11 p.m. when the walkout started, three men were left to patrol this city of 25,000—Chief Harold Benadom, deputy chief Edward Sutton and Capt. Charles Houseman.

Monterey County sheriff's deputies would be available if needed, Sutton said.

The Police Relief Association wants a 15 per cent pay boost, said association president Sgt. Don Lansing, while the city has offered 6 per cent.

Starting pay for Monterey policemen is $685 monthly while the top wage for a patrolman is $832.

During the course of negotiations, policemen shaved off the beards they had grown for this resort city's bicentennial celebration and doffed special brown uniforms in favor of the regular blues.

After a week, they returned to the brown uniforms and attempted to fake the beards. None of that helped.

Police in San Jose also are threatening to walk out in wage disagreements.

ABIDE BY COURT EDICT

Petaluma Police Cancel Strike Plans

By BONNIE BARD

A strike by Petaluma police was averted late last night when the officers agreed to abide by temporary restraining orders issued in Sonoma County Superior Court.

The orders were served individually on each officer minutes after a meeting with the city council ended on a tense note and no show of compromise in the wage dispute.

The city council held firmly to the offer of an 8.75 per cent increase made by City Mgr. Robert H. Meyer while the officers agreed to drop their request for an immediate 15 per cent raise and would accept 10 per cent retroactive to Aug. 1 and another 5 per cent on Jan. 1 to average 12.5 per cent over the year.

With neither side wavering, Mayor Helen Putnam adjourned the staff gathering and Asst. City Mgr. John Nolan began serving the restraining orders at the police station.

James F. Kemp, attorney for the Petaluma Police Officers Association, said the group voted late last night to abide by the restraining orders which prohibit the officers from leaving their jobs in the next 15 days.

A hearing before Superior Court Judge Kenneth M. Eymann has been se for Aug. 17. Kemp said it was too early to decide if the officers would be represented at the hearing to fight a permanent injunction.

At the close of the council session, Meyer stated directly at Dolph Camilli, association president, and warned that if the court orders were ignored, the law officers would be breaking the law they have been sworn to uphold.

"Police who are professional people, like you keep talking about, will find another way of doing this," he admonished in the hushed council chambers.

It was felt for a time that the officers may begin sick calls at 8 p.m. today and not officially call the action a strike.

In opening statements at the meeting attended largely by off-duty police officers and their wives, Kemp told the council that a 15 per cent pay increase would be necessary to keep the department competitive with salaries paid in San Rafael, Novato and Santa Rosa.

He noted that 10 officers have resigned since October, 1968, and that the department could turn into a training station for better paying departments in nearby cities.

Meyer told the council that no higher increase than 8.75 per cent could be justified in relation to the city finances.

Backing up the city manager completely, the council voted unanimously for the final offer Meyer had made.

During a 40-minute recess, Kemp and the officers agreed to stick by their demand for a 10 per cent increase on Aug. 1 and 5 per cent on Jan. 1.

Kemp said the officers might be willing to accept the council offer and agree to mediation if the ultimate increase was made retroactive to Aug. 1. City Atty. Edouardo Robert said the city charter prohibited retroactive pay increases.

Five members of the audience rose to support the police wage request while only one person supported the council stand.

Mayor Putnam said that since the majority of residents favored higher pay for police and seemed willing to pay increased taxes for it, that a tax rate increase election should be considered for later this year.

The council said it was in favor of the concept of higher pay for police, but could only offer what the city budget could afford.

Kemp and Meyer differed in their views of the city financial picture and on the use of more than $300,000 in unappropriated reserves.

Meyer said that projects other than salary increases must also be financed out of the reserves and that care must be taken not to overspend because there is no guarantee that surpluses will continue to accumulate.

Meyer urged Kemp to consult further with an accountant so that he could better understand the city's finances.

20 Fire Officials Plan Marin Tour

A touring group of 20 to 30 state fire officials will make inspection stops in Marin Tuesday at Hick's Valley substation, Point Reyes National Seashore, the Bolinas area and then the Russian River.

Scheduled to be in the touring contingent are Lewis Moran, acting state forester, Charles Fairbank, deputy state forester of region one, headquartered in Santa Rosa and a representative of the state director of conservation, said Marin County Fire Chief Louis J. Bloom.

At the Hick's Valley stop at 9:15, Bloom will give an hour talk to the group, explaining the operation and problems of his department.

Suspect Nabbed On Auto Theft

A 24-year-old Novato woman was arrested yesterday in Santa Venetia by San Rafael police on suspicion of vehicle theft, grand theft and receiving stolen property.

Police said they received a report of a 1966 Thunderbird like one taken July 29 from Front Line Used Car Lot, 535 Francisco Boulevard, parked on North San Pedro Road.

After a brief stakeout, Paul Waldemar Brust of 740 Olive Avenue was arrested entering the car at 9 p.m., police said.

He was held in Marin County Jail in lieu of $2,500 bail to appear in Marin Municipal Court today.

Cyclist Is Treated For Accident Cuts

Robert L. Maeder Jr., 15, of 208 Jeffrey Drive, Petaluma, was treated at Petaluma General Hospital for cuts of the right arm suffered when his motorcycle struck a trailer at 2 p.m. yesterday.

Police said Maeder's motorcycle struck the rear of a trailer being towed by George D. Gortney, 48, of 312 Ely Boulevard South, Petaluma, as he attempted to pull into his driveway.

Sausalito School Board Session Off

The regular meeting of the Sausalito School District board, scheduled for Monday, has been canceled because of staff and board vacations, according to interim Supt. Robert E. Spain.

The board will next meet Aug. 24 at 7:30 p.m. in Bayside School, Spain said.

Fairfax Moves To Hire Administrator

Fairfax City Council in a surprise move last night voted 3-2 to hire a full-time city administrator, a longtime controversial issue.

City employees and residents in the audience were stunned by the unexpected turn of events which brought an abrupt end to a budget session on pay raises.

The full-time administrator issue has split the town for years, before, during and after the term of the city's first and last city administrator, David J. Sumbardo, who resigned in June, 1968.

The long-simmering controversy erupted without warning leaving the question of pay raises for full-time employees unresolved and the audience shocked.

It capped an unusual evening which started on a low note with the resignation of a parks and recreation commissioner and reached a high note with the singing of "Happy Birthday" to a resident. (See Fairfax budget story page 13.)

The crucial vote came when the council, after plodding through part-time salaries, arrived at its first major decision, a pay raise for City Clerk-Administrator Frances R. Lestanguet.

Suddenly, it was transformed into a debate over whether there should be a full-time administrator. When all the parliamentary maneuvers were over Mayor Frank J. Egger, Lee Nelder and Robert R. Souza voted for hiring a full-time administrator, while Councilmen Francis J. O'Connell and Cornelis Van Vliet dissented.

Then, by the same voting lineup, the council voted to wait at least two weeks before starting actual hiring.

Councilman O'Connell, obviously angry and on his feet ready to leave, moved for adjournment and it was passed 3-2 with Nelder and Souza dissenting.

Mrs. Lestanguet, who has held the dual post since February, 1969, sat quietly and said nothing after the decision.

She had come to the meeting with the budget she had prepared and was ready to defend her recommendations, but obviously didn't expect to have to defend her job.

After councilmen left the chambers, Mrs. Lestanguet sat at her place at the end of the council table for a minute or so, staring but silent. Then she gathered up her budget papers and walked out alone.

Full-time city employees gathered in small groups and walked outside, somewhat confused; their pay raises still unresolved and the date of the next budget session left unset.

The city administrator volcano erupted after there was a motion to grant Mrs. Lestanguet a five per cent pay hike to $12,600 a year.

Then Roberta Laidley of 34 Meadow Way reminded Egger, an advocate of a full-time administrator, that hiring such an administrator had been a campaign issue.

"We're up to $12,600 which I think is very high and people are divided on this issue and a lot thought we should have a city administrator," Mrs. Laidley said. "Are you ever going to decide it?" she asked. "At $12,600, I don't know what kind of money we're saving."

Egger then made a substitute motion that the city hire a full-time administrator.

O'Connell said having a full-time administrator would be more costly, contending other city administrators in Marin are paid at least $500 a month more than Mrs. Lestanguet. "To talk of a full-time administrator is a lot of bunk," he declared.

Souza moved for a closed session to discuss the issue but was told by an Independent-Journal reporter it wouldn't be legal unless there were charges to be heard.

Van Vliet said the motion was "in poor taste" and "any arguments against this lady" (Mrs. Lestanguet) shouldn't be discussed at an open meeting.

Egger said he didn't have any charges to make, but believed a full-time administrator would be better for the city. "The duties of both jobs (city clerk and administrator) is too much for one person," he asserted.

A man, who identified himself as a new resident, said he was appalled by the lack of efficiency "in the actions of the city council and city government in general" and felt a full-time administrator was needed.

Councilman Lee Nelder said if charges were to be aired against Mrs. Lestanguet they should be at a closed session, not in public and she "had a rightt o her day in court."

Egger said there was a misunderstanding and repeated that there were no charges involved.

Mrs. Lestanguet's only comment during the discussion was to say that some city managers in Marin also have the job of city clerk.

Nelder questioned how the city could hire an administrator "without firing the present administrator," and Egger said the ordinance establishing the post of administrator is still effective, even though no one holds the post.

"We're not ready to hire a city administrator," O'Connell contended. "Where do you get the money from?"

Composer Slated At Sunday Event

The first in a series of musical concerts under the direction of Rita Abrams will be given Sunday at 8:30 p.m. at the Marin Jewish Community Center.

Miss Abrams, composer of the popular song "Mill Valley," will play electric piano and other instruments and Lynn Elder will perform on various Renaissance instruments in a varied program.

The next two concerts will be Aug. 16 at 8:30 p.m. featuring cellist Andor Toth Jr. and Aug. 23, also at 8:30 p.m., with the appearance of opera singer Dan Parkerson.

San Rafael Man Arrested As Assault Suspect

A San Rafael man, who said four youths were harassing an 80-year-old friend of his on the courthouse lawn in San Rafael, was arrested yesterday on suspicion of assaulting one of the youths with a deadly weapon.

San Rafael police said Robert Walter Wilcox, 34, of 31 Valencia Avenue, apartment 1, grabbed Kenneth Lindley, 14, of 412 Hickory Lane by the neck and threatened him with a knife.

Wilcox said he only intended to scare the boy away. Instead, the boy chased him, according to witnesses.

After squirming loose, Lindley reportedly threw a garbage can at Wilcox and pursued him brandishing a wine bottle, police said.

Wilcox was booked in Marin County Jail in lieu of $500 bail to appear in Marin Municipal Court today.

Sausalito Reports Two Auto Thefts

Two autos were stolen in Sausalito in the last week, Sausalito police said today.

A 1964 yellow Volvo, Calif. license no. CYM0222 was taken Friday night, according to Mary Kay Plumb of San Francisco, while it was parked in front of 16 Central Avenue.

And police said Robert L. Hall of 178 Glen Drive, reported his white 1968 Porsche, Nevada licens no. W50662, was stolen from the driveway of his home Monday night.

Mill Valley Mayor Is Selected To Iron Out Impasse Over Salaries

Amid reports of a negotiation impasse, Mill valley Mayor George E. Wickham was appointed as a committee of one last night to work with City Mgr. William H. Cunningham on wage increases asked by city employees.

The two men will attempt to resolve an issue that has been plaguing the city council since it began deliberations on a $2 002,703 budget six weeks ago.

In appointing the committee, the council rejected a request by the Mill Valley Employees Association that the salary dispute be referred to arbitration.

Association secretary Molly MacGowan read a statement prepared by president Henry E. Anderson, which said, "We must reluctantly conclude that an agreement will never be reached with the city manager, who either does not understand the instructions of the council or has created his own salary schedule detrimental to a large segment of the employees."

The letter said that "an impasse has been reached and the city employees respectfully request that the matter be referred to arbitration so that the city employees can deal with a disinterested party with whom they can communicate."

The basis of the dispute is a list of median salaries, or the average of salaries paid to workers with similar jobs in 17 California cities. Cunningham wants new salaries to be computed from 10 benchmark positions und then adjusted according to different jobs, but the association wants medians established for each job.

The council last night reaffirmed its policy of basing salations and then adjusted accordry increases on benchmark positions, and instructed Cunningham and Wickham to obtain from the employees their computation of median salaries for these positions.

The two men also will prepare a chart showing what each method of computing the salaries would cost the city. The council last month set aside $60,000 for salary increases.

The council earlier heard pleas from Police Chief Dan Terzich and Fire Chief Joseph E. Regalia for more personnel. It agreed to include $12,000 in the budget for a full-time juvenile officer and an additional patrolman to compensate for an officer's shift to that post, but took a wait-and-see attitude on Regalia's request for another fireman.

Some $20,000 was approved last month as ha[illegible]ayment for a new fire truck to replace a 1937 vehicle, and the council told Regalia that he could have either the truck or the new man.

But, after the chief said that the city might be able to buy a fire truck chassis for $12,000, the council agreed to explore the possibility and allocate any funds left over from the $20,000 to hire another fireman.

Councilmen examined the revenues the city can expect in 1970-71, but were unable to discover any additional sources of income. Cunningham was instructed to investigate several possible sources, including increased bicycle and animal registration fees, higher parking fines and fees for encroachment permits.

Abolish ICC, Senate Demo Leader Urges

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield advocated Friday abolishing of the Interstate Commerce Commission and trasferring its functions to the Transportation Department.

In a Senate speech, Mansfield charged that the ICC was ignoring the consumer, allowing the railroads to neglect passengers, and putting farmers out of business with blanket freight rate increases.

Novato Planners' Monday Agenda

The Novato Planning Commission will consider Sono-Marin Builders master plan for 52 townhouse units on about 16 acres south of Pleasant Valley Unit No. 4 at 8 p.m. Monday at the community hall.

Joseph Russo's application for a use permit for a variety store at 1062 Machin Avenue, an amendment to the San Marin master plan to change part of the property from service station use to administrative-professional or multi-family residential uses and a variance request from Richard D. Fountain of 39 Lambert Way for construction of a carport will also be considered.

Also on the agenda are hearings on rezoning of several recently annexed properties, one on the south side of South Novato Boulevard at the southerly end of Cambridge Street, and twon on Wilson Avenue.

House Advances Drug Proposal

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Nixon administration has won House committee approval to give controversial "no knock" authority to police in illegal drug cases.

The proposal is part of a comprehensive drug abuse bill already approved by the Senate and expected to come up for final House committee action next week.

Under the "no knock" provision, police with warrants could enter private premises unannounced if they felt there was danger to themselves or a risk of evidence being destroyed.

Annexation Remarks Anger Boessenecker

Mill Valley City Councilman Edward J. Boessenecker last night demanded a retraction from the Independent-Journal and an apology from Tiburon City Councilman Branwell D. Fanning for an "irresponsible and slanderous remark" Fanning made Wednesday night.

Boessenecker heatedly took issue with Fanning's accusation that Mill Valley's decision to attempt to annex 110 acres in Strawberry was made at a secret meeting.

"This is an accusation of a crime," Boessenecker said. "Unless I hear a retraction and an apology I'm considering suing."

Fanning made the remark during a meeting of the Marin County Local Agency Formation Commission Wednesday as the agency considered Tiburon's request to annex 1,035 acres of Strawberry, including the area for which Mill Valley had made a formal bid.

The commission turned down Mill Valley on June 10, partly because the Strawberry Recreation District and the Alto Fire District complained that their tax bases would be depleted.

Boessenecker said an April 13 meeting, at which the decision to seek annexation was made, was "legal and open to the public. I've never attended an illegal meeting in my life."

"I don't intend to be accused of something I didn't do, and I don't intend to take this from any newspaper, especially one that preaches so much about the (Ralph M.) Brown Act.

Boessenecker said he did not intended to accuse I-J reporter Wat Takeshita of any misdoing. "He accurately reported what Mr. Fanning said, but the Independent-Journal should not have repeated his (Fanning's) remarks," he said.

The council directed City Atty. Leland H. Jordan to write a letter to Fanning asking for an apology and another to the I-J requesting a retraction.

U.S. residents bought 9.5 million automobiles in 1969, says the National Automobile Club.

Attendance Rises At State's Parks

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Attendance at state parks during the 1969-70 fiscal year ending June 30 jumped 20.5 per cent above the previous year, according to William Penn Mott Jr. director of the state Department of Parks and Recreation.

Mott said 44 million visitor days of use were recorded during the year, compared to 36.5 million the previous year.

He estimated revenue from park visitors at $5,972,726 during 1969-70, compared to $5,170,909 during the prior year.

Visitor days at the five state parks in Marin were: Stinson Beach, 665,665; Mount Tamalpais, 658,889; Samuel P. Taylor, 241,387; Angel Island, 98,828 and Tomales Bay, 92,985.

Photographer Sees Judge Dead

TENSE MOMENT — Ruchell Magee, carrying a carbine rifle, disarms an unidentified deputy sheriff. The coat over his arm was one he wore into court to hide his shackles. He was a witness in a case involving James D. McClain, charged with stabbing a prison guard. (Independent-Journal photo by Jim Kean).

to-face with a man aiming a gun in each hand at him.

"Bring that stuff over here," the man told Kean, referring to his camera equipment.

Kean was led at gunpoint down the corridor and told to stand near another armed man who had his arm around the neck of Joyce Rodoni, a member of the jury.

"You take all the pictures you want," the man told Kean, "We are the revolutionaries."

"I proceeded to take pictures," Kean said.

He saw Judge Haley led down the corridor and out of his sight by another armed man, and then led back shortly after.

It was at this point that Kean was told by one of the men, "Be sure to get pictures of the judge."

The prizewinning photographer assured the men he had good pictures of Judge Haley.

The armed men then took their hostages to the elevator and one of the men told Kean to come along, but another said, "We don't want motherfxxxxx. We've got enough."

As the group proceeded into the elevator, leaving Kean in the corridor, one of the men shouted: "We want the Soledad brothers freed by 12:30 today," and the doors closed.

Kean ran down the corridor to the press room, only to find the door locked. Hearing voices inside, he banged and kicked violently at the door, but it wasn't opened.

He found an open office door further down the corridor, and went through it and out onto a balcony which runs the length of the building.

Out on the balcony, he found members of the press, one of whom told Kean that one of the armed men had tried earlier to get into the press room.

Kean theorized that it was to the press room that the armed man had taken Judge Haley before, attempting to increase press coverage of the action.

"They wanted the story out," Kean said.

Still inside the building, he heard two shots fired — apparently the ones fired at another I-J photographer, Roger Bockrath.

Running down stairs, Kean heard more shots, ending as he stepped outside the building to see armed police — some uniformed, some not — moving in on a yellow van which was stopped near one of the arches which take a roadway under the building.

The back window of the van was shattered as if it had been with shotgun fire, Kean said.

An officer opened the backdoor of the van, and Joyce Rodoni fell out and into another officer's arms — apparently unhurt.

Another woman, sobbing hysterically, got out of the van, and then Kean saw Judge Haley — still in his judicial robes — lying on the floor of the van with three other apparently dead bodies.

"I've known that man all my life," Kean sobbed as he told that Haley's chin had been shot away.

Kean and Haley were both born in San Rafael and lived their whole lives in the city.

Their mothers were lifelong friends, and Kean had been the photographer the day Haley was sworn in as a judge.

Driver Is Treated For Back Injury

A 29-year-old San Rafael woman was treated yesterday at Marin General Hospital for back strain suffered in an accident near her home.

Police said Joyce Inez Martin of 1452-A Lincoln Avenue was hurt when her car pulled from a Lincoln Avenue parking place and collided with one driven by Paula Rae Lipp, 19, of 5 La Vista Way, San Rafael, at 7:03 a.m.

Miss Lipp was turning left onto Prospect Drive.

Terrorists Kidnap Another U.S. Advisor

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (UPI) — Tupamaros terrorists kidnaped an American agriculture expert from his laboratory today only hours before the ransom deadline for another American adviser and a Brazilian diplomat abducted a week ago.

The U.S. Embassy reported that Claude L. Fly, 65, of Fort Collins, Colo. was taken from the lab shortly before 9 a.m. EDT, as he talked with a group of Uruguayan agriculture specialists.

An anonymous telephone call to a local radio station said Fly was taken by the Tupamaros and spirited to the same hiding place where American adviser Dan Mitrione, 50, Richmond, Ind., and Brazilian Consul Aloysio Dkias Gomide, 41, were being held.

The telephone caller said that "justice" would be dealt to all three men if the government did not agree by midnight tonight to release an estimated 150 political prisoners in Uruguayan jails.

Uruguayan President Jorge Pacheco Areco has stood firm in his refusal to deal with the Tupamaros, a left-wing band named for a Peruvian Inca, Tupac Amaru, who led an unsuccessful revolt against the Spanish in the 18th century.

Fly moved to Uruguay last January under a private contract with the Uruguayan government after leaving the teaching staff of Colorado State University. The embassy said he is a native of Fulbright, Tex., and is employed by International Development Services, Inc.

Fly's abduction was the 11th kidnaping by terrorists in Latin America this year and the fifth kidnaping of an American in two years. All of the Americans have been released, with the exception of Mitrione, in return for the release of political prisoners.

The embassy spokesman said Fly was not attached to the U.S. Embassy staff and was not employed by the U.S. Agency for International Development (AID). Mitrione is an AID employe and served as an adviser to the Uruguayan police.

Meanwhile, three influential Catholic priests proposed a compromise in an 11th hour effort to save the lives of Mitrione and Dias Gomide.

Fathers Haroldo Ponce de Leon, Ismael Rivas and Justo Assiam Marquez suggested Brazil and another unnamed Latin American country free political prisoners to ransom Mitrione and Dias Gomide in the face of Uruguay's refusal of the kidnapers' demands.

The priests' proposal came hours before the kidnapers' midnight deadline to "do justice" to the two diplomats unless Uruguay promised to release all political prisoners in the country.

Ponce de Leon, the Montevideo archdiocese secretary, and the other priests suggested in a television broadcast that Brazil free prisoners for Dias Gomide and another Latin American country do the same for Mitrione.

Uruguayan President Jorge Pacheco Areco said Thursday it would be unconstitutional to free prisoners.

"As president of all Uruguayans I feel the supreme duty to safeguard the law," Pacheco Areco said. "I want my people to understand in these moments the responsibility that weighs upon my shoulders.

"I fervently wish that this painful affairs does not end tragically, bringing upon those responsible the most general, hateful and definite condemnation."

Mitrione, 50, an adviser to Uruguayan police from Richmond, Ind., and Dias Gomide, 41, were kidnaped July 31 in separate Tupamaros terrorist raids.

Police and soldiers have since conducted an intense search for them and the government offered a one million peso ($4,000) reward for information leading to arrest of their captors.

ABM Showdown Next Wednesday

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A Senate showdown on the Safeguard Antiballistic Missile System (ABM) has been set for next Wednesday, with opponents believed to be one or two votes shy of victory in their effort to block expansion of the system.

The opposing sides agreed Thursday, the first anniversary of last year's dramatic 50 to 50 tie vote on the ABM, to end this year's debate at 3:30 p.m. EDT next Wednesday. The key vote will be on an amendment by Sens. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich.

...an exciting story in the romance of beautiful gems.

TANZANITE was discovered at the foot of Mt. Kilimanjaro, Tanzania, in 1967 by an amateur prospector named Manuel d'Sousa. Harrassed by smugglers, until his death in 1969, the output has been diverted and limited. Now the Tanzanian government has stepped into the matter and the future supply of this gem is unpredictable. Masai tribesmen living in Tanzania used to pick up the stones because they liked the rich blue color that gave off sparkles of red and purple. TANZANITE is the first natural gem discovery in fifty years and is shown in very few stores in this country.

Kent Lake Figure Asks Action Against Lawman

A San Rafael man, arrested during a disturbance Sunday at a hippie gathering place on Kent Lake has asked the Marin County district attorney's office to take action against the lawman who arrested him.

The complaint was made by Robert J. Buol, 24, of 165 Alpine Street. He had been booked into Marin County Jail on suspicion of six assorted felonies and misdemeanors, but was brought to court the next day on a single misdemeanor charge of resisting an officer and obstructing justice.

Accompanied by Deputy Public Defender Edward Briggs, Buol yesterday paid a call on Deputy Dist. Atty. Joshua Thomas. He handed Thomas a sworn statement of his version of the events for which he and Rebessa ann Matthews, 21, of Woodacre, were arrested.

Thomas later advised Briggs that after reviewing Buol's complaint there would be no action taken against the officer.

Buol's statement, which he signed under penalty of perjury, is somewhat at variance with the report Sheriff's Deputy Wayne Trembly submitted to his superiors.

Buol admitted the Lagunitas Spillway area is "considered by many as a 'hippie nudist colony,'" but declared "there was no trouble there" Sunday afternoon until some time after the deputy and a Marin Municipal Water District security officer arrived.

". . .The two men stayed watching and the sheriff's deputy started saying things that bothered people" for 15 to 30 minutes, Boul stated. "Becky Matthews had been playing the guitar and singing until she got so upset with the harrassment" that she behaved in a way that caused her arrest, he declared.

After describing a running argument between the officers and the woman and another companion, Buol said he accompanied her to where the officers were standing beside their cars.

"When we reached the officer, immediately he told me to get lost," Buol state. "I started to walk away, when the officer without any . . . attempt to talk to Becky, bodily tried to throw her in the back of the car. I cam back to the officer only because of my concern over Becky. The police told the water district man to 'get him out of here."

Buol described a brief scuffle with the water district man, which he said ended in handshakes, but "in the meantime Becky had been fought to the ground and she hit the officer with a rock.

"Becky was scared half to death, she got away and the water district man went trying to talk to her. I went after them," Buol said. "He came at me swinging like a mad man . . . and just kept beating until he got me on the head, and I could do no more. From the back window of his car, I could see at least six or more cops on Becky as she lie (sic) on the ground."

Trembly's report stated that force was required to subdue Buol, and voted that both the arrested man and the two officers were treated at Marin General Hospital for injuries.

Buol, represented by the public defender's office in court on his misdemeanor charge, turned to his counsel for help in seeking action against Trembly on grounds of brutality, false arrest and libel.

Even though the district attorney's office lodged only a single misdemeanor complaint against him the news of the deputy's booking him on felony assault, morals and other charges has harmed his reputation and livelihood in Marin County, Buol said yesterday.

$762 Million School Budget For Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The Board of Education Thursday approved a $762 million budget from which $20 million in cuts had been made due to the failure of a tax override last April.

A $1.4 million busing program which had been cut was restored, however, after a change in the method of figuring the delinquent factor in the county property tax rate provided a $1 million windfall.

The budget as it stood before the last minute addition was $761,050,928, up $58,719,558 from last year.

Three major increases in spending included $25 million in teacher salary boosts, $10 million in expanded food service and $2.1 million for children's centers.

Burglary Count Brings Hearing

David Mathew Sliney, 18, of Terra Linda, will face preliminary hearing next Tuesday on a charge that he burglarized the Del Prado Building in Terra Linda on July 31.

The youth, arrested Tuesday in San Rafael, was refused release on his own recognisance by Municipal Court Judge Peter Allen Smith yesterday, and was to attempt to gain release on $500 bail.

He pleaded innocent to the felony charge yesterday.

Novato Offered New Park Site

An offer to Novato of 450 acres for a community park at the same price the city was considering paying for the 67-acre O'Hair property has been renewed with variations that have drawn favorable reaction from civic leaders.

J.C. Garlick, the Salt Lake City developer who now owns the 856-acre Magetti Ranch, has offered the city a 450-acre parcel located on both sides of Novato Boulevard northwest of the O'Hair property for $600,000.

The land, which contains about 138 acres with less than a 15-degree slope and two heavily wooded secluded valleys, has one hill which offers a view of almost the entire city and much of San Pablo Bay and the countryside surrounding Novato. It includes the Bowman Canyon section of Novato Creek.

A similar offer to sell 428 acres of the ranch — split into roughly 100-acre scattered parcels — for $500,000 was turned down in February because of the land division and lack of time and money to act on the offer. "The main difficulty I saw was the division of the property being offered," City Councilman J. Wayne Womack said yesterday, "It was in a checkerboard division, with four separate parcels. In my opinion it would make a big difference how the property was divided."

Womack said that he was not yet ready to give an opinion on whether the city should purchase the land. He said he had not seen all of the property yet.

Six Novatans who viewed the property Wednesday as part of the Novato Creek study committee's walking survey of the creek area were enthusiastic about the land's potential as a park.

Most people have seen the property only from the road, Leroy M. Gerner said, but "they can't realize the potential unless they see the back of it. This is what's so spectacular about it, of course. There's an area back there with lots of trees that's just beautiful for picnicking. I think it's a fabulous piece of property, and, in my opinion, it's a much better buy than the O'Hair property. It could be developed at minimum cost, and it has a lot more potential for a park. It's a better area, and it's not really that much farther out; it's just a little ways past the O'Hair property."

The city is preparing an $850,000 bond election, $600,000 of which would be for purchase of the 67-acre O'Hair property.

The property includes two houses, several sheds and what Gerner calls "an enormous barn that would be ideal for horses."

Guthrie Greene said the land would make a very fine regional park.

"It's not overly impressive from the roadside view, but when you get in behind there, it's just beautiful — secluded, surrounded by hills and protected from the winds."

Supervisor-elect Arnold Baptiste said, "as compared to the O'Hair property, you're getting a lot more land for the same price.

"Even from the road you can see the potential baseball fields off to the left by the creek," said City Councilman George C. Quesada. "It seems to have just about anything you could want, and the price seems to be right. When you look at it you can't help comparing it with the O'Hair property, and it looks like a real bargain."

Quesada said that he thought it likely that the city could preserve the most desirable part of the O'Hair property as recreational area even if the property were developed for residential use.

He said that if the property were purchased the city should make it clear to Garlick that the purchase and Garlick's development of the rest of the ranch were separate and that no special consideration on densities of development would be given.

Garlick has told the city that if the planned $850,000 bond election fails he will offer the land under a lease-purchase agreement to be bought in smaller parcels while the city leases the unpurchased land.

The city must, however, act without undue delay, he said. "I will not extend the offer indefinitely if the city council talks about the purchase forever and doesn't do anything about it."

Garlick said that he had development plans for the property prepared and would proceed with the development if the city did not want the property for a park.

The O'Hair property presently being considered for a community park site is located at the corner of Novato Boulevard and Sutro Avenue.

Hub Man Booked As Pot Suspect

A 22-year-old San Anselmo man, being questioned by Mill Valley police yesterday in connection with shoplifting, was booked into Marin Municipal Court today. Police said that a clerk at Crook's Bootery, 32 Miller Avenue, called them at 4:29 p.m. to report that a man, later identified as Nead, had taken a pair of boots.

Nead was stopped by officers half an hour later on Camino Alto. When asked for identification, he produced a wallet from which a cigarette containing suspected marijuana fell, police said.

Missing Girl Located At Tahoe

A 15-year-old Bakersfield girl reported missing yesterday by Corte Madera Police has been located staying with friends at Lake Tahoe.

Police said today Pamela Stuart, who had been visiting in Corte Madera phoned her aunt Virginia Nodrstrom of 27 Rocklyn Court, Corte Madera, at 2:30 p.m. yesterday saying she had traveled to the resort area with friends.

Bagley Challenger Hits At Bargaining With Lobbyists

Joseph A. Forest, Democratic nominee for state Assembly, has accused the man he is challenging, Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, of bargaining with lobbyists in an effort to pass his tax revision package.

Forest, in a talk on Wednesday night before the Marin Democratic Unified Campaign Committee in Mill Valley, said, "The incumbent's attempt to swap political favors with special interest groups is the worst form of political dealing, and in total disregard of the public trust and confidence."

Forest, according to a press release from his campaign staff, cited news reports that Bagley was backing an $11-million revenue increase in pari-mutuel funds from horse racing. Bagley indicated to newsmen that race track lobbyists were helping to break the Senate deadlock over the tax package.

Forest said that "such bargaining leaves Mr. Bagley's integrity open to question. I would urgently request Mr. Bagley immediately drop this bill in the interest of the taxpayers."

Forest noted that Gov. Ronald Reagan, in his press conference on Tuesday, had said he had refused to bargain with lobbyists to get votes for the tax package.

Budget For College Gets Board Nod

Marin Junior College District trustees last night adopted a $4,658,323 budget for 1970-71, one that's expected to bring a 3-cent drop in the tax rate.

Trustees approved the budget with almost no discussion by a 6-0 vote. Trustee Donald K. Felt was absent.

Business Mgr. Norman D. Bird has estimated that the budget will carry a 90-cent per $100 assessed valuation tax rate compared to the district's 93-cent rate this year.

The district operates with a 35-cent basix tax rate and a 35-cent special building tax, with the remainder of the rate being made up of special overrides.

The budget is approximately $370,000 higher than last year's figure.

Actual expenditures for the district this year are estimated at $6.5 million, but the district is carrying over $3.3 million in building funds from last year to cover the difference.

The Marin Junior College Distrcit board also:

RESIGNATIONS — Approved resignations from Clark K. Sampson, Elizabeth Buckley and Margaret L. Moses. Sampson was the assistant business manager, Miss Buckley was a secretary and Mrs. Moses was a switchboard operator.

EMPLOYMENT — The board approved hiring Natalie T. Hodgson as a part time reference librarian at a salary of $2,500 for the school year.

EQUIPMENT — Authorized payment of $374,000 for Science Center equipment.

REPRESENTATIVE — Named trustee Harry J. Moore to serve as the board's representative on the California Junior College Association.

TEACHING AGREEMENT — Approved increasing by one the number of student teachers to be accepted from San Francisco State College.

APPOINTMENT — Held over appointing an assistant dean to replace Dr. Berkeley Johnson, who was recently named the college's dean of instruction.

WORKSHOP — Agreed to meet Monday at 7:30 p.m. to study facilities for the college's art program.

STUDY — Received a classified personnel survey prepared by local Chapter 196 of the California State Employees Association on "Internal Alignment of Classified Positions." Agreed to discuss the report at length in the near future.

NEXT MEETING — Set Sept. 3 as the date of the next regular meeting of the board.

Meeting Moved Up

The Aug. 25 meeting of the Dixie School District board has been changed to Aug. 17 at 8 p.m. in the board room of the adminstratiion office, Asst. Supt. Joseph B. Goff announced yesterday.

College Board Sets November Bond Vote

The Marin Junior College District trustees last night voted to place both a $17 million bond issue and a 25-cent tax rate increase before district voters on the Nov. 3 general election ballot.

Trustees voted 6-0 — with Donald K. Felt absent — after agreeing to stipulate that at least 50 per cent of the funds be used for development of the north county campus with the remainder reserved for capital improvement at the Kentfield campus.

The 25-cent tax rate increase — if approved by the voters — would generate funds to be used in the general operation of the college.

Repayment of the bond issue is expected to cost an average of 16 cents per year on the tax rate if amortized over 25 years, trustees were told.

The development of the north county campus is actually expected to cost about $25 million, but the difference between that amount and the $17 million bond issue will be made up in matching state funds.

The tax rate question which will go before the voters will seek approval for the college to drop an existing 35-cent special building tax, due to expire in mid-1972 anyway, and replace it with the 25-cent tax, meaning that taxpayers will see a 10-cent drop in the district's overall tax rate at least for the first year.

College Supt. President John A. Grasham said he expected a drop in the tax rate even after repayment of the bond issue is figured in. He said that investment returns on the bond issue money should be able to offset the additional cost of bond repayment.

The proposed new tax of 25 cents would remain in effect indefinitely, if approved.

Trustee Elizabeth M. Deedy called the two issues "a momentous step in the right direction."

"We are hoping for participation by the entire community," she said. "We have a massive job ahead of us to interpret and explain the issues to the public and we will need everyone's support."

She said she felt that the district must proceed on the basis that it will take a two-thirds majority to pass the issues. Until the U.S. Supreme Court rules on it, the recent state Supreme Court decision that bond issued need only a simple majority will not apply, the trustees have been told by the county legal staff.

The trustees last night also adopted a resolution reaffirming its earlier stand that neither the Kentfield or north campus be designed to house more than 5,000 students, despite some pressure from the state level to design the sites for 10,000 students.

Two Children Succumb To Heat Prostration

CANOGA PARK, Calif. (UPI) —Two young children died from apparent heat prostration in their babysitter's car Thursday while the woman chatted with her daughter, police said.

The babysitter, Mrs. Virginia O'Donnell, 62, Canoga Park, was caring for Hugh Flynn III, 3, and his 6-month-old brother John, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Flynn when her daughter called and asked her to babysit for her grandchild.

Police said Mrs. O'Donnell drove to her daughter's home, which she shared, and left the Flynn children in the car while she went inside to chat.

After about 45 minutes, Mrs. O'Donnell and her daughter, Mrs. Thomas Hendricks, went out to the car and discovered the children's bodies.

Both children were pronounced dead on arrival at a Northridge hospital.

Bruce Ready, Waits High Hanoi Envoy

PARIS (UPI)—Ambassador David K. E. Bruce brought a whole new series of peace proposals to Paris but none will surface in either public or secret negotiations until Hanoi gives something in return for President Nixon's appointment of a ranking negotiator, an authoritative diplomatic source said today.

The diplomat a voided using the term "coalition government" in discussing the new and as yet unexplored possibilities for peace, but he mentioned a "sharing of power" that could be discussed by Hanoi and U.S. negotiators without the participation of Saigon negotiators.

AIRS U.S. STAND

The diplomat said the United States would make no attempt to resume secret negotiations with Hanoi until Washington is satisfied it is dealing with a qualified negotiator.

American negotiators are confident Hanoi will soon send one of their ranking negotiators back to Paris, possibly within a few weeks, the diplomat said.

The diplomat noted that the most senior member of Hanoi's negotiating team in Paris is Nugyen Minh Vy, "who is no. 3 or 4, depending on how you count."

The United States is not ruling out contacts with Vy "on the technicality of his rank" the diplomat said, but he noted that in the eyes of American negotiators "he has never shown that he is anything more than a repeat-the-old-position guy."

RECIPROCAL MOVE?

According to the diplomat, the United States has no intention of revealing the "broad negotiating latitude" of Bruce, until Washington is convinced it has someone it "can do business with."

The diplomat said the new American negotiator is "not going to drop anything on the table" at the weekly public sessions. Before demonstrating the flexibility of the American negotiating position, the United States will await some reciprocal gesture from the "other side."

"None of the contingencies, none of the plans are going to surface until the United States gets something in return," he said.

Smith Ranch Strip Appears Best Field For Air Service

Helicopter service between Marin and San Francisco International Airport has been extremely valuable to our county.

Parking and traffic problems at San Francisco International have made the helicopter service especially attractive to corporate executives who reside in Marin and must make frequent cross-country air trips.

The Marin County Chamber of Commerce and others dedicated to economic progress in Marin know that the presence of the helicopter service has been a favorable factor in attracting desirable industry and business to Marin.

The news that San Francisco-Oakland Helicopter Airlines may suspend service to Marin next week-is indeed bad news.

In announcing the impending cut-back, SFO President Joseph A. Young indicated he hoped it would be only temporary. We hope he is right. The nature and details of the airline's financial problems have not been publicly disclosed. Without more information it is impossible to judge whether the end of service will in fact be only temporary, or whether it may be indefinite.

Marin's need for quick service to San Francisco International continues and presumably will keep on growing.

Golden West Airlines, the southern California-based, third-level air carrier, waits in the wings ready, willing and apparently eager to provide the necessary service for Marin.

Golden West previously sought to establish service to and from Marin using the private Smith Ranch air strip as its base. Residents of nearby Santa Venetia and Gallinas Village protested to the Marin County Planning Commission which turned down the Golden West proposal.

That took place last fall. Last winter, the city of San Rafael annexed a thousand acres of uninhabited land East of Highway 10., between Las Gallinas Creek and Hamilton Field.

Included is the Smith Ranch private air strip.

AT THE MOMENT of that annexation, planning control passed from the county to the city. The door may now be open.

Earlier, a spokesman for Golden West had said the airline might renew its proposal after annexation. To date, nothing has been said or done publicly toward renewal.

Aware that the existence of fast service to and from San Francisco International is important to Marin, Marin County Chamber leaders have, thus far privately, become interested in the possibility of backing Golden West's efforts to enter the field.

If the Smith Brothers strip could not be utilized, there is the possibility of obtaining government approval for use of Hamilton Air Force Base runways. But most of us would probably die of old age before the red tape attendant to such a move could be unwound.

THE COUNTY'S GNOSS Field airport at Novato could be used almost immediately, but it is unlikely to attract air commuters from central or southern Marin. Once you get on the highway for that much of a drive, you might as well head south to San Francisco International. Golden West just could not expect to generate sufficient passengers from Gnoss Field.

Of sights available, Smith Brothers strip appears to be the most likely to succeed — if approval for its use can be obtained.

AFFAIRS OF STATE

300-MPH 'Iron Horse' Now On The Drawing Board, But Why?

By JACK COOPER

SACRAMENTO — One of this state's better-known think tanks let us all know last week that it is working on a 300-mile-an-hour "iron horse" which will get us from downtown San Francisco to downtown Los Angeles in an hour and a half — about the time it now takes in a 500-mile-an-hour airplane and a couple of buses.

All this is to be accomplished by repelling magnetic force and linear induction motors. The magnetic force will "levitate" the car about one foot above the track and the linear induction motors will scoot it along in the air.

Electromagnets, in order to make high performance cheap, will be supercooled to absolute zero and kept at that temperature with helium. Absolute zero, in case you've forgotten, is 459 degrees below zero on your backyard thermometer.

THIS IS RATHER heady stuff, compared to ordinary airplanes which use ordinary jet engines to levitate themselves up to 30,000 feet and then de-levitate down to a landing at Los Angeles or San Francisco.

And it is considerably faster than the old Wabash Cannon Ball, to say nothing of the Dixie Flyer or the Flying Scotsman. Maybe it could be called the Cryogenic Cannonball, the Frigid Flyer or the Flying Frigidaire.

If the august Stanford Research Institute says it'll work, we're prepared to believe them. But if they want to bet you that it's going to happen in the next 50 years, take the bet.

The main effect of this kind of stuff is to divert the public mind from the importance of completing this state's basic transportation system. We can trifle with this workaday system, because shortly some magical solution will be found that will make it all unnecessary.

WHAT THE THINK-TANK boys don't mention, and you are not supposed to think of, is that any 300-mile-an-hour train is going to require the kind of straight, level right-of-way that just doesn't exist. The construction costs for this kind of track would probably be at least as much as the State Water Project.

In our mind's eye we can see a Frigid Flyer negotiating that little gem of the Tehachapis where the southbound trains now enter a tunnel, and on emerging from the south end begin a 270-degree turn to the right and wind up traveling east. Eastbound passengers in the head end can observe the southbound rear cars still emerging from the tunnel.

For some years now, we have heard that one of these days we will be able to overcome such problems by cutting railroad tunnels for a nickel a foot with laser beams. The only one of these that has worked so far, however, was the disintegrator ray that Dr. MacGregor gave to Buck Rogers to try to atomize killer Kane.

THERE IS BIG traffic from points near San Francisco to points near Los Angeles, but as one might guess from the incoming 1970 census figures, downtown-to-downtown traffic is declining all the time.

A plan to run a monorail from L.A. airport to downtown L.A. keeps running into the fact that most of the incoming passengers are heading for Beverly Hills and the San Fernando Valley. Downtown L.A. comes in third as a destination.

There is a general dispersion pattern at San Francisco airport too, and one expert maintains that air passengers arriving at San Francisco destined for East Bay and Contra Costa points contribute greatly to crowding on the Bay Bridge.

Business and industry are moving out of downtown just as the people are, and hotels and motels are moving out to service the traffic they generate.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Praise Given To Planning Panel

I think it is time someone praised the work that is being done by the members of the Marin County Planning Commission.

Having twice witnessed their meetings recently, while protesting the establishment of a private boys' High School on Laurel Grove Avenue, Kentfield, I find it most gratifying these men willingly give so much of their valuable time in the interest of the tax payers and home dwellers and are so sincere in their efforts. Particularly appreciated were those members who gave up their weekends to visit and study the land in question and who took a strong stand to protect the neighborhood involved.

It is truly a dedicated person who will tirelessly work long hours, and does so with little renumeration. The Planning Commission is endeavoring to keep our County the wonderful place it is to live, unselfishly doing what must be the most thankless job in the world.

The Plight Of Ag Preserves

Monday, (Aug. 3) the "Reporter's Notebook" brought up the plight of Marin's Agricultural Preserves. Noting that areas of less than 100 acres are seldom used in legitimate agricultural enterprises, it is also true that making these areas ineligible for preserve status gives all persons with preserve contracts a way to get out of them.

The recent fuss on whether a person under agreement can disolve the agreement before it expires will be ended, since any person under contract can merely divide his land into parcels of 100 acres or less, sell them to different owners and thereby automatically void the preserve agreement.

Visitor To PG&E Plant Impressed

On July 22-24 I had the pleasure of taking a trip to the Feather River as a guest of the P.G.&E., to visit their power plants up there. It was an outstanding trip from an educational standpoint, as well as a fun trip, also. I certainly would like to express my opinion on what a great job the P.G.&E. is doing up in that area.

The public must realize the effort that goes into getting electricity to the home, business, industry and our great street lighting. My hat is off to PG&E, and a bouquet of roses to all of the employees. I say a job well done. Also, when I get my P.G.&E. bill at the end of the month, I will say to myself, "well worth it".

Warning About Those Car Stalls

This is a warning to all who park in the San Rafael city stalls.

"They are getting bolder," said the gentlemanly officer of the law.

Together this is what we saw.

My Mustang sorrowfully resting on its front legs — naked to its very rims. You know, life is truly getting quite grim.

My modern day horse was parked in the upper decks of the San Rafael Municipal Parking lot from high noon till five. In golden daylight some natives did an untribal act to survive.

Guess there are some drones who have a sting!

Why Is Republican Tax Plan Better?

I recently received from the office of Sen. John McCarthy his "Report to the People" for July. In it Senator McCarthy makes reference to the debate before the Senate concerning tax relief.

Senator McCarthy states that in a protracted hearing before the Senate Finance Committee, the Republican bill calling for one-billion dollars in taxes was approved over the substitute Democratic proposal calling for four hundred and fifty million dollars in taxes. He further states that he anticipates a floor battle over the Democratic proposal. He finds this "ironic" as the Democratic measure calls for substantially the same program as the Republican bill.

The only reasonable inference I can draw from this information is that if the Democratic proposals are substantially the same, then why should the Republican bill calling for taxes of one billion dollars be superior to the Democratic bill calling for four hundred and fifty million dollars? Ironic or otherwise, it would seem obvious that the Democratic plan imposing a lesser burden on the taxpayer would be superior if, as Senator McCarthy concedes, we are going to receive essentially the same in services.

Rogers' Middle East Peace Plan Is Proof He's Not A Figurehead

By ROSCOE and GEOFFREY DRUMMOND

WASHINGTON — Secretary of State William Rogers' peace plan is doing more to move the Arabs and Israelis away from war and toward negotiations than anything put forward since the Six-Day War in 1967.

Rogers generated this move, and it is proving to be well conceived and well timed.

If it accomplishes its purpose — as it is beginning to do — it will be a crucial act in behalf of world peace and away from perilous confrontation between the Soviet Union and the United States.

These developments underline how trivial, petty and damaging to U.S. foreign policy it is to try to measure Rogers' role against that of White House Security Affairs Adviser Henry Kissinger and to judge who is more influential by the number of times he sees the President.

Some have been inaccurately writing that Secretary Rogers is no more than a friendly figurehead at the top of the State Department he doesn't control; that in a crunch he is ignored by the President; that he misled Congress about Cambodia because he didn't know what was going on; that he pretty much sits on the sidelines as big events pass by.

Not true at any point.

ONE VERY IMPORTANT reason requires that the record be set straight. The execution of foreign policy is inseparable from the secretary of state. To falsely downgrade his role, his ability and his closeness to the President is to irresponsibly enfeeble the conduct of American foreign policy.

Rogers is today at the center of the most momentous foreign policy initiative the United States has taken since Richard Nixon took office. He is leading and guiding it and the prescient care he took early to develop cordial and trustworthy relations with Moscow's influential ambassador to the US., Anatoly Dobrynin, is serving him well.

It is not the genius of Rogers' initiative which is propelling the Arabs and Israelis toward negotiation. Objective forces are doing it: The Soviet fear that the Middle East could explode into world war, the Egyptian fear that Israel may be prodded into a preemptive strike, the Israeli fear that mounting Soviet arms and pilots in Egypt threaten its survival.

But it is Secretary Rogers' initiative which is providing the catalyst to bring the antagonists together.

AS TO ROGERS NOT being in on crucial foreign policy decisions, which the President alone must make, that is idle chitchat. Rogers' views may not always prevail, but he is an active participant as he was at every critical stage in the Cambodia decision.

For military reasons President Nixon had to guard his Cambodia decision from leaks. This annoyed some members of Congress, and after Rogers appeared in closed session before a House appropriations subcommittee, a partial transcript of his testimony was leaked from Capital Hill. This partial transcript gave the impression that the secretary had deliberately misled the committee by appearing to imply that Nixon had ruled out attacking the Cambodian sanctuaries or else that Rogers was so distant from the decision-making process that he did not know what was going on.

The fact is that it was the limited leak which was misleading, not the secretary of state. Here is what Rogers actually said after testifying that it was not the purpose of U.S. forces to support the Lon Nol government:

"On the other hand, we can see that if we were able to move in, it we were able to knock out these sanctuaries, it could very well make it possible for Vietnamization to proceed at a faster pace. So we are right in the decision-making process now on what to do.

Having a McGeorge Bundy or a Walt Rostow or a Henry Kissinger at the side of the President obviously cuts into the influence of any secretary of state. The role of all-powerful secretaries of state, like Henry Stimson, Dean Acheson and John Foster Dulles, is past.

But Rogers is today more nearly a fountainhead than a figurehead.

INSIDE WASHINGTON

Thurmond Still Realizes He Needs Nixon's Image

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and JOHN A. GOLDSMITH

WASHINGTON — The recently enacted bitter-sweet tableau in which Sen. Strom Thurmond panned, then praised President Nixon has broad political implications — and not only for the President.

Much was written questioning the President's "Southern strategy" after South Carolina's Thurmond blasted Nixon's school integration policies a few weeks ago. Thurmond suggested that those policies might mean Nixon's defeat in 1972.

Political commentators replied, however, that with George Wallace rehabilitated by Alabama voters and apparently back in the presidential running, Nixon might be well advised to remove himself from Thurmond's embrace.

Then the senator, in a report to his constituents, changed his tack. Dwelling fondly on the President's policy on textile imports, Thurmond told his home folks that Nixon's heart was, after all, in the right place and that the President was resisting his liberal advisers.

Very little has been said and written about Thurmond's words of reconciliation. It is partly clear, however, that, having helped to elect Nixon by keeping Southern delegations in line at the nominating convention, Thurmond is, in a sense, stuck with Nixon and, in fact, needs the President perhaps as much as the President needs him.

IN THE INTERVAL between the bitter and sweet Thurmond comments, the liberal GOP Ripon Society published its critique on the Southern strategy in its monthly "Forum." Not surprisingly it concluded that the President should adopt a progressive stance to win Southern support and abandon the conservatives.

It declared that the revival of Wallace's presidential hopes means trouble for Mr. Nixon, because Wallace will capture the electoral votes of the Deep South in 1972. Mr. Nixon, the society said, should avoid a "polarizing" strategy to win votes in both the North and South.

The judgments of the New England-based Ripon Society may not the the best available with respect to byzantine political maneuverings in individual Southern states. Its overall statistics cannot be faulted, however, when it notes that the once solid South has not been solid for a presidential candidate since 1944.

"Typically, it has been divided along the lines of the Deep South (the belt from South Carolina to Louisiana and Arkansas) versus the Peripheral South," a Forum editorial declares.

"Given this fact of life," the Ripon Society says, "the GOP must decide which part of the South it wants. The choice should be easy, because not only is the Peripheral South more lucrative, but it has also been far more receptive to Republican campaigners on all levels."

I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

By GEORGE NEVIN

Motorcycles Mighty Dangerous As A Mode Of Transportation

Motorcycles are killers.

That's the conclusion I've reached after three months of checking the California Highway Patrol each morning for accidents.

Marin County averages about three motorcycle accidents a week, and about once a month someone is killed. Witness the death Saturday of Robert Marion Allen, 19, of Daly City, killed when his machine slid into the path of a van on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard in San Geronimo Valley.

Never mind the freedom, the sense of exhiliration that motorcyclists get when they crank up their machines and roar off. Never mind the romantic James Dean aura.

JUST LOOK AT the statistics. According to the National Safety Council, the death rate for motorcycle riders is 23 per 100 million vehicle miles, as compared to 5.5 for cars. So motorcycle riders are four times more likely to get killed than automobile drivers.

And consider this — 85 to 90 per cent of all motorcycle accidents result in death or injury. Even a minor spill can turn into a broken bone or a fractured skull.

Because of their maneuverability, it is easier to avoid an accident on a motorcycle than in a car.

But once a collision occurs, all advantage is lost. The cyclist is at the mercy of his surroundings — unfriendly curbs, hostile trees, abrasive paving.

HELMETS, LEATHER jackets and other protective devices help, and no motorcyclist should ever go without them. But better yet would be never to set foot (to mix a metaphor) on the contraption in the first place.

These thoughts are prompted by a recent accident in which a 23-year-old San Anselmo man was killed and a 15-year-old girl critically injured in a motorcycle crash on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard in Forest Knolls.

The man was minding his own business, tooling down the highway, when a woman pulled across his path from a parking place.

She told officers that she looked and didn't see any traffic. This is the irony of the whole thing. Many motorists claim they don't see motorcycles that they hit (or hit them), but I believe that in many cases they see them but the sight doesnt' register.

MOTORISTS, I BELIEVE, are conditioned not to pay attention to motorcycles. The machine is so small, so insignificant, that the motorist dismisses it from his mind.

Ride a motorcycle a few times in city traffic and you'll see what I mean. People change lanes in front of you. cut you off, pull out in front of your path, make left turns in front of you. They just don't care. They seem to consider motorcycles as some kind of gnat.

"He can just pull around me," they think, or "He can stop easily."

Perhaps this doesn't occur on a conscious level, but I believe it does occur.

TO BE FAIR, many bikers are hot-rodders who zoom through traffic with seeming abandon. They give the appearance of riding recklessly between cars and on the shoulder.

But I think they know what they're doing. If motorists would watch out for them like they watch out for motorists, the accident rate would be cut considerably.

But the accidents keep happening, and that's why I'll never own a motorcycle. In theory, they represent total freedom, but in fact, with a little bad luck, they can mean the total lack of freedom — death.

COUNTY COMMENT

By WILLIAM D. (BILL) FUSSELMAN

Not A Foe Of Conservation, But Don't Like Those Phonies

Fusselman

Please be assured that I am not against "conservation" and never have been.

For instance: My favorite book is "My Wilderness" by William O. Douglas.

I pick it up and read a page or two when I feel badly about my not being able to get around like I did for so many years. I am refreshed with a feeling of being at his side and seeing the things he so simply but eloquently tells about.

However, I am against phonies who get on the band wagon because it is the thing to do. Also, I am against those who are so uptight about all this that they lose sight of the humanities involved.

A sad fatal accident we all read about and a "10 Years Ago" (Aug. 4 1960) item in the Tuesday issue of the I-J are examples of the danger of this uptight practice.

HERE IS THE "10 Years Ago" item: "Marin residents protested the state Division Highways' plan for a four-lane freeway along the shoreline from Highway 101 to 2.8 miles south of Olema."

That protest took place in the board of supervisors hearing room of the annex to the courthouse. I was there and looked into the faces of those whom I was told had been bidden by urgent telephone calls the night before.

Many of them glared at me as at a deadly enemy, when I tried to tell them my personal understanding of the terrain. Following is an excerpt from this County Comment column, dated December 1, 1967.

The heading: "Criminal To Continue Route of Highway on Perilous Cliffs" "Before commenting on the Shoreline Highway problem, let me say I have been driving for 54 years in Washington, Oregon and up and down this coast. This has been over every type of terrain — cliffsides, seashore, and mountains."

DURING MANY years, in connection with my business, I drove the Shoreline Highway several times a week. I know the area from the Sausalito lateral through the tunnel to Fort Cronkhite and from Muir Beach north."

"A few weeks ago (1967) the county planning commission voted 4-to-3 favoring the cliff route from the Golden Gate Bridge to Stinson Beach-Bolinas and on to Olema and Point Reyes National Seashore. Commissioner Eugene R. Trombley, Niels Schultz, Jr. and Walter Freitas wanted to consider an alternate route that would follow the southern boundaries of Marincello, tunnel throught Wolfe Ridge into Tennesses Valley, through Coyote Ridge into Muir Beach.

"One of the commissioners, voting for the cliff side, said, 'esthetically there would be less harm on the cliff than in the rolling hillside' "

A panel of 4 appeared before the conservation group two of them (very prominent in conservation circles,) favored a route through Stinson Beach and Bolinas. One of them said "I just don't understand a route that don't take people where they wan't to go." Then the other one wanted "an inspirational route. It would have all the gimmicks, such as going around a special tree that would give a really delightful thought for the day."

I FINISHED the column that day with — "As I have said I know that entire area well. Believe me it would be criminal to expand and continue the present dangerous cliff alignment. It should be moved away from the cliff's edge."

Further consideration was swept under the rug to await a better climate for having their own way.

A few days ago two fine young men were forced over the edge — one fatally injured.

Tomorrow I will be 82 and my drivers' license expires, the end of 56 years of driving to wonderful places of natural beauty.

Integration Plan Asked

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A federal judge wants San Francisco's Board of Education to draw a master plan by Jan. 2 for totally integrating the city's schools by Sept. 1, 1971.

In making his suggestion Thursday, Judge Stanley A. Weigel declared that racial imbalance has persisted here for at least a decade with the knowledge of the board.

His remarks were made to attorney Irving Breyer, representing the board, and to Arthur Brunwasser, who represents the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Brunwasser, whose organization had filed a suit seeking integration, said the suggestion was agreeable to him. Breyer said he would have to consult his clients and the judge recessed the hearing until Aug. 12.

Hearing Continued

Preliminary hearing has been continued to Tuesday for Robert Wayne Kitzmiller, Fairfax ex-convict charged with attacking a San Rafael woman with a sawed-off .22 caliber rifle July 30.

Commission To Review Plan For Richardson Bay Harbor

A plan for new and improved docks and berths to accomodate all 260 houseboats in Donnal J. Arques; harbor in Richardson Bay will be reviwed by the Marin County Planning Commission Monday morning in the commission chambers at Marin Civic Center.

Arques's 25-acre property is at gates 5 and 6, from Grove to Monterey Street. Arques's plan would provide berthing for all existing houseboats on his property and a few moored in the bay.

Other items on the planning commission agenda include:

VETERINARY CLINIC — A proposed change in the county code to allow veterinary clinics in retail business and commercial districts, with a use permit. At present, a veterinary clinic is allowed only in industrial districts.

ENGLISH TAVERN — A hearing on Charles Felix's plan to set up a small English pub-type restaurant at Muir Beach, at the corner of Pacific Way and Shoreline Highway.

LAIRD'S LANDING — Hearing on a tentative map for Laird's Landing subdivision on 319 acres owned by Robert D. Marshall Jr. north of Tomales Bay State Park, between Pierce Point Road and Tomales Bay. The property is within the area designated for the Point Reyes National Seashore. The tentative map for 63 lots has been continued since December of 1969 because purchase by the federal government was expected, but the owner now wants to go ahead because the government has not yet acquired or condemned the land.

Oil Blaze Set At $100,000

COMMERCE (UPI) — Fire caused an estimated $100,000 damage and injured one man Thursday night in a warehouse containing oil products.

The injured employe of Lubricating Specialties Co. was not identified, but firemen said he suffered second-degree burns on his arms and legs.

Twelve county fire units and 60 men extinguished the blaze in about 45 minutes.

Dog License Deadline Is Last Of August

Dog owners in Marin have until Aug. 31 to get dog license for the 1970-71 fiscal year, tax collector-treasurer Stanley J. Fontez announced today.

He said he has received several calls from pet owners complaining that applications for dog licenses were not mailed to them.

"That may be true," said Fontez. "But the main thing is that anyone can get a dog license by going to the nearest city hall or to the Marin Civic Center, or just call us and we'll mail the application to them." He said a valid rabies certificate is required before a dog license is issued.

Fontez said the dog license applications are mailed to a list of dog owners provided by the Marin County Humane Society on the basis of last year's records. This list of names and addresses is prepared by the data processing department and mailed out.

He conceded that in the process, some dog owners may have been overlooked, and those who did not get a license last year would not get an application this year.

Dog license fees are $2.50 for spayed female dog, and $5 for all other dogs. After the Aug. 1 deadline, the fee will go up to $8 and $5.

Sausalito Planners Reject Zoning Plea For Apartment

A proposed apartment development on Sausalito's Wolfback Ridge has received a major setback with Sausalito Planning Commission rejection of a request to rezone the land.

Planning Director H. Eric Borgwardt said the commission voted unanimously Wednesday against changing the zoning of 90 acres on the ridge from single family duplex designations.

The application, which will now go to the city council, came from developers Frank Lynch and E.R. Fitzsimmons who also asked for a conditional use permit to allow construction of a 396-unit on 60 acres of the land.

Borgwardt said the commission postponed action on the use permit until the council acts on the zoning request.

The Sausalito Planning Commission also:

BOARDWALK — Granted an encroachment permit to Frank Werber to allow construction of a boardwalk behind 660 Bridgeway leading to Princess Park. The permit was granted on condition the public be given access to the bayside walkway, the planning director said.

RESTRICTIONS LIFTED — At the request of Trident Productions, lifted restrictions which limited use of a portion of a commercial building at 660 Bridgeway to six specific kinds of businesses. The commission voted the first floor of the structure can contain any six types of businesses allowed in a central commercial zone.

DRIVEWAY — Approved an encroachment application from Mr. and Mrs. Albert Cote to allow construction of a parking driveway on city street right-of-way at 67 Platt Avenue.

GENERAL PLAN — Adopted a resolution of intention to amend the city general plan to include other plans recently adopted by the city council, including the central waterfront and marinship plans.

NEWSPAPER RACK — Granted an encroachment application to Mark Thompson to permit a newspaper rack in front of Sausalito Liquors, 705 Bridgeway.

SIGN — Gave approval to William Charles for a projecting sign for a business at 676 Bridgeway.

Canning Sugar Shortage Cited

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Canners, particularly in the peach industry, are facing a critical shortage of liquid sugar due to the lengthy strike at the C&H Sugar Co. plant in Crocket.

The warning came Thursday from state Agriculture Director Jerry W. Fielder, who labeled the situation "alarming."

"The problem is not an overall shortage of sugar—there is plenty for the housewife and other users—but rather a current lack of sufficient plant capacity for melting sugar from the granular form to the liquid required for food processing," the director said in a statement.

Black Point Inn Now At Its Best And Plans To Add More Seafood

It's always encouraging when a restaurant finds and settles down comfortably in its proper stride — the style and pace at which it operates most efficiently and develop its maximum appeal.

I would say that right now the Black Point Inn is at its best since Jess Fisher remodeled and opened this historical old roadside inn for business more than eight years ago.

In spite of the usual problems Jess had had over this period I have always known him as a genial, happy sort of person — sometimes overenthusiastic with a new idea which sometimes didn't work out — but always bobbing back like a cork and ready to try again. You might say that Black Point Inn during the last eight years has been his entire life and he has refused to let it die, come what may.

This isn't to say that its problems are over. That is never true for any restaurant, no matter how high it flies. But you can visit here, knowing you will get good food at the hands of chef Jack Cardini, good service and fair prices at both the table and bar. I should add to that — good entertainment with Art Allison at the piano bar Wednesday through Saturday nights.

Incidentally, Cardini plans to add more seafood specialties to the menu soon and you can trust a chef who is also a good fisherman to excel in this department. Meanwhile, you'll just have to put up with three or four seafood dishes, four ways of serving veal, four of chicken, along with steaks, brochettes, sweetbreads and pastes.

The former main dining room at Black Point makes a good party room and will seat 40 comfortably. Once Jess planned on having an upstairs banquet room, but with the downstairs remodeling that wasn't necessary.

THERE IS ENTERTAINMENT now at the Grotto in San Rafael on Friday and Saturday nights, when guitarist Fritz Von Gluck strums pizzicatos on his strings. He is a master of both classical and flamenco music.

THE RANCHO RAFAEL at Ignacio has continued to offer motel service although food and bar facilities have been dormant for more than a year. Now there is a good prospect for a return to its former days of glory — but not for several months.

It has just been purchased by Hotel Laundries, Inc., a corporation headed by David Kahler of San Rafael and F. John Dreyfus of Belvedere, who are also principals in Duracite Manufacturing Co., Inc., of San Rafael.

Although they have applied for transfer of the general on-sale liquor license owned by Charles and Garnet Capelli, who operated the Flatiron Bar, about the only increased activity at the Rancho for the next 90 days or so will be fencing off the property and extensive remodeling.

The new owners are taking time to do a thorough restoration before committing themselves to a definite completion date. But one of these days it will blossom out under a new name and in an entirely different type of operation.

LOOK ALSO for a new restaurant to open at Marinship, Sausalito, about the first of next month.

It will be called Gate 5 Restaurant and is very close to where Juanita used to have her Juanita's Galley. Peter Bonet, a former owner of the Brighton Express in San Francisco, is now lining up help and plans several features that should develop a large clientele.

The Gate 5 will be tastefully done, with an indoor and outdoor garden, butcher blocks and graphics on the walls for decor. It will feature a daily change of menu coupled with choice wines and beers. Breakfasts and lunches will be served at the start, with dinners to follow later.

JEAN'S KITCHEN in Ross has added some family-style frills to the dinners at no increase in prices —relish, soup, salad and ravioli, served at the table before the entree so you can help yourself to whatever you want. Lunches here are still $1.25.

LE PETIT at 33 Reed Boulevard near Strawberry Town and Country Village has some new items on the menu:

Among the sandwiches are the Berliner — hot pastrami, Swiss cheese and sauerkraut, with a Russian dressing — $1.50.

A crepe dinner served after 4 p.m. at $3.25 offers a choice of salad or soup, French bread, a choice of several crepes, dessert and coffee or tea. New on the crepes list are beef Stroganoff with a sour cream sauce and ham and asparagus Mornay in a delicate cheese sauce.

Among the desserts now are coffee toffee pie, cheese cake and gateau Arlene. And there is quite a take-out menu.

AL BARTHEL'S MENU at Senor Alfredo's Mexican Restaurant in San Anselmo may not show it, but dinner entrees include a 16-ounce New York steak, served with rice, beans and salad at $5.25.

Also featured are El Presidente burger — a half-pound of ground beef on a bun for $1.50, the Sapata burger (something like a sloppy Joe) at $1.25 and a child's entree called a Senorita burger at 95 cents.

And if you hadn't noticed it, there is an American low-calorie plate featured on the regular menu.

IN KEEPING with all the remodeling of the former Woodlands Restaurant in Kentfield into the new Zim's, this organization has also done over its other Marin County unit in the Corte Madera Shopping Center. Both restaurants now feature a new image — with comfortable booths, bright new decor and an expanded menu of entrees, sandwiches and desserts.

Topping the food innovations is "Zim fried Chicken," dipped in a zesty sesame seed batter, deep-pressure fried and served with hot buttered corn on the cob, French fried potatoes, roll and butter. It's also available in a child's plate and to take out.

The "Zimburger" and hot apple pie are still among the perennials.

OBSERVING ITS FIRST BIRTHDAY this month is the Tiajuana Taco drive-through restaurant at 930 Seventh Street, Novato.

Arthur D. Hay, who operates this place, was a little upset that I did not include him among last week's list of Mexican restaurants. Actually I hadn't intended to get into the franchised outlets in this respect, because they are numerous and not within the intended scope of our detailed coverage, as I have previously said here on many occasions.

But in Arthur's case I feel somewhat badly in having omitted him, because he seems to go beyond the usual "call of duty" in conducting a franchised operation. With great pride he describes his place as "Novato's only drive-through, sit-down, air-conditioned restaurant offering a wide menu of Mexican foods . . . including tacos, frijoles, burritos, enchiladas, chili, tamales, chiliburgers and many combination plates."

Open seven days a week from 10:30 a.m. to 11:30 p.m. (to 12:30 a.m. Fridays and Saturdays).

IN SAN FRANCISCO, the San Franciscan Hotel on Market Street at the Civic Center, operated since last November by Pacific Southwest Airlines, has opened its new Corinthian dining room featuring French cuisine.

It's open for lunch from noon to 3 p.m. and for dinner from 6 to 11 p.m. Mondays through Fridays. Open Saturdays only through dinner hours and closed Sundays. There are fashion shows with modeling by PSA hostesses Wednesdays and Fridays at noon, and a steak cart allowing dinner guests to choose the cut and size of their steaks before serving.

ALSO IN SAN FRANCISCO — and this should be good for commuters — is a hofbrau called Day's on Ellis Street near Market, around the corner from Grodin's and Joseph Magnin's.

Fairfax Council Hikes Part-Time Pay Only

Fairfax City Council last night failed to reach a decision on pay raises for full-time city employees, but did grant five per cent raises on part-time salaries. (Another council story, page 1)

City Clerk-Administrator Frances Lestanguet had recommended an overall five per cent pay hike, while department heads sought 10 per cent.

Councilmen, apparently determined to hold the city tax rate at $1.74 per $100 assessed valuation, struggled with the salary question, but made little headway.

Fire chief Charles F. Thornton said it would be a bad move to hold the "tax line at the expense of city employees," but Mayor Frank J. Egger assured him this wasn't the intent.

After some floundering about how to proceed, the council agreed to go department by department, taking first part-time employees.

The first up for decision was part-time workers in the city office, and Councilman Francis O'Connell contended this would set the pattern for all raises.

If the council couldn't come up with more cuts in the budget, he would "stick to five per cent," O'Connell said.

Councilmen then discussed the idea of granting a five per cent increase retroactive to July 1 and then granting a 2.5 per cent raise in January, a proposal made earlier by Mayor Frank J. Egger.

They also discussed the possibility of reducing the reserve of $153,000 to meet the cost of pay raises above the 5 per cent recommended by Mrs. Lestanguet.

A motion to grant part-time workers in the city office 5 per cent now and 2.5 per cent in January was defeated by a 3-2 vote with Robert R. Souza, Cornelis Van Vliet and Lee Nelder voting no.

This brought a recess and then everyone sang "Happy Birthday" to Priscilla Gary of 126 Ridge Road, a frequent visitor at council sessions.

After the recess the council voted unanimously to grant a five per cent pay raise to the part-time workers in the city office.

They also approved a five per cent pay hike for the deputy city clerk by a 3-2 vote with O'Connell and Egger dissenting.

The councilmen, who had drastically cut the parks budget earlier this week to the dismay of the parks and recreation commission, made up for it a little by increasing the salary of Recreation Director Anthony J. Barbera.

They increased the salary for the part-time post from $3,300 to $4,200 a year by a 3-2 vote with Nelder and Souza dissenting.

Egger noting previous cuts in the parks and recreation budget backed the increase saying, "I feel the morale of the recreation commission will be downgraded to a point where we will lose more than one commissioner."

At the start of the meeting, Delores Dollahite, a commissioner for three years and former chairman, resigned effestice immediately.

She said it was evident to her that the majority of the council didn't share her concern for the pavilion and parks. "I feel that lack of concern by the city council is indicated by the budget cuts made Aug. 4."

Other changes approved by the council included increasing the hourly pay of a police cadet from $2.28 an hour to $2.52, and repair of Crest Road, Meerna Avenue drainage and repair of the bridge at Bridge Court, at an additional cost of $740.

FCC Clarifies Stand On TV-Politics Issues

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Communications Commission favors selling political fund-raising TV commercials, but is against forcing stations to sell time for controversial comment and granting Congress prime time.

The positions were outlined Thursday in FCC rulings and during Senate testimony — the latter by FCC Chairman Dean Burch — as the government overseer of the nation's airwaves clarified its position on some political-television issues.

Cabbie Aided In Arrest Of RFK Son

BARNSTABLE, Mass. (UPI) —The taxi driver who took Robert F. Kennedy Jr. to retrieve a pet falcon July 10 was an undercover narcotics agent whose actions led to the arrest of the boy and his cousin Robert Sargent Shriver III on marijuana charges that night, it was learned today. (See also photo, page 2.)

UPI also learned the two youths will be leaving the Kennedy Compound on Nantucket Sound "as soon as possible" to spend time with relatives.

Kennedy, son of the assassinated New York Senator, will return to McLean, Va., while young Shriver, Kennedy's cousin and son of the former ambassador to France, will go to New York, a family source said.

Kennedy's pet falcon escaped July 8 and the boy broke his right wrist falling from a tree when he tried to retrieve him. Two days later, the bird was captured in Cohasset, about 60 miles across Cape Cod Bay, near Boston.

Young Kennedy took a taxi to Cohasset to recover the bird that day, the 10th. The taxi driver "was definitely an undercover agent" investigating the rise of narcotics use on Cape Cod, a police source said. He declined to identify the driver-agent or elaborate on the way in which he helped in the arrests.

The names of the two youths were taken by authorities the night of the 10th in a drug raid in Hyannis Port but not in the family compound. The incident was not revealed until Wednesday, a day after the boys were served with juvenile warrants charging them with illegal possession of marijuana and conspiracy to violate the state drug laws.

They appeared Thursday in the Juvenile Session of District Court and received a stern lecture from the judge, who continued their case along with those of 100 other juveniles—all reportedly first offenders, like Kennedy and Shriver—for a year without finding.

Candidate Vows Target Is Phosphates In Detergents

Peter H. Behr, Republican candidate for state Senate from the Fourth District, today promised to introduce legislation to ban all phosphates from detergents if elected and if similar federal legislation fails to pass.

Behr, at a lunch meeting of the Vallejo Rotary Club yesterday, claimed that detergents were "The major pollutant of Bay Area waters."

(State studies of bay pollution, however, unanimously conclude that domestic sewage is the major source of pollution.

(The state studies also have suggested that the major source of phosphates is domestic sewage, although this probability is still being studied by the state.)

Phosphates encourage the growth of algae, which then bloom in areas of restricted circulation, thus consuming the same oxygen needed for fish life.

Citing detergent manufacturers' claims that phosphates are needed in their products as a water softener, Behr said that the Bay Area "has the softest water found in the state."

The legislation pending in Congress would ban all phosphates from detergents after June 30, 1971.

Take $320 In Clothes

Robert Edward Keefer, a salesman from Sacramento, told San Rafael police that $321 in clothing was taken from his car between 9:10 and 9:25 p.m. yesterday while he was registering at the Bermuda Palms Motel at 737 Francisco Boulevard.

Purchasing Power Declines In June

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Despite higher wages, Californians' purchasing power declined in June because of rising prices, the Department of Industrial Relations said today.

Hourly earnings of factory workers rose to $3.79, a new high and 17 cents an hour over the comparable figure last year. But workers with three dependents found their purchasing power decreased by 1.7 per cent for June. A single worker was able to purchase 1.4 per cent less because of higher retail prices.

The June salary average of $150.08 per week increased 2.1 per cent over the 1969 figures, the smallest gain in three years.

Novato Sanitary Board's Agenda

The Novato Sanitary District board will review the 1970-71 operations budget of $297,765 at 8 p.m. Monday at the North Marin County Water District office.

Last year's operations cost was $263,881.

The board will also consider the annexation of the San Marin East development at Highway 101 and San Marin Drive, plan approval for Western Oaks Village Unit No. 1 development and an outside service agreement with William Tarrant for property currently in annexation proceedings.

Possible New Source Of Power Discovered

RIVERSIDE (UPI) — Steam and hot water wells in Imperial Valley which may provide a major source of water and pollution-free power, have been located by a research team from the University of California at Riverside, it was disclosed Wednesday.

Dr. Robert Rex, team leader and professor of geology at UC Riverside, said in a report that the seven new geothermal fields stretching through the Imperial Valley south to northern Mexico will provide sufficient power for the projected needs of California for the rest of the century.

"If developed successfully," Rex said, "This new power resource has the capacity for restructuring the entire economy of the southwestern United States and northern Mexico. As one measure of this fact, our studies indicate these new geothermal fields have an electrical power potential fifteen times that of Hoover Dam when it is operating at capacity."

The underground "hot ocean" is actually a series of geothermal steam fields bubbling at temperatures exceeding 500 degrees and along with its power potential, could produce more than seven million acre-feet of distilled water annually for at least three decades.

"More important," Rex added, "geothermal power can be completely pollution-free. It does not contaminate the environment."

It was estimated the wells could provide fresh water cheaper than the Feather River project with desalination. "Geothermal water desalination would produce distilled water that could not only augment Colorado River water, but maintain its quality as well," Rex said.

The fields, produced when superhot rocks meet cold underground water, were considered uneconomic for producing either energy or water before the study due to the high salinity found in samples obtained in and near the Salton Sea.

Although the fields adjacent to the Salton Sea are highly saline, Rex said the study proved conclusively that this is not the case with the other steam fields located elsewhere in the valley.

The new discoveries are located in the following areas:

— North Brawley, near the city of Brawley.

— East Brawley, near the city of Brawley.

— Heber, near Calexico.

— Glamis, east of the Algodones Dunes.

— Dunes, near the Coachella Canal east of Holtville.

— Alamo, near the international border.

— Mesa, on East Mesa east of Holtville.

Terra Linda Park Center Announces Planned Activities

A pet show tomorrow from 1 to 2 p.m., a teen dance next Friday from 8 to 11 p.m. and an Aug. 15 soft ball at 3 p.m., all to be held at the Terra Linda Recreation Park District Center, have been announced by director Fran Traina.

All owners of pets are invited to enter their animals and prizes will be awarded, the director said.

Pony rides will be held from 1 to 3 p.m., she said.

A local group, Spring Fever, provide music for the dance.

The softball game will be played by fathers and sons who will later have a swim and an award dinner, she said.

Papers Reveal John Jay As Liberal Type

NEW YORK (UPI)—Rare papers previously unpublished reveal founding father John Jay wasn't as conservative as earlier thought. He helped procure cannon for the defense of the Hudson River against the British.

The papers, lost for almost two centuries, were presented Thursday to Columbia University by the class of 1925 through an unidentified collector.

Jay, the first Chief Justice of the United States and co-author of the Federalist Papers, had previously expressed hopes of conciliation with the British. But his gun-smuggling activities apparently began two weeks after the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

The prominent New York lawyer wrote about visiting "the works" in Salisbury, Conn. in July, 1776 to procure "as many cannon for the defense of the Hudson River as the state of Connecticut can conveniently supply."

RACE ON HORSEBACK

Preparing For 100 Grueling Miles

By PAT BALMES

Five Marin women will attempt to ride horseback 100 mountainous miles on Aug. 15 in the most grueling of all endurance races. This 16th annual Western States 100 Miles One Day Race will attract about 150 racers from the United States and abroad to vie for the Tevis Cup on the pioneer route from California gold mines to the silver lode of Nevada over the Sierra Nevada.

The Western States Trail, descending 7,430 feet through canyons from Tahoe City to Auburn, is almost as much of a wilderness as when the Washoe Indians used it before the Gold Rush in 1848. Afterward it was used by miners and express riders from the mining camps. In 1852, riders from the Auburn Wells Fargo and Company office carried mail and treasure for the mining camps. The Tevis Cup, named for Lloyd Tevis who was the company's president between 1872 and 1892, is awarded to the rider whose horse finishes first in good condition in the opinion of the judges and after veterinary examination.

The Haggin Cup, named for James Haggin, pioneer president of Anaconda Copper Co., is presented to the entrant whose horse is among the first 10 to arrive after dark at the Auburn fairgrounds and is in superior condition.

Silver buckles are presented to all who finish the 100 miles within 24 hours with horses in good condition. Last year 55 of the 125 starters finished.

THIS YEAR'S Marin equestrienne contenders range in age from the mother of grown daughters to high-school girls.

Mrs. W. L. McCall of Greenbrae explains, "Youth is not a prerequisite to finishing the 100 miles. There are more people my age than young people. To get in condition I do exercises. I ride early every morning and many evenings, too. I want to take off eight pounds so my equipment and I will just make the 150-pound minimum weight requirement."

Nancy McCall is particularly gratified to be able to enter her first 100 mile endurance race. The trim horsewoman says, "Five years ago I had major surgery and was told by my doctor that I might never be able to ride again."

"On an endurance ride you feel the whole world is your oyster. You ride alone at your own pace; a flat walk or a trot. I think more people should get out of their shells and do things like this. I never was much of a cake-baker," she winks.

Nancy confesses she's a "little terrified" of her first 100-miles-in-one-day race. "I rode last night until 11 p.m. Spooky!" The date of the race is chosen for a full moon, "But when you get into those canyons at about 10:30 p.m. it's pitch dark. You have to trust your horse. He can sense things in the dark. We carry flashlights because it's dark when we cross No Hands Bridge, which stretches over a canyon with no guard rail."

Seven veterinarian check points protect the horses from ignorance or cruel treatment. "I would never push Rashann even if I weren't governed. I think too much of my Arabian," says Nancy. "And I want to look forward to this again!"

"AT CHECK points I'll change my clothes and my horse's saddle blanket. I wear thermo long-johns to protect my legs, even though the temperature goes over 100 degrees. I carry Gatorade and a sponge to cool my horse at the river. Security riders find stragglers and hustle them along between vet stops. It is a well-organized ride with good communication from jeeps and walkie-talkies. At the three one-hour veterinarian check points, you just rest and let your back-up crew take care of your horse," says the veteran of two previous Tevis Cup "pit-stop" crews.

"The day after the race you don't think you are going to be able to walk!" laughs Nancy, who has promised to be in Santa Rosa on Aug. 16 to help with a horseshow. As vice president of the California State Horsemen's Association, Nancy says, "Conservationists and horsemen's interests are tied together." Nancy is on the committee of the newly-formed Marin Trails Council, which is working to establish hiking and riding trails from Marin headlands to Tomales Point.

Another entry, Mrs. Richard Whittington of Mill Valley, will be competing with her father and brother. This mother of two gradeschool children says, "Finding time to train has been hard because of the children. I quit work to do this. We've been riding in endurance races with my father and brother all year round. Taking care of horses will keep you in shape. You have to ride a lot to develop muscles and calluses. Last year in the Tevis Cup Race my Dad, who is 68, had bloody legs from sores rubbed by his Western saddle. I wear thermo underwear, tight pants and wrap my legs in cotton bandages. Instead of boots, I wear moccasins so I can run faster up and down hills beside my horse."

"The night before the race I camp out with the horses. I watch them out of the corner of my eye. If somebody in camp begins to move around, they start nickering for breakfast. At 3 a.m. I feed them and eat breakfast, but that's my only meal on race day," says Jeanne Whittington.

"MY HUSBAND is back-up crew. At vet stops they worry more about the horse than about me. They change the horse's pads and blanket to protect him from rubs. I can never relax enough to lay down and rest. I watch my horse. If he eats well, I ride him slowly when I start away from the stop. You try to get a maximum of food in him," explaines the endurance rider.

Jeanne rode in the Diamond Race in the Mt. Lassen area in July, but chose to go only 50 of the 100 miles. "It was good preparation for the Tevis: 100 degrees at the bottom and snow at the top. I became terribly dehydrated, because I'm too excited to eat on these rides. Candy and drinks are my answer, but I drank so much Gatorade I had cramps!" she says.

Three more Marin contenders are training their horses under the supervision of veterinarian Jim Steere at the Wilkins Ranch in Bolinas. The 100-year-old dairy ranch is a potential corridor between the Marin Water District and the southern end of Pt. Reyes. "We hope to effect its purchase with the help of Nature Conservancy," says the veterinarian.

Riders Leslie Steere of Bolinas, 17; Vickie Anderson of Novato, 16 and Mary Tiscornia of Bolinas, 25, reminisce ruefully with Dr. Steere about their months of grueling riding to prepare for last year's Tevis Cup Race. The veterinari-

RUNNING DOWNHILL with their horses conditions Mary Tiscornia, left Vickie Anderson and Leslie Steere for the Tevis Cup Race. To sapre their horses legs, they will dismount and run down slopes leading their mounts. The average horse requires six months hard riding to get into condition for the 100 mountainous miles in 24 hours according to Leslie's veterinarian father. "The object is not only to complete the ride, but to complete it with horses in good shape and ready to go the next day," he says.

CHECKING HEART and respiration after Mary Tiscornia has exercised, veterinarian Jim Steere says, "What we are trying to determine at the seven check points along the 100 miles is if the horse has the capacity to go on. We check for the look of fatigue, condition of muscles, his interest in eating and whether the horse can move freely."

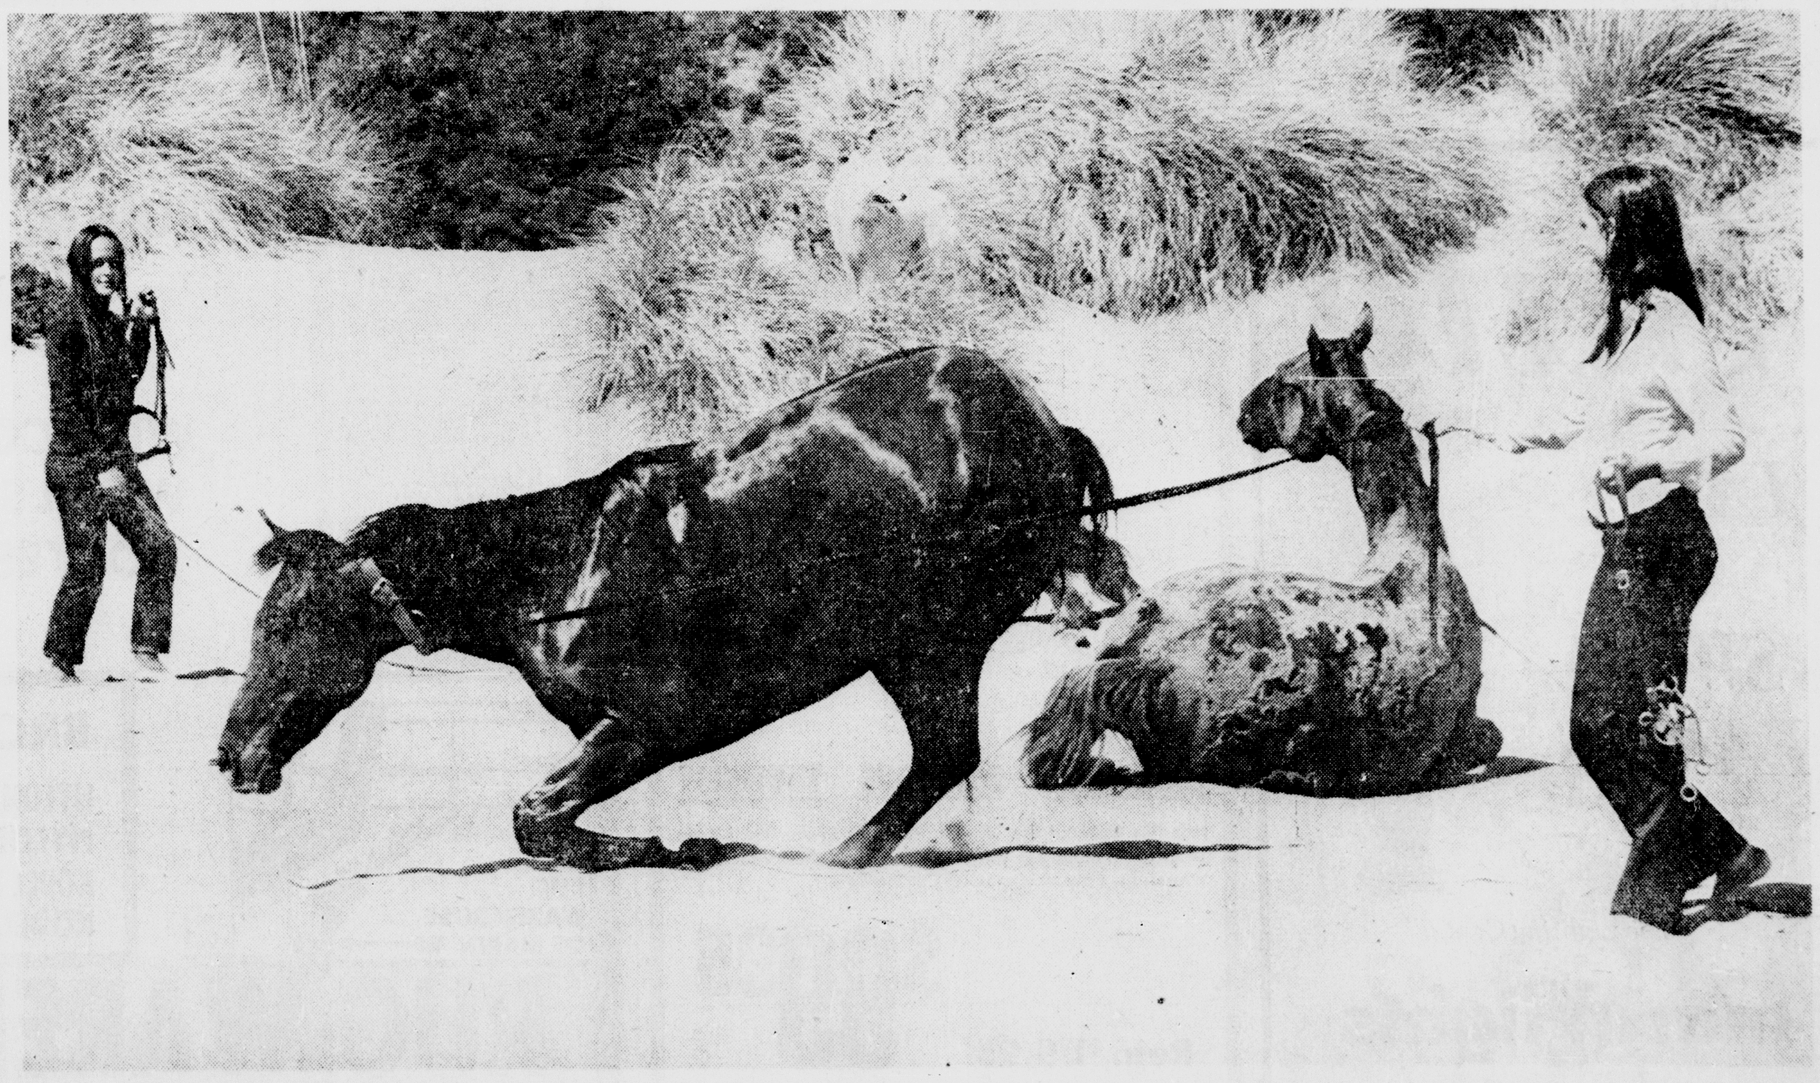
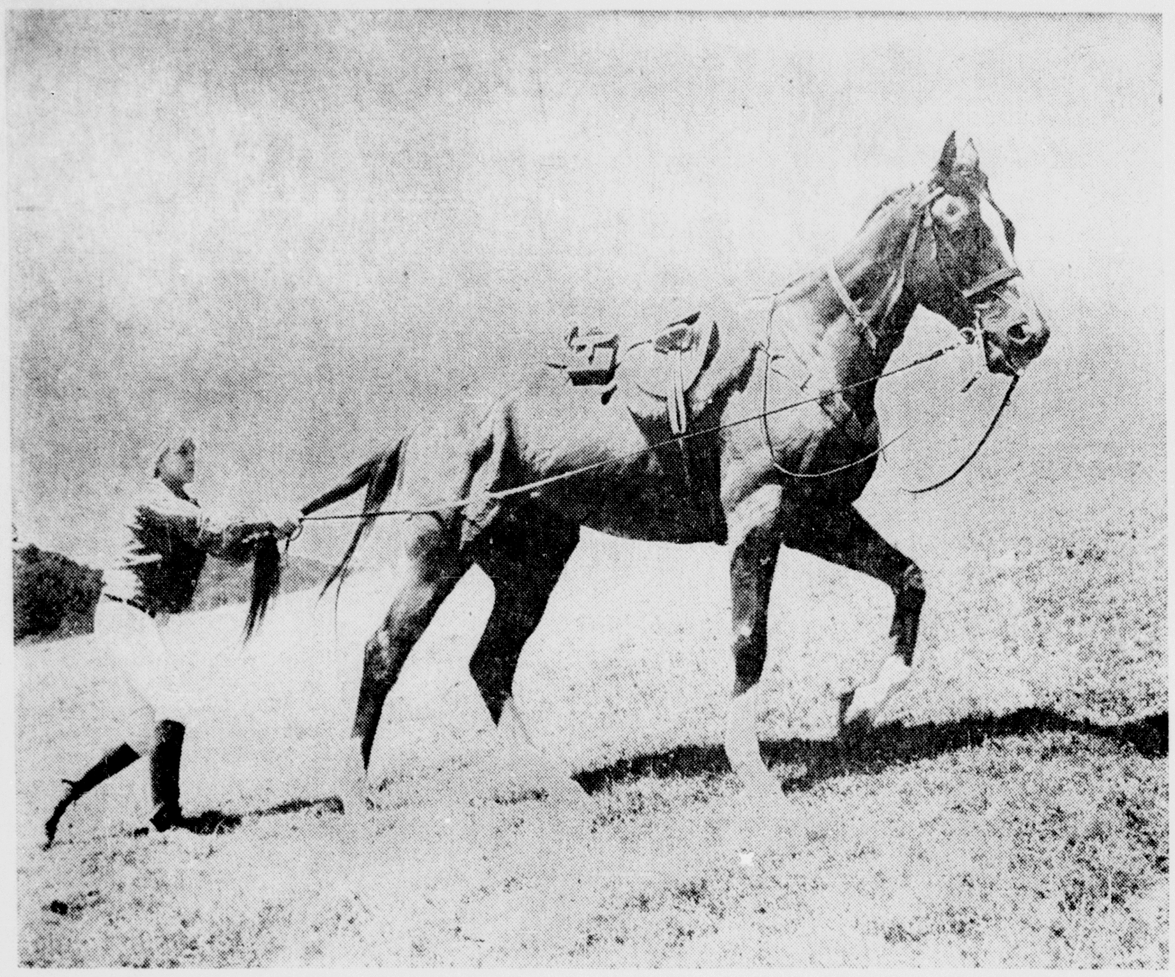
SWIMMING IN deep water in the inlet between Stinson Beach and Bolinas, Mary Tiscornia, left, and Vickie Anderson condition their horses for the Western States 100 Miles One Day Race on Saturday, August 15. They warn, "You have to do it when the tide's coming out. When it comes in you get caught in a cross current. We almost drowned the first time! Ever since then we've been more careful."



STANDING CLEAR while their wet horses roll after a swim in the Pacific, drenched Leslie Steere, left and Vickie Anderson report, "We swim the horses two or three times a week. They love it. When they see the water they want to get right in. We can hardly stop them! Working on the sand is good for their legs and wind and easy on their feet." The Marin teen-agers are conditioning their mounts to travel 100 miles in 24 hours over a grueling Sierra trail. (Independent-Journal photos by Bob Hax)



MARY TISCORNIA "tails-up" a steep slope to spare her thoroughbred. The mountainous Western States Trail requires climbing in and out of deep canyons. Mary explains, "We stand the horses in the deepest holes we can find in the river at the bottom of the canyons, sponge them off and let them drink. We let other riders race by. After 20 minutes of the cooling rest, our horses can zoom up those c a n y o n s." (Independent-Journal photo)

an's daughter recounts, "The start was at 5 a.m. But we slept right t h r o u g h the alarm!"

They talk of training on "trust-your-horses" mountain trails. "If you get scared," says Vickie. "Your horse gets scared too."

Mary, who already won her silver buckle for completing the 100 miles, advises the younger girls, "Don't pay attention to other riders. You have to rely on your own judgment as to the condition of your horse and travel at your own pace."

"H o r s e s demand constant discipline," she says. "They are a good preparation for raising children."

THE BEGINNING and end of the race is run in the dark. "You have to trust your horse on stony trails. They seem to have radar at night, you just go with them" says Mary. "When I became fatigued I got hallucinations. I saw what can happen to my judgment when I get tired." She explains that she began to race other riders instead of concentrating on riding at the pace best for her tiring horse.

Dr. Steere explains, "When you get into this kind of riding when you and your horse are under stress, you have to know how much you can push that horse. You learn an awful lot about yourself, as well as horsemanship. You should be able to do this without hurting your horse. He s h o u l d be ready to go the next day. The gals did this in the 70-mile Napa ride recently. The horses were fine. They completed the ride with the horses in good shape the next day."

"Leslie's horse, Red-Leather Fire Engine, has been doing e n d u r a n c e racing for four years. He never lost any condition over the winter and was ready to go again in the spring without any hard work on conditicning," says her father.

"I have three basic rules for myself or people training with me for endurance racing," says the member of the veterinarian committee for the Tevis Cup.

"1. Get ourselves in good physical condition, along with the horse, by lots of jogging along side of our horses," says the veteran of the Tevis Cup Race.

"2. We should not ride in an endurance race unless we and our horses are in condition to complete the ride in the alloted time. If you don't know if you and your horse are ready, you are not yet horseman enough to compete. There is no place in endurance races for the mechanic on horseback that pushes the throttle until his horse drops from fatigue," he warns.

"3. The criteria for success is not winning, but completing the ride and, the next day having your horse sound and rested and ready to do the ride again if asked to," says Dr. Steere.

A RESEARCH-project-on-horseback that he and Dr. Jerry Gillespie, who heads the research laboratory studying pulmonary emphysema at D a v i s, are performing is on the oxygen and carbon dioxide exchange in the cardio-pulmonary system of the athletic horse. The veterinarians are interested in what happens when an animal gets into condition.

"Why does one person or one animal do better than another?" they question.

They have performed operations on two endurance horses so that, when ridden, blood samples may be drawn from the artery through a catheter. The oxygen, carbon dioxide and blood PH is measured during various phases of the 30-mile rides they take once in month over and around Mt. Tamalpais and the Water District.

Blood samples are rushed on ice by motorcycle to a laboratory t e c h n i c a n at Wilkins Ranch.

"So if you see horses with strange tubes coming out of their necks and two riders d r a w i n g blood samples as their horses top the crest of Bolinas Ridge or Mt. Tam, you can be assured the riders are not ghouls but two dedicated horsemen-veterinarians w h o h a v e successfully combined the pleasure of riding with the excitement of research," says James Steere, D.V.M.

"I'D RATHER RIDE the 100 miles myself than be back-up crew again. The waiting and woryring about our entry was awful," remembers Mrs. W. L. McCall, showing photographs taken at veterinarian check points on two previous T e v i s Cup rides. "We drove and hiked in to all the check points we could reach, carrying food, drink and a pad for him to rest on and rubbing alcohol for his horse."

Stutterer Of Good Singing Voice Wonders How To Stop Stuttering

DEAR HELEN:

I stutter. All through school I wouldn't talk before a class because I knew what would happen. The only time I didn't stutter was when I sang. I have a good singing voice.

I have a wonderful husband who is very patient with me. Sometimes I don't stutter when talking to him, and sometimes I do. I can't remember anything that might have caused this. But how do I get over it? — STUTTERER

DEAR STUTTERER:

You're sure of yourself when you sing, for you know your voice is good. But when you talk, you "know what will happen" so it does. Your self-consciousness ties your tongue in knots.

A speech therapist can help you untie those knots, but don't expect overnight miracles. You can't undo the habits and fears of a lifetime without a great deal of work. Good luck. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Marilyn and I were married when she was 16 and I was 19. We ignored the warnings of elders about being too young — and for the first two years we were very happy.

I continued my education at night and worked full time during the day. We had a baby. We felt proud that things were going so well, in spite of financial difficulties.

Then Marilyn began working as a waitress on the nights when I didn't have a class. The extra income helped. I thought it would give her a break from house routine. That was the biggest mistake I ever made.

Soon she was working full time, and then she became a cocktail waitress (after lying about her age). It didn't take long before my sweet, wonderful girl became cold and insensitive. Her lust for money and the things it could buy grew out of proportion.

Four months ago she told me she had stopped loving me and for me to leave. After two months of utter loneliness, I tried dating again, and found some wonderful girls, but Helen, I can't get over loving my wife. She won't change her mind. It's over for her.

How does a man destroy a love that has built up over five years, and start a new life? — DEAR R.:

. . . By not living in the past. Y o u ' r e remembering a 16-year-old sweetheart, not a 21-year-old cocktail waitress who (if you met today for the first time) you might not even like. People change. Some grow up, others grow down. And love isn't forever unless both partners work at it. You'll see how right I am within a year. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I'd like to offer another possible help to the boy with the bigoted father. Encourage him to attend evening college classes. He'll probably be with people of all races and will learn they're all the same — just human. Maybe he could take Black History, or Black Economics (a real eye-opener for everyone). I took Black Sociology — got into it accidentally, and decided it would be fun. Although I didn't consider myself prejudiced or bigoted, I was amazed at the things I learned.

Sane people only need a little nudge to get over those ingrained ideas that they've never r e a l l y questioned before. — WAKING UP

Bay Area Yachtsmen To Attend Dinner Dance At Belvedere Club

Sailing togs will be worn to San Francisco Yacht Club's Regatta Dinner Dance on Saturday at the Belvedere clubhouse. Affiliated yachtsmen of the Yacht Racing Association, who will be challenging SFYC sailors in this weekend's races, will attend also.

SFYC's entertainment chairman, Joe Madrigali, appointed Mrs. G.A. Gast of Belvedere the evening's chairman. Assisting are Mmes. L.W. Colby and William Healy.

The burgee-decorated dining room will be the scene for cocktails at 6:30 p.m., a roast beef dinner at 8 p.m. and dancing.

DANCERS, INSTRUMENTALISTS, vocalists and a clown will entertain at the spaghetti dinner Saturday at 5 p.m., sponsored by the San Rafael Assembly 195 International Order of Rainbow for Girls at the Masonic Hall in San Rafael.

Cindy Hill and Jane Van Dyke are chairmen, and tickets will be available at the door.

THE WOMEN'S International League for Peace and Freedom, in conjunction with the Marin Peace Coalition, will present a free, public workshop on the "Aspects of the Draft" Tuesday and Wednesday at the Mill Valley Drop-In House at 550 Miller Avenue. The two-day session will feature speakers and seminars on the various aspects of the draft system.

Scheduled speakers include Rear Admiral Arnold True, speaking on "The Realities of a Volunteer Army"; Dennis Allen from the Friends Committee on Legislation, on "The Hatfield-Goldwater Amendment" and "Repealing the Draft," and Norman Leach, chairman of World Federalist Youth, on "Universal Military Training", and "National Service".

Tuesday's session will begin at 7:30 p.m. and Wednesday's program will start at 9 a.m.

ROSS VALLEY DeMolay Mother's Club is having a fashion show and luncheon on Wednesday at noon at the Masonic Lodge in Larkspur. All the clothes shown will be made of knit fabrics.

Proceeds from the luncheon will benefit the Ross Valley DeMolay.

CORINTHIAN YACHT Club's traditional Shipwreck Party will be held at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the Belvedere clubhouse. Harold Monozon is chairman of the dinner.

Club members are invited to come in costume; whatever clothes they think they might be caught in if their ship sunk suddenly. Judges of women's costumes will be David Golden, Colby Howe and Elbe Kramer. Men's costumes will be judged by Mmes. Ken Mason, Loran Mebine and Harold McGlynn.

ST. ANSELM'S YOUNG Ladies' Institute 98 will have an official visit from the newly elected grand president, Elizabeth Aherne, Wednesday at 8:15 p.m. Miss Aherne is a member of Our Lady of Lourdes Institute 20 in San Francisco.

Chairman for the evening, Mrs. Jack Benz, will be assisted by co-chairman, Mrs. Walter Milani, and Mmes. Eric Besozzi, Joseph Cordone, Clarence Curtin, John Daly, James Kealey, Louis Lucarotti, Remo Simontacchi, Frank Sousa, James Turrini and Miss Loretto O'Rourke.

THE LEOETTES of Corte Madera will hold their installation of officers tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Sheldon Schwebel in Corte Madera.

To be installed as president will be Mrs. Norman Graves with Mrs. Winston Parker as secretary and Mrs. Edward Sabo as treasurer. Following the installation the Leoettes will have a party with an astrology theme the chairman of which is Mrs. Sheldon Schwebel.

THE SUBURBAN SCENE

Greece, Canada Beckon Marinites

By MOLLY MARIN

The Greek Islands, especially Athens, were the highlight of a five weeks' European trip from which the Perry Jacksons and their daughter Susan returned to Sausalito this week.

During their tour of five of the islands they fell in love with Greece, Mrs. Jackson said, and were surprised to hear the people say they were very happy with the present regime because business is better. That may have been what they were told to say, she noted.

The Jacksons went first to London to visit cousins. They also stopped at Istanbul, which they found interesting. Highlight of two weeks in Italy was staying at the Cipriano Hotel in Venice. It has the reputation of being the "in" place to go with fashionable people. Mrs. Jackson says, and she and Susan enjoyed a show every night of the most beautiful clothes they had ever seen.

WITH HIS Australian warbride of 25 years ago, L.W. Colby of Belvedere marked his silver wedding anniversary with an "inside passage" ferry boat round trip from Vancouver Island to Prince Rupert, British Columbia.

"We chose the right week for our vacation," says Mrs. Colby, explaining that during the following week the Alaska-bound boat which connects with that ferry ran aground, and on another run the ferry was hit by a Russian freighter.

GIFTS FOR the bride's kitchen were presented to Kathy Moore at a shower on Wednesday at the Belvedere home of Mrs. John Ericson. Co-hostessing the luncheon was Mrs. Ericson's daughter, Robin, who will be Kathy's bridesmaid on Aug. 22 at St. Stephen's Church in Belvedere.

Kathy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Moore of Belvedere, plans to wed Michael Malloy of Reno, Nev., a law student at University of San Francisco in a small ceremony.

THE 24 BOYS and girls from La Paz, Mexico, who are participants in the exchange program under the direction of Tamalpais High School Spanish teacher Anthony A. Medrano, will be entertained tonight at a party hosted by the John A. Thomsons of Mill Valley.

First the 70 guests, including the families the students from Mexico are living with until the end of August, will swim at the Mill Valley Tennis Club from 5 to 6:30 p.m. and then go to the Thomsons' for a potluck dinner.

Games for the children and dancing for the teen-agers unti 10 p.m. will conclude the evening. Edmundo Gonzales, who is living with the Thomsons, is making the pinata to be filled with goodies.

The group was also entertained recently at two dinner parties hosted by the Stanley H. Andersons in Mill Valley, and last week they met for an afternoon of games and a potluck dinner at Paradise Park.

ON BEING BLACK

Little Readers Know All

By SANDRA HAGGERTY

"You guys gonna eat that?" Our 7-year-old screwed up her face as she motioned toward our plates on the breakfast table.

"East what?" I responded, scanning my breakfast in search of some heretofore hidden foreign object.

"That's bacon."

"Well, I had planned to."

"It's pork, you know."

"Yes, I know, dear." (Seven-year-olds have a habit of assuming that parents were born yesterday.) "What about it?"

"You can get worms from pork, you know."

"Huh?" I was hungry, so my guard was temporarily down.

"Yeah, trichinosis."

"Oh brother," her father moaned. He was obviously in need of some fill-in information.

"Ummmm, Kendall's been reading your freshman biology book."

"My what?"

"Yeah," I sighed, "they have a chapter on human parasites."

"Reading!" He shook his head understandingly.

I nodded in agreement.

NOW, LEST we be misunderstood, we are pleased and delighted that Kendall has mastered the art of reading. But ever since that day, some three years ago, when she discovered that written words communicate ideas, she has almost driven us crazy — reading everything in sight. You know, like the instruction pamphlets inside those little boxes that I have carefully placed on the top shelf of the medicine cabinet or tucked neatly away in a dresser drawer and so on.

But back to the breakfast table.

"The trichina worm is taken into the body by eating pork that contains live trichinella larvae."

Three-year-old Gillian began to wail. "Worms, where are the worms? I don't want to eat any worms!"

Kendall carried on, dazzling us with her latest area of expertise.

"The female worm carries thousands of eggs and . . ."

"Oh brother." Sam was turning green. "Do we have to discuss it right now?"

Kendall, sensitive child that she is, recognized his need for comfort. "Well, daddy, the worms are killed if the pork is cooked done enough. This is, well, almost burned, so you can eat your bacon."

"Thank you."

"But I'm not eating any!"

SUFFICE IT to say that breakfast lost its enthusiastic aura that morning.

"Oh, oh," Miss Authority cautioned herself as we ordered sandwiches at a lunch counter. "Is ham pork?"

"Yes it is." (Impossible to lie to a kid who can read!)

"That's too bad. I like ham, too." She shrugged her shoulders. "I'll have a cheese sandwich. Cheese is a dairy product, you know."

"Yes, I know."

AFTER A few weeks, our pork indoctrination was so complete that we had all been noticeably affected by it. I had stopped buying pork altogether. At the supermarket my daughter's words echoed in a corner of my mind. "The female worm deposits thousands of eggs . . ."

Gillian sided unquestionably with her big sister. She wasn't about to eat a worm either.

But the person most affected by the pork purge was her father. I didn't realize just how intimidated he was until one evening he whispered, yes, whispered, in my ear, "After Kendall goes to sleep, I'm going around the corner to the Barbecue Pit and get us an order of pork ribs to eat while we are watching the late show."

"Good idea," I whispered in agreement.

WELL, IT must be true that all illicit activity comes back on you, because who should get up for a drink of water and wander into the living room that night — Miss Pork Purger.

Sam looked like he had just been discovered burying a dead body. After sending Kendall back to bed and rolling on the floor laughing at ourselves, we decided to add to Kendall's reading list, placing a book of proverbs — which espoused such principles as "to each his own" and "one man's pain is another man's pleasure" — on her desk.

Read on, my dear.

Adults' Vocabulary

NEW YORK (UPI) —How many words does the average adult have in his reading vocabulary? About 30,000 to 40,000 according to Dr. William LaPlante, director of curriculum and materials development of Borg-Warner Educational Systems.

Keep Them Cool

Eggs and poultry are vulnerable to high temperatures. At picnics, high temperatures may cause a buildup of certain food poisoning organisms. If a barbecue is planned, the chicken should be kept cool until cooked and served immediately after cooking. Egg salads should be kept cool at all times, preferably in an ice chest.

Disneyland Bans Long Hairs

'Yippies,' Police In Skirmish

ANAHEIM, Calif. (UPI)—Disneyland officials banned all long haired youths from the Magic Kingdom following a confrontation between police and 300 "undesirables" that culminated in the park closing six hours early Thursday night.

Twelve young persons were arrested on charges stemming from the evening skirmish between nearly 100 officers and the participants in a so-called "National Yippie Day," proclaimed by dissidents for the famed tourist attraction. Six others were arrested during the day on charges of trespassing and illegal entry.

"It is unfortunate for a lot of young people that have long hair but a very small group forces us to draw this line," said Jack Lindquist, a Disneyland official.

"REALLY TOUGH"

He said a "really tough" grooming standard would accompany the long hair edict that went into effect today.

The unscheduled closure, only the second in the 15-year history of the park, came after the group of hippie-type youths, described by officials as 'undesirables," marched up main street—chanting and singing—and attempted to enter several shops en masse.

The officers, wearing facial shields and carrying gas masks and batons, moved in and in some cases bodily removed the group from the park.

According to advance notices of "Yippie Day" in the underground press, the long hair invasion was to observe the anniversary of the first atomic bomb attack on Japan.

"Those underground idiot sheets advertised it, but they said it would be close to 80,000 yippies (showing up)," Ken Clements, a spokesman for the Anaheim police department said. "I don't consider 300 significant at all."

ATTENDANCE DOWN

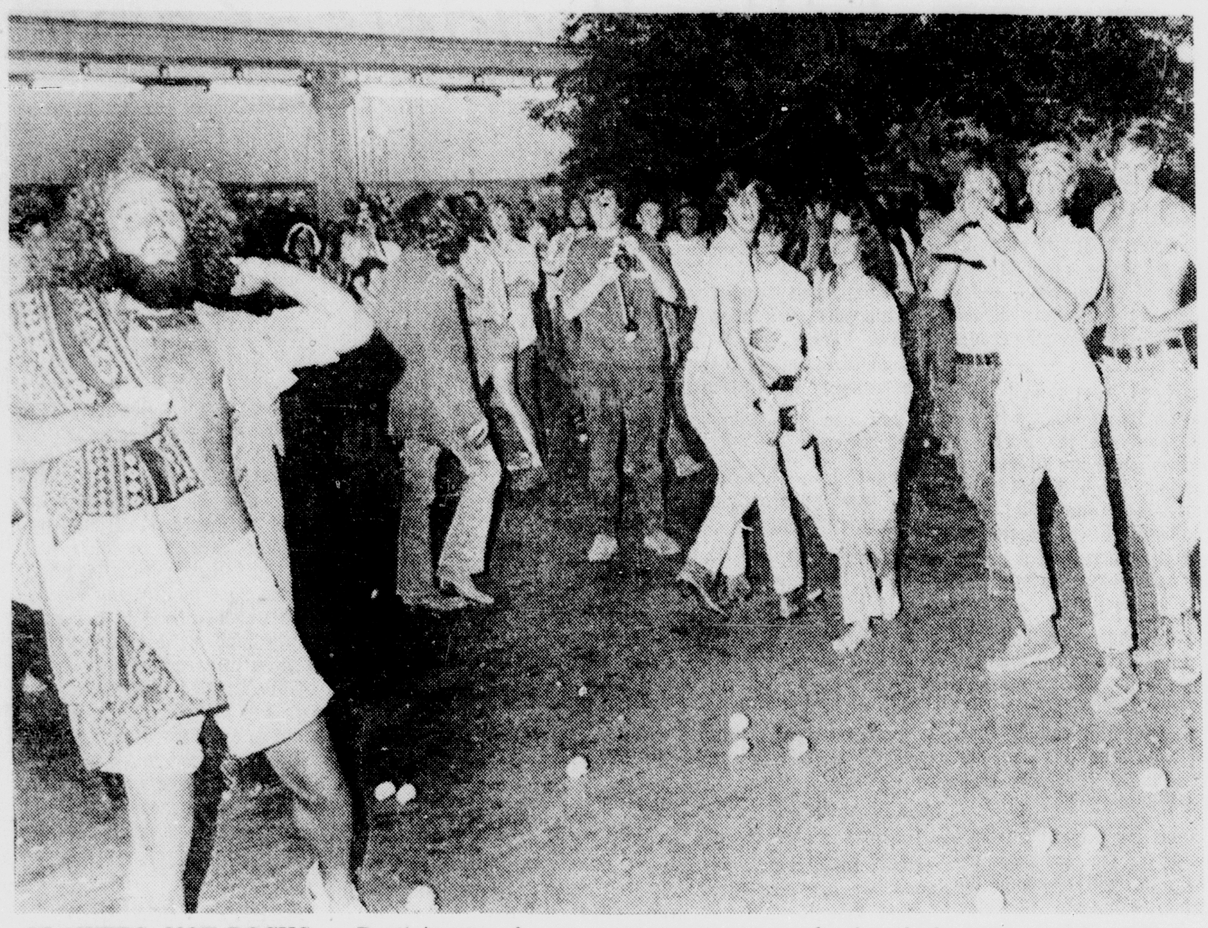
Overall attendance for the day was 46,000, slightly lower than normal. The park usually closes at 1 a.m. but was shut down at 7:30 p.m. When officials announced the closure over loudspeakers, many tourists knew nothing of the disturbance and asked policemen as they left why the park was being shut down.

During the day the group of dissidents marched down main street and into Frontierland singing the Mickey Mouse Club song and obscene chants.

The group took over Tom Sawyer Island and eventually ran off all the tourists. They displayed a Viet Cong flag from the fort on the island and, chanting "legalize marijuana," unveiled a flag embellished with a dark green marijuana leaf.

Disneyland officials said members of the group also passed around marijuana and smoked it during their island stay.

The only other unscheduled closure of the park was a memorial gesture following the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.



FLOWERS, NOT ROCKS — Participants of a so-called "National Yippie Day" toss flowers at police at Disneyland following a confrontation in which 12 youths were arrested. Officials of the amusement park closed the gates early yesterday to avoid further scuffles and banned all long-haired youths.

Sooner Governor Nips Rock Festival

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Gov. Dewey Bartlett had sent state troopers to stop a rock festival planned for this weekend near Sulphur, Okla., and Max E. Sulcer, sponsor of the festival, was mad.

"All those Gestapo at the gate," Sulcer said Thursday after troopers cleared out the site of the rock festival. "You would think it was Heil Hitler Day."

It didn't look like Sulcer would get his festival, but another festival was in full swing before it began near Jackson, Mich., and a federal court approved a 10-hour festival in Philadelphia on Sunday. Officials in a Pennsylvania township were trying to halt a rock festival there planned for Aug. 28-30.

Promoters of the festival near Jackson had expected 60,000 young people—each paying $15 for three days of music by 21 bands—but Michigan State Police said up to 70,000 persons had come to the 39-acre Goose Lake Park Thursday night—12 hours before the first band was to begin today.

Police said 15 or 20 of the new arrivals were arrested on violating a state law which prohibits commercial concerts on Sunday.

The promoter of the festival is Peace, Inc., an organization which raises campaign money for peace candidates. The chairman of the fund distribution committee is former U.S. Attorney General Ramsey Clark.

In Oklahoma, District Court Judge Bob Howell ordered the site of the proposed Turner Falls Rock Festival grounds near Sulphur padlocked Thursday after Bartlett told him the festival would be held Saturday and Sunday despite an injunction against it.

Bartlett mobilized 300 National Guardsman and sent 100 highway patrolmen to the site of the festival in southern Oklahoma's Arbuckle Mountain, and closed highways leading to Turner Falls.

Bartlett said he saw films of last weekend's Powder Ridge Rock Festival at Middlefield, Conn.

"Now the amazing thing about the Powder Ridge Festival was the fact that it was banned by a court injunction . . . but some 30,000 people put themselves above the law . . . and converged on Powder Ridge as if the court didn't even exist," Bartlett said.

Sulcer, manager of the park narcotics charges, but there were no serious incidents. A 400-man private police force kept the peace, and watched a 12-foot-high electrified barbed wire fence to keep out easy riders.

The Strawberry Fields Festival begins today in Mosport, Ont., some 90 miles northeast of Toronto and 750 miles from its original location in Moncton, New Brunswick. Canadian immigration authorities are turning back thousands of Americans at the border.

After a U.S. District Court judge approved a 10-hour rock festival in Philadelphia Sunday state and local governments asked an appeals court to reverse the decision. Gov. Raymond P. Shafer said he feared "serious harm" from the festival and said the promoters could be jailed for where the festival would have been held, said highway patrolmen moved into the park Thursday night and evacuated 150 persons "who paid the fare to come in."

"I still say American youth won't accept this kind of leadership. This is not leadership. I have $600,000 invested and have to go through five checkpoints to get into my park. Is this freedom?

"All those Gestapo at the gate. You would think it was Heil Hitler Day. Somebody has got to say something."

Pennsylvania Governor Shafer had promised West Finley Township officials "aid," if requested, to stop a rock fest Aug. 28-30. The promoters, "Golden Freak Enterprises Inc." of Chicago said they expected 20,000 to show up.

$50,000 May Not Be Coming

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Gloria Sykes may not get much of the $50,000 she was awarded for a cable car accident which she said gave her insatiable sexual desires.

City Attorney Thomas M. O'Connor, who represented the city in its unsuccessful case, filed a Superior Court action Thursday asking judges to split up the money.

He said attorney Harold Elliott, who filed the original suit, has a lien of 40 per cent on any amount collected. Marvin Lewis, the attorney who tried the case, also has a claim, O'Connor added.

Lewis claimed during the trial last April that the 1964 accident forced Mrs. Sykes into the arms of more than 100 men.

Unruh In Blast At Campus Unrest

STANFORD (UPI) — "Students and faculty who participate in violence should be expelled," Jess Unruh told a Stanford University audience Thursday.

Unruh, the Democratic Party candidate for governor, also told the Stanford Committee for New Politics that "education is a right, not a privilege."

Much campus violence, however, "could have been headed off if we had an administration which did not continually denigrate and downgrade the academic community," he added.

WILLIAM WARFIELD
In Music Chest recital

Music Chest Sets Recital By Vocalist

Bass-baritone, William Warfield will give a recital in Forest Meadows at Dominican College, San Rafael, Aug. 16 at 3:00 p.m. as the third artist to be heard on the Marin Music Chest Summer Concert Series.

Warfield has been featured often at the Lewishon Stadium, Chicago's Ravini and Grant Parks, Hollywood Bowl, Tanglewood, and many other American summer series.

His Aug. 16 appearance in San Rafael is a return engagement under Music Chest auspices.

Programmed for his Aug. 16 concert in San Rafael are songs by Haydn, Schumann, Saint-Saens, an aria from Verdi's opera "Simon Boccanegra"; aria from Rossini's "Barber of Seville"; group of Spirituals arranged by Hall Johnson and two songs Virgil Thompson. William Duncan Allen will be at the piano.

Joint Sewage Meeting Reset For Tuesday

A workshop discussion of a joint sewage treatment system being planned by the Bolinas Public Utility and Stinson Beach County water districts, originally set for tomorrow, has been postponed until Tuesday.

The meeting, between Kennedy Engineers and Brown and Caldwell Engineers, firms hired by the districts to plan the system, will be at 7:30 p.m. in the utility district office, 270 Elm Road, Bolinas.

FAMILY

"Boatniks" — The packed boat harbor of Newport Beach, the utter chaos created by weekend yachtsmen, an accident-prone Ensign in charge of the harbor and three jewel thieves trying to escape to Mexico are the ingredients of this wacky comedy.

"Chisum" — A good old-fashioned western based on actual characters and incidents during the cattle war in New Mexico in 1878. The plot is filled with intrigue, revenge, bloody murders, and violent gun battles so it may be too rough for the youngest members of the family.

"80 Steps to Jonah" — Heart warming drama in which a migratory worker innocently connected with a crime seeks refuge in a summer camp for blind children. There he discovers a new purpose in life in helping the handicapped.

"Goodbye, Mr. Chips" — Beautifully mounted musical version of James Hilton's novel about a lonely schoolmaster who falls in love with a music hall star and her influence on the students and the professor.

"Out-of-Towners" — Refreshingly funny spoof on big city life. Misadventures of a small city businessman who takes his wife with him for a job interview in New York City. Hilarious comedy.

"Swiss Family Robinson" — Welcome reissue of fine Disney favorite telling of a Swiss family marooned by shipwreck on a tropical island. Story told with wealth of detail.

"Undefeated" — A warm, full bodied post Civil War adventure story. Plot is enriched by touches of humor and warm friendships that develop between former adversaries when they join together in a common goal.

ADULTS AND TEENS

"Beneath the Planet of the Apes" — Science fiction, the sequel to "Planet of the Apes" concludes the story and combines an amusing fantasy with a very real and grim message. Well done.

"Downhill Racer" — A brilliant study of the development of a ski champion. Action sequences are complimented by story about the dynamics of sports competition.

"Paint Your Wagon" — A lusty, irreverent script is framework for a musical set in a mining camp during Gold Rush days. Elaborately mounted broad comedy, raucous and at times tasteless, not suitable for young children.

"Patton" — An unusually well-made film, with a brilliant characterization by George C. Scott. Very strong dialogue. It shows Patton as a complex man who is a military disciplinarian who sacrifices his men in order to win battles.

"Reivers" — A weekend adventure when an 11 year old boy loses his childhood innocence and discovers the waywardness of man. Story has good human values, but it is regrettable that the action in a brothel makes film unsuitable for younger audiences.

"Z" — Remarkable film about a political assassination. Powerful combination of action and suspense providing profound insights into today's troubled politics. Subtitles in English.

BORDERLINE

(Most sources say Adults Only)

"Count Yorga, Vampire" — Vampirism in a modern gothic setting. After a bloody series of vampirism by the Count and his beautiful vampire wives, the forces of good combat the legions of the damned. Ending however, is untraditional with a strange twist. (Federation of Motion Picture Councils)

"Dunwich Horror" — Dreary horror picture dealing with a naive virgin under the influence of a follower of the occult who is searching for a sacrifice for a devil's mass and fertility rite. Mediocre.

"Man Called Horse" — Compelling but unforgivably brutal melodrama about a 19th Century English aristocrat who is captured by a Sioux tribe. Accurately detailed tribal rites and Sioux tongue spoken adds realism.

"Woodstock Festival" — Interesting documentary of last summer's famous rock festival. Nudity, obscene language, use of drugs and love-making may keep from the audience those most interested in seeing it. Parental guidance advised.

ADULTS ONLY

"M-A-S-H" — Title stands for Mobile Army Surgical Hospital. Antiwar film deals with three surgeons. Scenes are gruesome as they are funny. Bittersweet element of truth in action and dialogue.

"Myra Breckinridge" — An artistically crude and drawnout picture. Very likely to confuse and disappoint a lot of people who were so taken with the satiric novel. Film's main selling point is the star billing of Mae West as a lecherous female talent agent and the new freedom on the screen permits her to go further, more explicitly, than ever before. Devoid of any originality or style, film's narrative structure is weak. (Motion Picture Daily)

Hiker Plunges To His Death

ALTA, Utah (UPI)—A young Pennsylvania man, hiking with friends near this famed northern Utah ski resort, fell 80 feet to his death early Thursday evening while trying to skirt a jagged outcropping of rock.

He has been identified as Nathan Kreible, 19, of Trevoise, Pa. He reportedly was visiting friends in the Salt Lake City area.

The accident occurred about 6:25 p.m. in an area on the north side of Sugar Loaf Peak in the upper Albion Basin area near here.

COME ON, DOG, COME ON

Karen Thoene, 12, of Morgan Hill Tries vainly with reminder tugs on the leash to draw 7-month-old Sierra away from an enticing obstacle. However, the Golden Retriever puppy appears more interested in rubbing noses with the stuffed dog than in finishing the distraction course set up by Guide Dogs for the Blind in San Rafael to test the obedience of puppies raised by 4-H members for Guide Dogs. More than 150 youngsters participated in the dog obedience judging at the guide dog facility yesterday. (Independent-Journal photo by Roger Bockrath)

STATE WATER PROJECT

Bay Area Attacks Flayed As Unfair

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Norman B. Livermore Jr., secretary of the State Resources Agency, contended yesterday Bay Area criticism of the State Water Project for diverting surplus water is unfair because Bay Area water projects seek to accomplish the same thing.

Livermore, in a strong defense of the project before the San Francisco Bay conservation and Development Commission, pointed out that while the state project will divert about two million acre-feet to the Metropolitan Water District in Southern California, Bay Area water projects will be diverting about 1.5 million acre-feet a year from the bay and delta tributaries.

"It therefore, appears to me to be unseemly, to say the least, for San Francisco Bay residents to criticize our neighbors to the south for doing the same thing we northerners are doing. Let him who is without guilt cast the first stone," Livermore declared.

He also noted that three Bay Area counties, Alameda, Contra Costa and Santa Clara, "will be substantially dependent on water delivered to them via the Peripheral Canal."

The canal, the key link in the project, would carry water from the Sacramento River around the eastern part of the delta to pumping pools for diversion south. Construction of the canal is not expected before the end of this decade, but the project is committed to increased delivery of water southward by 1973.

Livermore acknowledged to newsmen after his appearance that "some damage to the delta ecology and fishery" was inevitable during the seven or so years between the increased pumping and construction of the canal. He said he did not know how severe the damage would be to fish life, but said this had been a problem since pumping at the south end of the delta began in 1953.

He estimated that screens to keep fish out of the pumps were about 70 per cent effective.

In his two-hour appearance before the commission, Livermore rebutted conservationists' claims that the project will harm the bay by robbing it of needed fresh water.

The real problem facing the bay is from sewage and industrial wastes, Livermore argued. "The threat of pollution in the bay exists regardless of the Peripheral Canal. Pollution is a problem in the bay today, while construction of the canal lies several years in the future," he declared.

"San Francisco Bay may no longer be used as an open sewer for the industries and communities on its shores," Livermore insisted.

Responding to some critics' demand that the project be halted until its effects on the ecology can be studied further, he said it was "unthinkable that all of the taxpayers of the state should be asked to stand the burden of debt — upwards of $2 billion — that would fall on them should the water project be stopped when it is so near to completion."

As for more study, Livermore added, "there comes a time when you have to stop studying and start acting."

He reiterated previous promises that the State Water Resources Control Board will draft and enforce standards to maintain water quality in the delta and bay.

He noted that he had asked the federal government to predicate its funding of the canal on the basis that the "delta area shall have a prior right to the use of water required under any criteria" set by the state board.

Commission chairman Melvin B. Lane, however, asked Livermore if it would be "really politically feasible to take water away from Southern California just because San Francisco Bay needs more water.

Livermore replied he was "not a politician, just a bureaucrat," but said he could not envision a long enough string of drought years to raise the issue.

Also skeptical was commissioner James F. McCormick, a member of the San Francisco Bay Regional water Quality Control board, who said, "When it gets down to ecology and the people's needs, the people's needs will be met first."

Lane, citing "an urgency" for standards to protect the bay and delta from excessive diversion of fresh water, said he and others were "concerned" to see the project being built before such standards had been set.

He said that the commission's staff soon would draft a position for the commission to take on the water project.

New Cotati Lot Policy Is Advanced

The Cotati City Council last night gave preliminary approval to a subdivision ordinance.

The proposed ordinance had been approved by the planning commission, but brought ciriticism from Commissioner R. C. Braden.

Braden objected to the requirement specifying a minimum lot width of 65 feet. He said he felt the ordinance should allow more flexibility.

City Mgr. Paul W. Salfen explained that the ordinance included a deviation clause which could permit developers to change lot sizes after council consent.

The ordinance will be considered for adoption at the Aug. 20 meeting.

The Cotati City Council also:

LANDFILL — Heard a report from Donald B. Head, county public works chief on plans for a solid waste disposal site on either Stony Point Road or Meacham Road, both west of Cotati. The council made no recommendation and heard no protest.

EXPENSES — Approved a resolution authorizing reimbursement for expenses incurred by city employees and the council.

WEEDS — Said it felt the bill for $518 received from the Kinyon Tree Service for weed spraying ws too high and asked Salfen to study the costs.

Auto Is Stolen

A yellow stationwagon owned by Irwin R. Green of 36 Staghound Passage, Corte Madera, was stolen betwee 7 a.m. and 7 p.m. yesterday from the rear of the Copper Penny Restaurant on Meadowsweet Drive, Corte Madera police said today.

Safety Employee Pay Talks To Start Over

Salary negotiations between the county and its safety employees will have to start from scratch, with an official county offer of 7.5 per cent for sheriff's deputies and 5 per cent for firemen and communications workers, Asst. County Administrator John F. Barrows declared today.

He explained he was issuing the statement only because he wanted to clarify some of the matters reported in yesterday's Independent-Journal.

Sheriff's Sgt. Wade R. Powell said yesterday that the county had offered a 5 per cent raise as of July 1 this year, 5 per cent next January, and 7.5 per cent on July 1, 1971, with the 7.5 per cent raise to be effective for two years.

Barrows, who heads the county negotiating team, said that the 7.5 per cent raise on July 1, 1971, was to be effective for one year thereafter, not two years.

Sgt. Powell agreed this morning that Barrows is correct. "What I meant was two years for the whole contract, from July 1, 1970 through July 1, 1972," said Powell.

"The 5 per cent, 5 per cent, 7.5 per cent offer cannot be termed a county offer as such because the county board of supervisors had not authorized it," explained Barrows. "It was a proposal by the state mediator, which both negotiating teams had tentatively agreed to, and did not constitute a county offer per se."

On July 30 the safety employees turned down that offer. All 82 votes to reject the offer came from sheriff's deputies. All firemen and communications workers were 100 per cent in favor of accepting. They were joined by 21 sheriff's deputies, for a total of 63 votes to accept.

Because the offer was not accepted by the end of last month, retroactive pay to July 1 is no longer possible, said Barrows. He explained that the state constitution prohibits making retroactive pay. Until last week, the county could have gotten around that by including the retroactive pay in the July 31 paychecks.

Since those paychecks are already distributed, the only possible retroactive pay that can be considered now is to Aug. 1, said Barrows.

Yesterday, Powell announced that the deputies had lowered their request to 12.5 per cent raise this year. He said the top pay for Marin sheriff's patrolmen was $100 below those of four other counties.

"Our understanding was that their last position was for 15 per cent," said Barrows. As for the complaint that pay is $100 below other counties in the Bay Area, Barrows pointed out that the state mediators proposal (5 per cent in July and 5 per cent next January) would have raised the deputies salary by $92.

Boat Burglarized

A depth finder and compass, worth a total of $191, were stolen Sunday from a 23-foot cabin cruiser belonging to Stanely Kelley, 23 Plaza Drive, Mill Valley, Sausalito police reported today. The items were taken while the vessel was berthed in the Clipper Yacht Harbor, police said.

Mrs. Rivas Paints A Picture Of Violent Outbursts At Home

Defense counsel cross-examining Mrs. Fidel Rivas today drew from her a picture of many violent outbursts which led to the death of her husband.

Her son, Ronald Rivas, 21, is being tried on a murder charge for the July 17, 1969, killing in the family home in Novato.

Mrs. Rivas described repeated outbursts in which her husband threatened her with knife, rifle and other weapons and said he would kill Ronald if the boy did not stop summoning police.

The episodes ranged over 10 years.

All of the case's witnesses are being excluded from the courtroom until they testify. When Rivas's sister, Mrs. Rita Hernandez, left the witness box, she remained in the courtroom to hear their mother give her version of the fatal evening.

The sister testified that the father "made fun" of young Rivas, criticizing him for helping his mother with the cooking and housekeeping, and often used profanity. The exact words, although rolled out by defense counsel Carrow in his opening statement, were carefully avoided during the sister's testimony — there was by then an audience in the courtroom.

Mrs. Hernandez testified that the father often became violent with his wife, and that "Ron was always very concerned, got very upset" over the episodes.

Mrs. Rivas, as the second witness, told the court that she was the mother of 13 children. She recalled that all were in the family home the fatal evening of July 17, except for one older son, Lonnie, and her daughter, Mrs. Hernandez, who arrived at the house at 59 Raposa Vista about 10:30 p.m.

She said she had gone to young Rivas's bedroom because she saw the son and a sister crying. "He kept telling me 'there's nothing wrong,' she recalled.

"All of a sudden there was a bang on the door and it was flung open" by the father, Mrs. Rivas testified.

"I was told in foul language to get out of there . . . into the kitchen." The husband followed her, she testified, "yelling foul language to me, asking me what I was doing in there. I said it was because the kids had a problem."

"At the doorway to the kitchen, the senior Rivas "hit me, very hard, in the face," she said. "I told him why did he have to hit me." She could not remember his reply.

Shortly thereafter, while her back was turned to her husband, "I thought I heard a firecracker." She said she turned to see the father walking toward the dining room and young Rivas walking holding a gun.

"I rushed over and touched his arm and said, 'Ron, don't,' but his eyes just glared," the mother said. "I ran out of the house and down the street" and saw no more, Mrs. Rivas testified.

The mother also testified that her husband "fussed and cussed at me and the kids every day."

During his opening presentation, defense counsel Carrow had declared that "the totality of evidence will establish at the time of the shooting" that the act was either justifiable homicide or that young Rivas was insane at the time.

In the prosecution's opening statement, Anthony said he would prove that young Rivas first fired two shots at his father, wounding him with the first and missing with the second, and then after the father fell, shooting him twice more with the semiautomatic .22 caliber pistol. One of these last shots stopped the elder Rivas's heart, Anthony said.

Action Near On Petaluma River Status

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — The Sonoma County Planning Commission yesterday received a recommendation for action to improve the Petaluma River.

The report submitted by a citizens committee was favorably received by the commissioners who said they will consider a resolution at the Aug. 20 meeting to put the plan into effect. The Sonoma County Board of Supervisors will later consider action on the plan.

The report, completed in April, was outlined by Allan Chambliss who said steps should be taken to preserve the ecology of the river as well as open space. The committee also suggested a study on the river land zoning as a means of controlling damaging development.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Tick Paralysis Is Uncommon, But Can Be Dangerous Disease

Many years ago, I wrote about a young Denverite who was bitten by a tick. Four days later, the girl became restless and irritable and complained of numbness and tingling of the extremities, lips, and face. By the next day, paralysis had set in, and she was rushed to the hospital, where a respirator was available.

Colorado physicians are familiar with tick paralysis. Therefore they made a systematic search for the insect, because the critter must be removed to bring about a cure. The tick had burrowed into her scalp. Within 24 hours of its removal, a dramatic recovery followed, and by the end of the second day, the girl had regained much of her strength.

WE DOUBT IF many of our readers will benefit from an article on this subject because tick paralysis is an uncommon disease. However, a Columbia, S.C., woman was able to help a friend because she remembered the original article. Years later, while visiting a friend whose child was paralyzed, she suggested that the mother mention to the physician the possibility of ticks.

To everyone's surprise, a tick was found near the back of the head. The engorged insect was removed, and the youngster made a miraculous recovery. The remedy is simple, provided the physician suspects a tick.

RECENTLY, an editorial on tick paralysis was published in the British Medical journal, The editor wanted to acquaint English physicians with the condition because of the possibility that a Briton might visit the Rocky Mountains. Since the incubation period is five days, the victim might not develop paralysis until he returned home. Unless this diagnosis is considered and the ticks are removed, the culprits may not be found in time to save his life.

Every person who picnics, camps, fishes or hunts should look for ticks at the end of each day. Check the children, too. Tick paralysis may be primarily a veterinary problem, but humans are not exempt.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.)

'BOILING' OVER

Mrs. E. L. writes: My children get one boil after another. No matter what precautions I take, the boils keep coming back. Please advise.

REPLY

When boils develop in this way, the entire family must avoid all forms of contamination. The skin should be cleansed thoroughly and each person should use his own towel and washcloth. It may be advisable to have throat cultures taken to determine whether one or more members of the family are harboring the causative staphylococci. If so, all of them may have to take an antibiotic at the same time.

EVERYTHING IS RELATIVE

R. E. writes: In movie close-ups, the actors and actresses talk so close to each other their lips almost meet. How do they keep their breath sweet and odorless?

REPLY

Through good oral hygiene including thorough cleaning of the teeth after each meal. The majority of Hollywood stars maintain good health and avoid odoriferous foods. But most men would tolerate a wee bit of halitosis to do a scene with Racquel Welch.

LUNGS GURGLE

B.B. writes: What causes bubbles in the lungs?

REPLY

The bubbles represent frothy sputum and serum that originates in the lungs. They usually stem from pneumonia or congestion from heart trouble.

Today's Health Hint — The person who is highly allergic to the sting of a bee or wasp should be desensitized.

Novato Planners Approve 2 Signs

The Novato Plan Review Committee has approved sign permits for the Peacock Restaurant and Ross Department Store, landscape plans for the Dolphin Club Child Day Care Center and the Round Table Pizza Restaurant and house plans for foothill lots in Bahia Unit No. 3 housing development.

Minor changes were made Wednesday in applicants' plans for the department store, restaurant and day care center.

The committee also studied a plan submitted by Councilman George Quesada for a footbridge across Novato Creek between the county library branch and the downtown shopping center. No action was taken pending comparison of the plan with other existing plans.

Marin Juvenile Court Bans Burglary Case

Marin County Juvenile Court has refused to take the case of John Lauren Mott, 18, of San Rafael, accused of the June 24 burglary of the DeLong Chevrolet agency showroom.

He pleaded innocent to the felony charge yesterday in municipal court, and Judge Peter Allen Smith set preliminary hearing for Aug. 18.

RESOLUTION OF THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF THE MARIN JUNIOR COLLEGE DISTRICT
RESOLUTION NO. 70/71-3
RESOLUTION CONVEYING CERTAIN PROPERTIES TO SANITARY DISTRICT NO. 1 OF MARIN COUNTY, CALIFORNIA

WHEREAS, in connection with the construction of a pumping station site, Sanitary District No. 1 has requested the conveyance of certain properties by this District to it, and

WHEREAS, the property requested is not and will not at the time of delivery of title or possession be needed for classroom buildings by this District;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED that it is the intent of this Board to convey the property described below to Sanitary District No. 1 on September 3, 1970.

1. The property to be conveyed consists of:

PARCEL ONE - A sale in fee of approximately 0.14 acres of that property more particularly described in Exhibit "A" attached hereto and by this reference incorporated herein.

PARCEL TWO - An environmental control easement more particularly described in Exhibit "A" attached hereto and by this reference incorporated herein.

PARCEL THREE - A permanent access and sewer easement more particularly described in Exhibit "A" attached hereto and by this reference incorporated herein.

PARCELS FOUR and FIVE - Temporary construction easements terminating June 1, 1972, described in Exhibit "A" attached hereto and incorporated herein by this reference.

2. The price required to be paid from Sanitary District No. 1 to this District for said parcels of property shall be $2,750.00.

3. The conveyance to be made as herein provided shall be subject to the following terms and conditions:

a) The property shall be used by the Sanitary District only for the construction, operation and maintenance of a sanitary pumping station.

b) All construction equipment and material storage during the construction period shall be kept within the purchased land, construction easements, or non-college owned property.

c) All trees and plantings outside the protection line as shown on Exhibit "B" (on file in the office of the Business Manager for examination) and by this reference incorporated herein, are to remain and shall be protected. Any plantings accidently damaged shall be replaced by Sanitary District.

d) Site grading, drain lines and structures shall be designed to accommodate local drainage to prevent damage to college property.

e) Filling of the stream meander shall be done in such a manner that it will not damage any of the plantings outside the protection line shown on Exhibit "B".

f) All construction areas outside the fence shall be planted and maintained by the Sanitary District with native plant materials in a manner similar to that shown on the landscape plan dated July 1, 1970, indicated as Exhibit "C" (on file in the office of the Business Manager for examination) and by this reference incorporated herein.

g) The easement granted Parcel Two may be terminated by mutual agreement.

h) All plans for development by the Sanitary District including but not limited to building, fence and plantings shall be developed cooperatively with representatives of the College.

i) The initial development of the pumping station, service area, and fence shall be done in a manner consistent with the plan dated July 1, 1970, prepared by Crawford and Banning, Architects.

j) All improvements shall be kept in good repair at all times by the Sanitary District.

k) All utility services to the site will be placed underground from Stadium Way.

l) Sanitary District shall be responsible for keeping any noise below a nuisance level beyond the permanent easement. The selection of equipment and the structure shall be designed accordingly.

m) A complete positive deodorization system shall be utilized.

n) Sanitary District shall grant to the College District a license to:

1) Use the access road from Bon Air Road to the pumping station for access to College property for maintenance purposes.

2) Use a portion of the access road for pedestrian traffic from Stadium Way to the Ecology Study Area.

o) The Sanitary District's construction contracts relating to said property shall name the College District as an additional insured.

4. This Resolution shall be published no less than once a week for three weeks prior to the making of the sale as provided herein, in the Independent-Journal, a newspaper published in the District and having a general circulation here.

PASSED AND ADOPTED at a regular meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Marin Junior College District of the County of Marin, State of California, held on the 16 day of July, 1970, by the following vote, to wit:

AYES: Deedy, Felt, Gray, Moore, Oliver, Rogers, Wellman

Nerve Gas Loading Under Way

ANNISTON, Ala. (UPI)—Vaults containing World War II nerve gas are being loaded aboard a freight train for their controversial shipment through Georgia and the Carolinas.

The Pentagon announced Thursday that similar vaults would be loaded aboard a train tnday at the Blue Garss Arsenal in Richmond, Ky.

A total of 418 of the vaults will be shipped by train from the two arsenals to Sunny Point, N.C., where they will be loaded aboard an old ship hulk, towed 282 miles off the coast of Cape Kennedy and sunk in 16,000 feet of water.

The shipment is expected to roll through Georgia next Monday and Tuesday.

Meanwhile, Mayor Ronnie Thompson of Macon, Ga., who has vowed to barricade railroad tracks outside his city to halt the train, said he would arrive at Anniston today to inspect Army safety precautions regarding the shipment.

Col. John J. Osick of the Office of the Army Director of Chemical and Nuclear Operations invited Thompson to look at the shipment preparations.

Osick was dispatched from Washington to try to convince Thompson the nerve gas shipment would be safe.

But Thompson appeared unmoved Thursday following a meeting with Osick although he agreed to the trip.

Osick said the train, consisting of 28 freight cars, would be safer than any other on the tracks. He added the army has no intentinn of changing the routing through Bremen Griffin, Macon and Athens on the way to the sea.

Thompson said the only way the army could prove its confidence in the shipment would be to route the train through Atlanta.

In another development, Rep. Alton Lennon, D-N.C., chairman of a House Merchant Marine and Fisheries subcommittee investigating the operation, accused the Army of choosing a dumping site off the southern coast rather than off New Jersey because it thought Southerners would not object.

Teen-Age Dance Set At Petaluma

A dance for teen-agers will be held today from 9 p.m. to midnight at the Kenilworth Recreation Center, Petaluma.

The Petaluma rock band, "Air," will provide the music. Members of the band include Phillip Marshall, Thomas Altenruether, Mitchell Froom, David Froom, Steven James and Steven Harr.

The dance, sponsored by the CCD, youth group of St. Vincent de Paul Church, will also include a light show by the "Vulcan Lites" of Petaluma and Novato.

The Florida Keys are made up of a total of 1,000 islands. Only 62 of them are inhabited.

Postal Reform Bill Now Awaits Nixon's Signature

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. Post Office is only a few days away from being removed from politics.

The House Thursday completed congressional action on an historic bill to transform the Post Office into an independent agency. President Nixon was expected to sign the bill into law next week.

One of the first results will be a raise in the cost of first class mail from six to eight cents, probably by next January, and increases of one-third in the cost of other classes of mail. But Postmaster General Winton M. Blount, who will lose his cabinet status one year after the law takes effect, promised "better service for the American people."

The tall, spare Alabama businessman told reporters he had given "no thought" to taking on the job of directing the new "U.S. Postal Service." But he did not rule it out.

The reform bill gives the nation's 750,000 postal workers an 8 per cent, $637 million pay raise, plus the right to collective bargaining. Passage of the bill —which Blount confessed seemed impossible 18 months ago —was spurred by the nation's first postal strike last March.

Benjamin Franklin, generally regarded as the father of the Post Office, was appointed by the continental Congress July 26, 1775 to run the first mail service prior to the birth of the nation.

The Articles of Confederation gave Congress "the sole exclusive right and power of establishing and regulating post offices" and the first act creating the office of postmaster general passed Sept. 26, 1789. The job was elevated to cabinet rank in 1829.

Lawrence F. O'Brien, the nation's 57th postmaster general, proposed abolition of the post office and creation of an independent agency in April 1967, warning the nation was 'in a race with satastrophe." He and other critics had warned of a postal breakdown unless modern business methods were applied.

The Nixon administration agreed and began the push for congressional approval while Blount pleaded for reform to relieve taxpayers of "the long bleak history of huge postal deficits."

While the reform bill is not perfect, Blount said, it contained four major features the administration wanted:

—Removal of the post office from politics and provision for continuity of management.

—Collective bargaining between postal management and employees.

—Postal rate-setting by management instead of congress.

—An authority to obtain adequate financing by issuing bonds.

Nixon will appoint a nine-member board of governors who will select a postmaster general and a deputy to run the new service. He also will name a five-member commission to set rates and an 11-member advisory council.

Terra Linda, County Argue Old Repair Tab

The county of Marin and the Terra Linda Park and Recreation District are engaged in a skirmish over a $224.60 bill incurred during a storm in December of 1968.

Tax collector-treasurer Stanley J. Fontez, whose office is in charge of collecting unpaid bills, this week asked the Marin County Board of Supervisors to cancel the bill, compromise, or sue the district for payment.

Fontez explained that a drain sump in Terra Linda got clogged with debris during a storm on Dec. 19, 1968, and threatened some homes with flooding. Terra Linda Fire Department did not have equipment to clear the debris and called on the park and recreation district, which in turn called in the county department of public works. The department of public works unclogged the drain and billed the park and recreation district for $224.60.

V.H. Nicholson, vice chairman of the park and recreation district said the cleanup by the county was a public service performed during an emergency, not to protect district facilities but to help county residents from a threatened flood. Therefore the district should not have to pay the cost.

"It seems to me there should be a way of settling this matter without a suiet." said Fonteg. However, since he is not in a position to decide, he asked the county supervisors for direction.

Nixon Names Study Group To Prevent Fuel Shortage

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon has named a special committee to determine how to head off an expected shortage of heating and power plant fuels this winter.

The White House said the Cabinet-level committee was asked to "recommend federal actions which may be taken to alleviate the acute shortage of clean (low sulphur) fuels for adequate fuel supply for the next five years."

The committee also is to be concerned with environmental quality. New federal clear air standards would prevent utilities from using most reserve supplies of coal for example, because they have a high sulphur content.

Dr. Paul McCracken, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, was named chairman of the panel.

McCracken said the committee would look into the problems of supply and demand for coal, natural gas, residual fuel oil and No. 2 home heating oil.

"Primarily the problem has arisen from short supplies and the enormously increased demand for fuels," McCracken said.

He noted that many power companies were operating at below the recommended power reserve for peak periods, which resulted in "brownouts"

Navy To Retire 55 Vessels

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Navy Secretary John H. Chafee announced today 55 ships of the U. S. fleet will be mothballed during the next six months for economy reasons.

Included among the ships were the attack carrier Bonhomme Richard and the heavy cruiser U.S.S. St. Paul. Most of the vessels, however, were designed as auxiliary ships, amphibious warfare ships, or mine warfare ships.

All of the ships are old — their average age is 23 years — and the oldest, the U.S.S. Platte, has been in service for 31 years. Chafee said the deactivation of the ships would raise to 228 the number of vessels retired in the face of continuing budget cutbacks.

Tape Player Stolen From Parked Auto

A radio-cassette tape player, tapes and other possessions valued at more than $250 were taken Wednesday from a vehicle owned by William C. Otey, 29, of 9 Palm Avenue, Corte Madera, police said today.

Officers said the auto was burglarized between 5 and 9 a.m. while parked at the Wards parking lot.

Marinites Among Grads Of Sonoma

Thirty-three Marin and Southern Sonoma students are among the 132 students eligible for diplomas this month from Sonoma State College.

No commencement exercise will be held, but many students participated in the June commencement.

Watkins of Rohnert Park; David Kennen of Sausalito; Joseph M. Colabella, Jacqueline Krik, Frederick J. Lockett and Carol J. Wells of San Rafael; and Marguerite R. Armitage of Tiburon.

Pot Brings Probation, Suspended Term, Fine

Mark A. Harris, 18, of Larkspur, has been placed on three years' probation, given a suspended 60-day jail sentence and fined $150 for possession of marijuana.

Arrested May 15 on a felony charge of cultivating marijuana, he later pleaded guilty to the reduced, misdemeanor charge, and was sentenced yesterday by Judge Peter Allen Smith in municipal court.

Make Mine Milk, Says Master Mike

Michael Suyderhoud, the world water ski champion from San Anselmo, seems to be spending more time on breakfast tables than he is on the water these days.

You've undoubtedly seen Master Michael doing those flip-flop Wheaties commercials on television.

Now, the 20-year-old Sonoma State chemistry student is getting big in the milk industry, the better to lubricate the Wheaties flakes, I guess.

Anyway, while vacationing up north last week I picked up a McColl's Dairy milk carton and — lo and behold — there was Suyderhoud's name prominently displayed in an advertisement for the Fall River Mills (Shasta County) Invitational Water Ski Tournament Aug. 9.

"See champions Mike Suyderhoud and Lisa St. John in action," the milk cartons urge.

Skim milk, no doubt.

A Wet Time For Miss Kilgore

HEY, WHO SAYS Canada Dry?

Tiburon teener Bee Kilgore found quite the contrary last week in Vancouver while she was winning two junior titles in the Canadian Open Tennis Championship. It rained much of the time, forcing a day's delay in the schedule, but failed to dampen Bee's outstanding ability.

One of Miss Kilgore's championship matches, by the way, was televised nationally in Canada.

FAIRFAX PARK and Recreation Department's first attempt at sponsoring a football clinic last Saturday at Drake High School was a resounding success, reports Rec Director Tony Barbera. He said more than 100 youths turned out to hear and watch College of Marin coach Dick Read and his coaching staff discuss some of the basic points of the game. Barbara now has his sights set on a basketball clinic.

WHO'S THE FASTEST waiter in Marin? I nominate Bob Hope at the West End Villa, San Rafael. Hope, no relation to the comedian, is the former Tam High distance star who won the Mill Valley to Stinson Beach Dipsea Race 10 years ago and is still pretty fleet on his feet. Got me a three-minute egg in 2:23.

And He's Enjoying It More

SAN ANSELMO'S Johnny Boccabella, veteran major league catcher-first baseman-outfielder, is really making some loud noises with the bat for the Montreal Expos against his former Chicago Cubs teammates.

Wednesday Boc the Sock cracked a home run and triple in three at-bats and yesterday he ruined Cub pitcher Ken Holtzman's bid for a no-hitter with an eighth inning single.

Boc is not exactly a fan of Cub skipper Leo Durocher so he must be enjoying his latest batting heroics.

CHARLES S. "CHUB" FEENEY, the swinging president of the National League, will be special guest of the San Francisco Giants Boosters Club's Aug. 19 dinner gathering at Rubini's in Fairfax. Boosters President Allan B. Murray expects a turnaway crowd, so make your reservation now.

Since Feeney has been accused of livening up the N.L. ball this season I suspect the Rubini's menu that night will include rabbit in his honor. No speeches, but a lot of table hopping.

Happy Day For Giants' Skipper

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—It wasn't Charlie Fox's birthday.

Neither was it his wedding anniversary nor any other milestone day in his life. Yet, he couldn't have been happier.

Horace C. Stoneham, president of the San Francisco Giants, started things off nicely for the Fox household Thursday by guaranteeing employment through the 1971 season.

MORNING CALL

"He called me up in the morning," Fox said, "and told me he had decided to extend my contract as manager through next season. That put me on cloud nine."

A few hours later at Candlestick Park the Giants jumped the Cincinnati Reds for seven runs in the first inning enroute to an easy 9-3 victory.

"I couldn't believe it," Fox said. "I figured this was the biggest day in my life, even bigger than my birthday or the day Mr. Stoneham hired me to manage. I can't explain it, but it was like floating around on two clouds."

Getting a contract extension, with a little raise thrown in, was a big thing but Fox made it sound as if beating the Reds for the club's fourth straight victory was even bigger.

COMPLETE GAMES

The way the Giants pitching staff has performed this year you could understand Fox's joy when Frank Reberger gave the club its fourth complete game, and his first in the big leagues.

"The kid really showed me something," said Fox. "He wasn't afraid to challenge those tough Cincinnati hitters and he worked his way out of a couple of jams like a guy who has been pitching a long time."

HOME RUNS

Willie McCovey and Frank Johnson made things easy for the Giants, Fox and Reberger by hitting three-run homers in the first inning off Cincinnati starter Ray Washburn. The Giants sent 12 men to bat in the inning and seven of them scored, the final run crossing on a sacrifice fly by Tito Fuentes.

McCovey's homer was his 28th and it boosted his RBI total to 88, two less than club leader Dick Dietz. Johnson, who played in place of the ailing

Mercury Is Found In Fish

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A state public health official says evidence of mercury contamination in Sacramento-San Joaquin Delta Fish is presently inconclusive.

Dr. Ephraim Kahn, a Department of Public Health environmental specialist, made the comment Thursday after the Department of Fish and Game said mercury levels found in samplings of Delta fish were "high enough to be of concern."

Kahn said there was no conclusive evidence on the levels or to what extent there was a public hazard.

"We don't have ennugh data," he said, "there are scattered fish specimens. Results from different laboratodoubt about it."

Eldridge G. Hunt, chief of the DFG's wildlife management branch, said the amounts of mercury found in fish were "at warning levels. There's no doubt about itm"

Hunt said the residue level of samplings was at a half part per million—the federal government's "actionable level."

But Kahn said the samplings so far showed varied levels without giving a truce, scientific picture of the problem. He said the levels were not increasing and "the problem has been with us for quite a while."

Kahn said his investigators would be able to determine within two weeks an exact level of mercury in the fish.

Kahn said the Public Health Department would probably issue an immediate warning if the mercury levels proved to be "one or two parts per million." But he added, "We're not sure where the levels are."

The DFG probe was being extended from the Delta into San Francisco Bay and into Southern California. Included would be the Sierra foothill streams.

The mercury was believed to come from industry and old Sierra gold mines. Mercury was used in gold panning operations throughout California.

Tommy Davis No Longer With 49ers

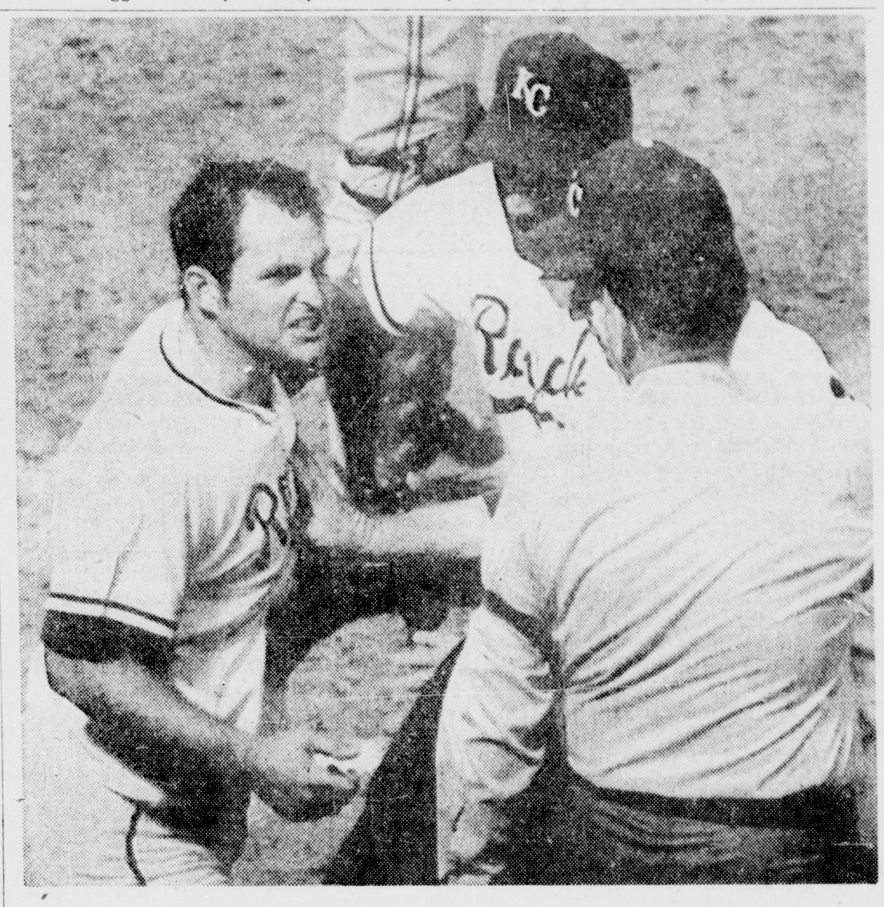
GOLETA (UPI)—Bruce Gossett and Momcilo Gavric are now officially the top kickers on the San Francisco 49er football team.

Veteran placekicker Tommy Davis, 35, was placed on waivers and became a free agent Thursday when no other team claimed him. He is now free to make his own deal with any club.

Davis was the kicking mainstay of the 49ers and set a National Football League record of 234 consecutive points after touchdowns and his 44.7 yard punt average was the highest among active players entering the 1970 season.

Another roster cutback occurred when linebacker Jim Vander Slice, a 13th round draft choice from Texas Christian, packed his bags and left training camp.

Linebacker Dave Wilcox and running back Dave Cunningham missed practice because of back strains. But they are expected to resume drills over the weekend.



HOT AND HATLESS — Kansas City catcher Ed Kirkpatrick expressed his feelings to umpire George Maloney while Royals' manager Bob Lemon and an unidentified player held him back during last night's game at Kansas City. Maloney, who had called Kirkpatrick out, responded by throwing the angry player out of the game. (UPI Telephoto)

Will Namath Really Quit Pro Football?

NEW YORK (UPI)—The retirement of Joe Namath from professional football may be imminent.

The star quarterback of the New York Jets hinted that such a thing was close Thursday when he said, "I don't want to play football."

The 27-year-old Namath has created quite a stir this week by his failure to report to the Jets' training camp. One of his teammates, Al Atkinson, retired from football Wednesday and he cited the selfishness of players like Namath as one of the reasons for his decision.

Namath has been engaged in several business activities this past year, including movie-making, and readily admits that football doesn't play as important a part in his life as it once did. He said his reasons for not reporting to the Jets training camp were due to "personal problems."

Namath met with Jets' president Phil Iselin, for several hours Thursday night in an effort to iron out his difficulties with the management.

IN MINNESOTA

Now Or Never For Athletics

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI)—It's now or never for the Oakland Athletics to make a move to displace the Minnesota Twins from atop the American League West.

The white-shoed baseballers from the West Coast open a five-game series with the Twins tonight whom they trail by eight games. To call the upcoming series crucial is understanding the cast a bit.

Oakland maybe was looking ahead to Minnesota and forgot all about Kansas City who wiped out a 3-0 A's lead Thursday night to pull out a 5-3 win.

The Royals hopped on starter Diego Segui and relievers Bob Locker, Paul Lindblad and Marcel Lachemann for five runs in the seventh inning. Locker, now 1-2, was tagged with the loss.

Segui sailed into the seventh with a two-hit shutout and three-run lead. But Amos Otis led off with a homer, Lou Piniella singled and Bob Oliver rocketed another homer over the leftfield wall to tie the game and finish Segui.

Then after a single and walk, Pat Kelly singled home the tiebreaking run. With the bases loaded, Lindblad walked in the Royals' fifth run.

Rollie Fingers (5-8) is scheduled to pitch for the A's tonight against 16-game winner Jim Perry. The teams play single games Saturday and Monday and a doubleheader on Sunday.

LITTLE LEAGUE

San Rafael Vs. Sacramento '9'

"One of the kids said to me, 'They can't be any older than we are'," Henry Knotts, manager of the San Rafael American Little League All-Stars, said Wednesday in describing his team's attitude for tonight's opening game against Washington of Sacramento in the Section II tournament at Rancho School in Novato.

Any team that runs up 43 runs to 6 for the opposition in winning four straight games as San Rafael did in the District Three, Marin County tournament must have a good attitude. With the talent the Americans have, however, they could have been manic-depressive and still have won.

MAJOR ITEM

If pitching is 75 per cent of baseball at the major league level, it's probably 90 pct. in Little League. It's said a team needs two first rate pitchers to win in tournament play. Meet Jeff Knotts and Garry Johns. Knotts, acknowledged as the team's all-around super star, displayed his versatility in the final game against Marinwood by pitching a shutout and hitting a home run. The Americans won, 14-0.

Johns, besides fashioning shutout victories in both the first and third games of the tourney, made a leaping catch at the fence to save the Novato game, which San Rafael won in 10 innings, 8-6.

CREDENTIALS

The Americans' hitting credentials speak for themselves. In the title game Saturday, six players in the starting lineup blasted extra base hits. Jim Bell, Marty Magliulo, Scott Leoncini, Johns and Knotts cracked doubles, and Knotts and Dan Helms had homers.

Helms, a switch hitter, time and again was the Americans' clutch man at the plate. He smashed two lefthanded homers to go with his righthanded, title-games hot, including a two run job that tied the Novato game in the seventh inning.

Knotts senior has announced that he will go tonight with the same lineup that has brought him to the sectional playoffs. In batting order they will be Brian Shelley, leftfield, Helms, centerfield, Knotts on the mound, Matt Harris, first base, Johns, centerfield, Bell, third base, Leoncini behind the plate, Mike Houston, short-stop and Magliulo, second base.

Tonight's game, starting at 6 o'clock, will be broadcast by radio station KTIM. The Rancho School field is at 1430 Hill Street in Novato.

CONCORD TRIUMPHS IN OPENER

Concord defeated Santa Rosa, 9-4 last night in the opening game of the Northern California Section II Little League baseball tournament at Rancho School in Novato.

Concord will play in the final game tomorrow at 3 p.m. against the winner of tonight's contest between Washington of Sacramento and San Rafael American. Losers play at 1 p.m.

Kurt Schneider, Tom Underwood and Len Harrod each rapped two hits for the winners, and Harrod got the game's only extra base blow, a double.

Tim Herron was the winning pitcher.

Sharon Walsh Wins In Team Tournament

Sharon Walsh of San Rafael defeated Janet Newberry of Southern California in the opening match of the finals in the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association team tennis championships yesterday at Allentown, Pa.

Miss Walsh, playing for Northern California, downed Miss Newberry, 3-6, 6-3, 6-2.

Baseball's Muscle Men With Magical Fingers

Willie Mays paid a top compliment to Leo Hughes, team trainer of the Giants, when he said "Doc keeps me going — he finds all the aches and pains in me and makes them go away."

Willie McCovey is another admirer of Hughes. "Doc," said McCovey, "knows his business. I was with him in triple A and have seen him at work a number of years."

Hughes is a very important behind-the-scenes operator for the Giants. But just who is he?

HUGHES IS a native San Franciscan in his mid 50s. He was a fair ball player himself at Mission High School but never advanced beyond the semi-pro ranks. The late Red Adams first introduced him to a pro dressingroom in old Recreation Park at 15th and Valencia Streets in 1928.

Hughes liked the atmosphere, particularly the training room of Bobby Johnson, trainer for the old Seals, who taught him the fundamentals of applying tape and gently locating knotted muscles.

HUGHES' CAREER was further advanced when he came in contact with the famed Denny Carroll at Boyes Hot Springs, the spring training camp of the Seals. Carroll had preceded Johnson as trainer of the Seals and had gone on to the Detroit Tigers as trainer. But when Seals needed special treatment, Carroll would always lend a hand.

"HE HAD magic in his finger,s" said Hughes. "It was a privilege to work beside him and learn. Ask Walter Mails sometime about Carroll. There was a time when Mails couldn't raise his pitching arm above his head. Other trainers worked on Mails' sore arm. Carroll corrected the problem by working on the leader muscle from the neck into the arm."

Hughes described the days he spent with Carroll as "a post-graduation course."

"CARROLL PROLONGED Tony Lazzeri's baseball career," said Hughes. "The Yankees sent Lazzeri to Carroll and he worked the soreness out of a bad elbow Lazzeri had. He also did wonders for Detroit's great second baseman, Charlie Gehringer. There were many other careers Carroll prolonged."

So now Willie Mays credits Hughes with keeping him going. How does Hughes feel about that?

"IT WAS very kind of Willie to say what he did," said Hughes. "I'm most grateful."

Aside from finding sore spots in athletes and rubbing them out with his sensitive fingers, does Hughes have any other training secrets?

"Psychology and salt are as important as bandages and pills," he said. "Psychology is one of the big weapons of a trainer. As for salt, I'm a great believer in it.

"A SALT tablet a day creates better circulation for an athlete at work. It keeps water in pores and prevents them from drying. Thus, muscles are kept supple and lubricated, not tense and in danger of pulls.

"A trainer can treat muscle spasms or pulls but a good one should teach players how to avoid them. Pulled hamstrings usually occur in spring training when players, not yet in shape, over extend themselves. They occur during the season when players are tired."

Workers Return At Cincy Stadium

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Additional workmen were called in to speed the conversion of the Riverfront Stadium for football purposes Thursday after the job was delayed two days by a strike.

Union carpenters walked off the job Monday in a jurisdictional dispute with structural ironworkers. They returned to work Wednesday when threatened with contempt of court citations.

City Utilities Director Wallace Power said additional workmen were put on the job to speed up the installation of about 2,000 demountable seats for the Cincinnati Bengals' first exhibition game Saturday night with the Washington Redskins.

SPORTS SHORTS

Basketball Merger Still A Year Away

CHICAGO (UPI) — Merger of the National and American Basketball Associations is at least a year away, NBA commissioner Walter Kennedy told club owners at their annual summer meeting.

The delay, he said, was likely because "I do not contemplate that we will be able to get legislation acted upon in this session of Congress."

Football

BLOOMFIELD HILLS, Mich. — Alex Karras, defensive tackle for the Detroit Lions, yesterday told general manager Russ Thomas by telephone that he wants to leave the team.

Thomas told Karras, a 35-year-old veteran of 11 National Football League seasons, that the Lions would try to trade him if coach Joe Schmidt was willing. Schmidt said he was.

Fishing

KAILUA, Hawaii — The Hawaiian International Billfish Tournament set a new marlin catch record yesterday when 22 more fish, including a 583-pound monster, were boated. The record of 63 for the five-day tournament was smashed by a four-day total of 78.

Harry Jefferson of the Island of Hawaii landed the 583 pounder, which put his team in first place with 1,268 points.

Five Marin Netters Triumph

All five Marin county players in yesterday's quarterfinals of the Portola Valley Junior Tennis Tournament at the Alpine Hills Club were victorious.

Andy Moffat of Mill Valley, third-seeded in boys 18-and-under, disposed of Steve McDonald, 6-4, 6-4 as the field in that class was cut to four.

Cary Stansbury of San Rafael and Greenbrae's Diane DeMartini won in 12-and-under matches. Stansbury defeated Chip Uorris, 6-2, 6-1, and Miss DeMartini shut out Amy Morris, ...-0, 6-0.

Lissy Manheim and Leslie Airola of Tiburon both won in girls 16. Miss Manheim took Maureen Hennig, 6-0, 6-3, and Miss Airola stopped Kelly O'Keefe in three sets, 6-3, 8-10, 6-0.

Scrappers Triumph

The Scrappers outlasted Marin Supply, 13-12 last night in a San Rafael adult softball game at Albert Park.

Joe Kapp Is Job Hunting

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Joe Kapp and the Minnesota Vikings have parted ways after being unable to bridge an apparent $1 million gulf.

So the big quarterback is job hunting among other pro teams. Or rather his attorney, John Elliott Cook of San Francisco, is trying to find another employer while Kapp takes things easy at a mountain resort in Northern California.

THE SETS?

Cook won't say what teams, if any have put in a bid for Kapp's services. But it's no secret the New York Jets will be looking for a top-flight quarterback if Joe Namath's so-called "personal" problems keep him out of the game.

"Joe has placed his matters in my hands and I assume complete responsibility for decisions," said Cook, adding he isn't charging Kapp a cent.

"It is a pleasure to help a young man of his quality," adds the attorney.

Kapp, who led the Vikings to the National Football League championship and a loss to Kansas City in the Super Bowl last season, became a free agent May 1 and can sign with any club he chooses.

'UNREWARDING'

Cook said Minnesota offered Kapp a two-year contract at $50,000 a year. Kapp reportedly labeled this offer "totally unrewarding for my work."

On the other hand, Kapp is asking as much as $1,250,000 spread over five years. That averages out to $250,000 a season on a presumably no-cut basis.

"Joe is now finished as a Viking," said Cook Thursday. "It is hoped his football future will be with a club that shares his dedication...you simply have to win."

Cleveland, 12-8 at Tulsa, will join the Cardinals Saturday, the day Torrez reports for two weeks active duty.

BASEBALL ROUNDUP

Pirates Extend Lead In East

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Most men are promoted when they do a good job.

But with Bruce Dal Canton of the Pittsburgh Pirates it's just the opposite.

Normally a reliever, Dal Canton has been placed in the starting rotation in recent days to ease the strain on a pitching staff hobbled by injuries.

The 28-year-old righthander has responded by winning. Thursday night he went the route for the first time as he beat the Philadelphia Phillies, 8-3, in the second game of a doubleheader. The Pirates won the opener, 4-0, behind the six-hit pitching of Dock Ellis. The sweep increased their lead to 2½ games in the National League East.

And the reward for Dal Canton's fine performance? The bull pen, according to Pirate manager Danny Murtaugh. "Bruce will get one more start," says Murtaugh. "Then who knows what will happen. Steve Blass, who has been on the disabled list with arm trouble, will throw 15 minutes of batting practice tomorrow and if the doctor says he's okay, then he's back in the starting rotation."

In other National League action, San Francisco belted Cincinnati, 9-3, Chicago topped Montreal, 4-2, St. Louis blanked New York, 3-0, Houston topped San Diego, 8-6, and Atlanta rapped Los Angeles, 4-1.

In the AL, Cleveland shutout Baltimore, 4-0 in the first game of a doubleheader but lost the nightcap, 7-1, Detroit and New York split a pair, with the Tigers winning the first game, 2-1, and the Yankees bouncing back, 7-5, Washington beat Boston, 5-2, Kansas City whipped Oakland, 5-3, Minnesota edged California, 2-1, and Chicago belted Milwaukee, 7-3.

Al Oliver hit a two-run double in the first game and a two-run triple in the second game to spark the Pittsburgh attack. Willie Stargell slugged his 21st homer in the opener as Ellis boosted his record to 12-8.

'It's My Swan Song' Says Ken Venturi

AKRON, Ohio — Ken Venturi of San Francisco pulled out of the American Golf Classic yesterday aftre the first round and said he would never enter another tournament unless doctors can cure his aching hands.

"This is my swan song," said Venturi, 39, after carding an 80 on the Firestone Country Club course. "I'll never play another competitive round," he said. "I can't swing a stick and until the doctors can do something about it, until they say I'm cured, I've had it."

Venturi has won 14 tournaments in his career, including the U.S. Open and the American Golf Classic six years ago.

Another dropout from tournament was Napa's Ron Cerrudo, who like Venturi withdrew after the opening round.

George Archer took the first round lead in the classic with a 67 after Tommy Jacobs met doom on the "monster" 625-yard 16th hole. Jacobs had been rolling along at six-under-par through 15 holes when he ran into a triple-bogey eight on Firestone's most troublesome hole.

Jacobs finished at two-under-par 68, tied for second with Paul Harney.

FISH AND GAME

A Long Hike Reveals A Lot Of Little Fish

By AL GIDDINGS

With releases of water from Kent Dam to Papermill Creek and through Samuel Taylor State Park, the juvenile silver salmon and steelhead have received a shot in the arm, so to speak. You might wonder how many fish are to be found throughout Papermill Creek and its tibutaries, and just what role they play in keeping the runs of adult salmon and steelhead intact each year. And what is their value in dollars?

This past week, I spent some time hiking and spot checking fish from Pt. Reyes Station to Woodacre. It's surprising just how many fish there are to be counted along this area.

I started from Pt. Reyes Station taking counts and estimating the numbers in most of the holes and riffles all the way to Tocaloma, a distance of about six miles. The total number came to approximately 7,500, two to three-inch-long silver salmon and steelhead.

THEN FROM Tocaloma to the Lagunitas "Inkwells" below Kent Dam, a distance of five miles, I took a second count. Five miles is approximately 26,000 feet. Along every foot of the way, there was at least one silver salmon or steelhead fingerling. This then gives a figure of 26,000 fish.

From the "Inkwells" to lower Woodacre, another five miles in distance, even higher counts per foot were made. I finally settled on a figure close to 50,000 fish more or less evenly divided between silver salmon and steelhead for this area.

The total figure for the three areas came to 83,500 fish. I would say the figure is pretty close to being correct. Those 83,500 fish at 10 cents per fish, the present general market price, then give this fish run a market value of $8,350.

IN CONSIDERING their value to the adult winter runs, it is generally figured that 83,500 juveniles would provide up to 50,000 one year old fish that would go to sea. It has also been estimated that after the commercial and sport catches plus other losses, approximately one and one-half to two per cent come back to their original spawning grounds to restart the cycle from the sea. One and one-half to two per cent of 50,000 gives us a figure of 1,000 adult spawners that we can expect to return. We believe that our counts of adult spawners has been about 1,000 fish, so everything seems to fit the pattern.

Devil's Gulch Creek for a distance of two miles was fairly "loaded" with small fry. The total counts here came to approximately 20,000 fish, or about two fish to the foot along the stream.

GENERALLY THEN, the average live stream under good conditions can be considered a nursery area for silver salmon and steelhead with an average population of 5,000 to 10,000 fish to the mile.

Check this against the Fairfax-San Anselmo Creek areas, and one can readily see the difference. Pollutions of the water really takes a heavy toll. I doubt if we could get a total count of 2,000 fingerlings from Greenbrae to Fairfax.

UP AT Walker Creek, taking counts was difficult. Two miles of Salmon Creek, a Walker Creek tributary, were completely dry. One hole below the Dolcini Ranch Bridge in Salmon Creek on the Marshall-Petaluma Road had four 8-10 inch trout and approximately 30 juvenile fish. Even Walker Creek was generally dry in most areas.

SOME OF the catchable trout planted in Phoenix last week died, probably 100 or more. When the waters reach the high temperatures of the summer, then fish problems occur. Many of the fish were also being "attacked" by anchor worms, a fish parasite common to hot weather water. They are not dangerous to man, but give the fish an unpleasant aura. Probbly, the Department of Fish and Game will stop the summer plants because of this condition.

Raiders Working Overtime

SANTA ROSA (UPI)—Veterans of the Oakland Raiders have begun working overtime to get ready for the 1970 exhibition opener against the Baltimore Colts Saturday night.

The Raiders went to three-a-day practices Thursday and will polish up their offensive patterns and defensive alignments today on the eve of launching the new season.

Football fever has already hit the East Bay because there is only standing room left for the game. The final 1,000 vacant seats in Oakland Coliseum were sold Thursday to insure a capacity turnout of 52,600.

Offensive lineman Jerry Jones, obtained from New Orleans in the spring, became the first player cut from the 77-man squad. A Raiders spokesman said he reported out of condition.

Coach John Madden said Daryle Lamonica and Ken Stabler would take turns directing the Raiders against the Colts with George Blanda and free agent Kay Stephenson probably seeing some action.

Madden and his staff plan to give practically everyone on the roster a few minutes of playing time because the squad must be reduced to 60 players by next Thursday.

Defensive tackle Tom Keating, not yet in camp, will miss the exhibition opener.

Most of the other veterans will see action with the possible exception of flanker Warren Wells who has a sore neck and running back Hewritt Dixon who is nursing a muscle pull.
